bedside of John D. Long, who lies dangerously ill at St. Margaret's hospital, are of a character to give renewed hope of his ultimate recovery. The attending physicians and the few others in a position to know positively of the progress of the malady have heretofore been reticent, but the impression reflected from recent bulletins is one of encouragement and those in attendance make no attempt to conceal the fact that Mr. Long's condition is satisfactory from a medical standpoint. One who is admitted to the sick chamber said: "There is no doubt that he is better." During yesterday the patient took sufficient amount of nourishment without trouble and exhibited strength that was looked upon as gratifying. His mind was clearer than for a week past, and he was able to recognize those about im as well as to converse briefly. His emperature, which has varied slightly during the past week, was more nearly normal than at any time since the ritical turn in his illness a week ago. Interpreted in the light of the fact that previous bulletins have been noncommittal as to any change for the better, those of yesterlay were decidedly encouraging to an anxious public.

Dr. Spooner, who had spent Saturday night with the pa ient, was relieved returned to the hospital shortly after 9 at fully $5000. one and that Governor of improvement. Drs. Cabot and Cutler

Good Afternoon.

It is a wender the North Weymouth and Quincy Point patrons of the street railway do not have palpitation of the heart or nervous prostration, caused by the close connections made by the car with the Boston trains, especially the 9.13 in the morning. This morning when the train pulled into the station at 9.15 the car was in front of the public library. Some made a run for it. As the train waited all probably caught it, but it was too close for comfort.

Statue to Hancock

Legislature calling for a statue to John on Sunday afternoon. A supper and Hancock, the patriot, born in Quincy, initiation followed. Jan. 12, 1737. The bill was introduced by Representative Abram E. Brown of Bedford and is backed by petitions from many sections of the state. Mr. Brown has made a study of the life of Hancock, having compiled "John Hancock and His Book," and he feels as do many thoughtful people that the noted patriot has been most shamefully neglected in his own state.

The first to sign the declaration of independence; the man who served the itself a natural constit-Bay state as the first governor under the constitution, and whose residence was on Beacon Hill, should not longer be neglected, the petitioners believe. It is their desire that a marble statue of Hancock be placed in the vacant niche at the left hand of the statue of Gen. Washington, in Doric hall at the state house.

Hancock is memorialized at the national capitol by a marble statue, occupying a place of honor, but as yet the state of the patriot's nativity has no statue save that in the town hall at Lexington, provided by that town and dedicated April 19, 1875.

CHAPTER XI.

A DINNER AND A DISCUSSION. LTHOUGH dinner was served at Annandale House a little after 3 o'clock in the afternoon, in accordance with the ters were closed, the blinds were drawn the darkened dining room was lighted by numbers of wax candles in old fashioned gilt candelabra, from whose branching arms depended many glass prisms, which tinkled softly in the vibration caused by the serving of the dinner.

The table was loaded with massive plate which had come down from colonial days and even antecedent years in older countries, and it groaned with that profusion of viands characteristic of southern hospitality.

On the right hand of her father, as being the guest of honor, to celebrate | have us do? Submit tamely?" whose birthday the dinner was given, sat his daughter. Her slender neck and shoulders rose from a perfect billow of flounces of exquisite point lace, which covered the airy tulle fabric of her corsage, the ivory tints of her skin making sweet contrast with the dead whiteness of her dress. She had striven to control her rebellious curls, and an attempt had been made to part her hair in the middle and draw it down smoothly around her brows and over her ears, gathering it at the back n a handful of curls in which she had thrust a single belated red rose. But the wave that was in her hair would show itself, and the thick brown locks, resisting control, rippled softly across her temples. She wore no jewels, although her mother's casket in the chamber above was filled with beauti-

Opposite Mary was her friend and companion, Pinkie Peyton. Next to Mary, Boyd Peyton was lucky enough sat the Hon. Andrew Barry Moore, governor of Alabama, and Colone Jones Withers, the mayor of Mobile The governor, who was an old friend of Judge Annan, had come especially from Montgomery, the state capital, to honor his daughter. The rest of the company-which included Colonel Peyton, the Rev. Dr. George Bampney, the rector of Grace church; Dr. Lucien Venosste, a retired physician who owned large cotton plantations up the state, although he lived most of his time in Mobile: Senor Francisco Mendiota, a shipowner, an exporter of toacco and cotton: Mr. Owen H a leading lawyer of the city and state, and various other friends of consideration, together with their wives-were suitably placed about the table.

Though they were gathered together in festal guise and to do honor to the daughter of the house, the one subject that would obtrude itself was the one paramount in every heart. By universal consent the discussion, which waxed warm and persistent as the meal was dispatched, irresistibly turned upon the predominant question of secession and its concomitant, slav-

"Gentlemen," said the governor, a large, stout, well built, rubicund, blue eyed man, "you know my sentiments, of course. I telegraphed to the governor of South Carolina when the ordinance was being considered, on my own account, in my own behalf, of course. 'Tell the Carolina convention to listen to no compromise or delay."

"We indorse everything that you said, governor," said Colonel Peyton

"The state is with you," added Seno Mendiota. "Our cause is a righteous one, and t will prevail," remarked the Rev. Dr. Bampney. "Yes, your excellency," said the maygraduate of West Point, who was to see hard and brilliant service later in the war; "secession will sweep the convention on the 7th if the spirit of our Mobile people is any criterion. I votes cast against it." "One of that dozen will be mine," firmly interrupted Judge Annan. "What, judge!" cried the governor in surprise. "You are not one of Abe Lin-

do not believe there will be a dozen coln's men, are you?" "No, your excellency, by no means, but I do not yet see the necessity for secession. Abraham Lincoln, much as I dislike the man," said the aristocratic, distinguished gentleman, who was one of the very few in the south who gave the president his full Christian name, "and loath as I am to think that the president of the United States is of such common stock and ordinary breeding, has been legally elected in a hend any interference with the rights

"But," said Dr. Venosste, "he has stated that the country cannot exist half slave and half free."

"That doesn't make it a fact, doc- a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach

"The subjection of the black to the white was so intended, ordained of old," commented the venerable clergy man, sipping his wine.

"As to the question of secession," here interposed Mr. Hudson, "whatever the will of the president might be, he is restrained by our constitutional checks from any overt action." "True, gentlemen," said the judge,

"and, believe me, the liberties of the invariable southern custom, the shut- | south are not jeopardized by his election. The action of South Carolina was beneath the heavy lambrequins, and hasty, unnecessary, impolitic, in the tives at Washington, and while no anlast degree." This announcement was received in dead silence. There was but one heart that beat responsive to it around that table, young Peyton's. The face of the judge's daughter was filled with pain and shame. The expression on most of the others was surprise. Colonel Peyton with difficulty restrained himself from an explosion.

"What would you advise then, judge?" asked the governor, one of the most determined advocates of secession in the south. "what would you "Do nothing, sir. Pursue the even tenor of our way. Let any overt action, if there is to be one, come from -shall I say the enemy? Let the north show its hand first. I. for one, should deplore the dissolution of this great Union."

"Judge," said the mayor incisively, "you are right in the last phrase. When South Carolina went out of the Union. it was thereby immediately dissolved.' "'Tis a fact accomplished," said the clergyman.

"I fear so. Indeed, indeed, I fear so," said the judge thoughtfully. "But my convictions are as I stated.' "But your course, judge?" asked Colonel Peyton. "Gentlemen," said Judge Annan, "I trust that my patriotism is above proof. What Alabama does I do. I am a citizen of the United States, but first and foremost I am a citizen of Alabama. If she goes out of the Union, which God forbid, I go with her. If it breaks my heart, I must go with my state." "Oh, father," whispered his daughter,

'I love you for that!" Boyd Peyton's heart sank into the depths once more.

"Gentlemen," said Colonel Peyton, "if my old friend will permit me, I give you a health - the health of a man who subordinates his private convictions, his individual opinions, to the allegiance due to the state in which he was born. God bless her that she has produced such sons, and may all here do likewise!"

As he spoke he shot a meaning glance at his son where he sat next to Mary Annan. The toast was drunk with en-

In the ordinary course of events, with the termination of the dinner proper the ladies would have retired to the drawing room while the gentlemen lingered over their wine, but the subject under discussion was of such burning consequence to them all that Mrs. Peyton, vho had assumed the role of hostess for the occasion, sat still and gave no signal. The conversation that passed around the table between the older men had a body of feminine auditors so intensely interested that it was with difficulty that they kept silent.

"I knew, of course," said the governor suavely, as Colonel Peyton sat down, "that we could count upon you, and, indeed, judge, I think you are wrong. I am sure that an attempt will be made to dispossess us of our slaves summarily and to force upon us withconstitutional way. I do not appre choice which we now make, or will make shortly."

THE VENEZUELAN HITCH

Allies Now Considering a Compromise Proposition

NOT ENDORSED BY BOWEN

But He Is Not Likely to Seriously Object to It-If Adopted Allies Can Withdraw Ships From Venezuelan Waters Without Loss of Prestige

Washington, Feb. 2.-Propositions involving a compromise of the allied powers' contention for preferential treatment in the settlement of their claims and that of your cabinet in our adminagainst Venezuela have been submitted to the governments of Great Britain, Germany and Italy by their representaswers have been received as yet, there is reason for the belief that the allies will see a way to accept the latest proposition.

This compromise has been suggested by one of the representatives of the allies here and while it has not formally received the endorsement of Minister Bowen it is felt that he will not enter serious objection to its adoption, provided the United States and the other claimant nations outside the alliance can be convinced that their own interests in Venezuela will not be substantially injured by yielding to a plan which seems to offer a solution of the present serious hitch in the Washington negotiations.

The details of the proposition now under consideration by the three allied nations are not obtainable, but in a general way it is understood to be a modification of the allies' contention that they be recognized as Venezuela's preferred claimants in the payment of the indemnity. The plan suggested provides that for a short period, perhaps six months or a year, Great Britain, Germany and Italy shall receive exclusively 30 perent of the customs receipts of the ports of Puerto Cabello and La Guaira, and that at the end of this period, the exact length of which is yet open to decision, that ail the claimant nations be paid on the same footing, and at the expiration of that time the 30 percent of the receipts of these two ports be divided among all and hospital for treatment. the claimant nations in ratio based on the amount of each nation's ciain.

The plan is regarded as a compromise which will enable the allies to withdraw their ships from Venezuelan waters without a serious loss of prestige. Whether the claimant nations outside the tripartite agreement will assent to this scheme is not yet known.

France has it in her power to continue the present deadlock in the Washington negotiations. For while those unallied claimants have outstanding against Venezuela certain unadjusted claims, all prison for 11/2 years by Judge Thomas of the French claims are in a very forward state. France contends that, so far from assisting her in the collection of her Venezuelan claims, the blockade if anything has hampered her in that it has closed all the Venezuelan ports to commerce and has prevented for the me being the call ection of the 13 percent of the receipts pledged her by treaty. It is the hope of the representatives of the allies at Washington that in case their governments accept in principle the kind of compromise suggested they will not insist that the period for preferential payments be made so long as to prevent its acceptance by the other claimant nations.

Mr. Bowen has been assured that the representatives of the allies here will give him a final answer at the earliest possible moment. Meanwhile exchanges here are still in progress between the allied governments and their respective embassies here in the effort to agree on a plan of settlement that will be acceptable at once to Venezuela and to France, Belgium, Spain, Denmark, Holland, Norway, Sweden and the United States.

By his evident desire to take up the negotiations at Washington with all the speed consistent with prudence and good form, Baron Sternburg has gained from the Washington officials the same favor that made him a popular member of the diplomatic corps here many years ago. The fact that he asked permission to waive the customary presentation ceremonies, which ordinarily require several days, has convinced Mr. Bowen and incidentally the Washington government that Germany wants the Venezuelan question settled with all possible dispatch.

Minister Bowen called on Baron Sternburg yesterday afternoon and disish ambassador. The German minister ister also received a cal! from the British ambassador. The German minister has cabled at length to Berlin stating his personal views on the situation. It is not believed that he is averse to an acceptance in principle of Mr. Bowen's proposition.

Castre's Reply to Bowen

Caracas, Feb. 2. -In reply to Minister Bowen's inquiry as to what Venezuela intends to do regarding the demand for preferential treatment made by the allies, President Castro has telegraphed: "The Venezuelan government desires equal treatment for all the creditor nations in Europe and America, keeping in mind, in addition, its diplomatic conventions and anterior stipulations."

Withdrawal From Red Cross New York, Feb. 2.-Replying to the recent letter of Secretary Cortelyou, requesting that public announcement be made that the President of the United States cannot serve as a board of consultation of the American National Red Cross, President Barton of the society has addressed an explanatory letter to President Roosevelt. Referring to article IV of the constitution of the Red Cross, providing for a board of consultation consisting of the president and his cabinet and certain high officers of the army, Miss Barton points out that this provision was fully endorsed by President Arthur and his entire cabinet and accepted by succeed ing administrations.

Continuing, Miss Barton writes: "ff, in the continuing of your honored name istration of the Red Cross I have committed an error so grave as to merit a reprimand and be required to make an open denial before the world of privileges I have assumed, the powers I have usurped, the disrespect shown the honored heads of the nation and my unavoidable and deep humiliation thereat, I shall prove my good citizenship by exact and willing conformity with and obedience to the command by the publication of your honored letter and such replies as I have been able to make, in order that no misunderstanding of your relations can possibly occur."

The letter concludes thus: "Trusting that these concessions, faithfully submitted, may prove a sufficient notice and guarantee to the public of the disconnec tion which you desire from the organiza tion which I have so long had the pain to conduct, I have the honor to sub scribe myself, your obedient country woman. Modern House Hunter Clara Barton."

To Miss Barton's letter is appended the following from. W. J. Flather: "Dear Madam: Owing to increased duties at the bank, I find that I will not be able to continue as treasurer of the American National Red Cross, and beg to tender my resignation of that office to take effect on Jan. 1, 1903."

Army Officer Goes Wrong

Washington, Feb. 3.-Alexander W. Wilson was arrested at Montreal yesterday, charged with being an absconder from Manila in the sum of $8000. His case is likened in some of its features to the Neeley case in Cuba. He was employed in the coast guard service in the Philippines. The application for his arrest was made by the attorney genceedings and is on his way to Washington in custody of officers.

Bade Goodbye to Guardhouse

Detroit, Feb. 3.—Five soldiers escaped last night from the guardhouse at Fort Wayne. The fog was so dense last night that once outside of the building detection was impossible. Fifteen other prisoners who were in the same room refused to walk out of the opened

FURNITURE ECONOMY.

More care should be exercised in the buying of furniture than in that of any other household essential. Although not generally known there is a great variance in furniture prices even in the largest stores, and expensive city rents, costly deliver of goods, large salaries and small fortunes that are spent in advertising are all taken into consideration when the per cent. of profit that must be added to the cost of goods to show a profit is figured, and the retail price so common now a days called BARGAIN PRICES are marked on the goods. Some people have, what is known as the Boston buying fever—necessary in buying some classes of merchandise for obvious reasons,—but a serious costly illness when furniture or carpeting is needed.

It is not a dream, not a fanciful talk—but a solid cold fact—that furniture prices are lower at this store than at any other store in New England. Comparison of prices alone can convince you. It costs less for us to do business in Quincy than it does for others to do business in Boston. We are selling furniture at economical prices to the buyer. We are saving money for thousands of families in Quincy and surrounding towns. We can do the same for you.

LONG PERIOD OF UNREST Being Broken In Vermont by Voting on Local Option Question

Burlington, Vt., Feb. 3.-After more than half a century of prohibition Vermont is again face to face with the license issue and today the voters of the state will decide whether the cities and towns shall be allowed to vote on the question of permitting the sale of intoxicating liquors, guarded by high license, after March 1, or postpone local option until December, 1906.

The question submitted to the people is apparently simple, and each voter will only have to say "yes" or "no," and the decision is expected in far less time than in an ordinary election. But what that decision will be is a matter about which there seems to be considerable

As parties in the state, with the exception of the Prohibitionists, are badly split, the politicians are just as much at sea as any one, and it is only the leaders of the two sides who appear at

Each side has sent out thousands of pamphlets, circulars and cards, while every newspaper in the state has arrayed itself either on one side or the other. Opponents of the new law have made their fight largely upon its objectionable details, while its advocates have tried to keep the discussion confined to general principles, giving spe cial prominence, of course, to the mat ter of local option. Numerous other arguments have also been brought forth, both for and against the new law, until the doubtful voter is quite uncertain which way to mark his bal-

It appears to be admitted that had the question been submitted to the peo ple last September after Mr. Clement' strenuous campaign the new law would have been adopted by a large majority some degree, owing principally to the

The country cannot exist half slave, half ing upon the country horrors unspeakfree. They will resist secession in the north. The conflict is inevitable," said Hudson, slowly and carefully delivering his weighty words, which made a profound impression upon all by their gravity and accuracy.

"I agree with the governor on the one hand," said Dr. Venosste, a ed the mayor. "The right to govern rests in a small minority," said the aristocratic Mendiota, not having shaken off the ideas of his Spanish ancestry, the most persistent blood in Europe, "the duty to obey is inherent in the great mass of To Border Line of mankind. The real civilization of a country is in its aristocracy. We can have no aristocracy in the south without slave labor, and if we cannot have slaves without secession let us secede." "Gentlemen," said the judge, "I think Dr. Venosste is right. I have held similar opinions, and yet one circumstance has convinced me at least of the futility of any present hope of a peaceable, orderly abrogation of slavery. Neuralgia of Heart, Weak Stomach.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Her.

Neuralgia of the heart causes sudden death. It is an acute affection of the cardiac nerve, just as neuralgia is of the nerves of the face, usually, and sciatica is of the nerve trunk of the thigh. One of its most frequent symptoms is derangement of the stomach and liver. Strengthen the heart's action and enrich the blood with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure; tone up the nerves with Restorative Nervine and you will soon be cured.

"Nervous exhaustion and liver trouble so affected my wife's health that she was greatly run down; neuralgia of the heart set in and fun down; neuralgia of the heart set in and for a long time she was very close to the border line of life and death. She was attended by two good physicians, who did all they could for her, but in spite of everything she grew worse right along. One day I saw an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Nervine and New Heart Cure, and the doctor's explanation of the effects of nervous trouble upon New Heart Cure, and the doctor's explanation of the effects of nervous trouble upon the heart seemed so logical that I decided to give the remedies a trial. We now know that the stomach and liver troubles were part of the heart weakness. She improved wonderfully at once. Her appetite picked up, she slept well at night and the pain around her heart rapidly disappeared. Thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Cure in a few weeks she was able to be up and attend to her household duties, and in a few months every sign of nervous and heart trouble had vanished."

"And if the valor of our citizens were not enough," interposed Dr. Venosste,

"we have another ally." "And that is?" asked Dr. Bampney. "Cotton, sir! Cotton is king. We control the cotton product of the world. England and France, Europe, must be with us on that account if no other." "Suppose the north tries to blockade our ports, doctor?" queried Mendiota. "They could not. The task would be so gigantic as to be impracticable, and the powers would not permit it. They must have cotton. They can get it nowhere but here."

"You are correct, Dr. Venosste," exclaimed the governor. "Cotton is king, and we are the power behind its throne. But aside from that the fighting power of the south is vastly greater than that of the north, in spite of our disparity in numbers, for here every man is a soldfer. Shall we be allowed neither peace in the Union nor the poor boon of seeking it out of the Union?" asked Hudson incisively.

"You are right, sir," cried Colonel Peyton. "We must organize conventions all over the south, set fire to the southern heart, instruct the southern mind, give courage to each other and at the proper moment by organized concerted action precipitate the conflict with a first blow, which will give us an advantage."

"No, no. If the war comes, let them make it," said the judge.

Venezuela's Acceptance of Demands of England, Germany and Italy Would Encourage Hostile Alliances Against Herself-An Ultimatum

Washington, Feb. 3.-Herbert W Bowen, Venezuela's representative in the negotiations at Washington for a settlement of the claims against that country, has sent through the British ambassador here what amounts prac tically to an ultimatum to the allied powers of Great Britain, Germany and Italy regarding their insistence for preferential treatment in the settlement of their claims against Venezuela. This note, which the British ambassador received shortly before 3 o'clock last night, was cabled at once to London, copies of it being transmitted to the Italian and German embassies for transmission to Rome and Berlin. It is in reply to the proposition submitted at a joint conference of the negotiators yesterday afternoon by the British ambassador that the allied powers be allowed two thirds of 20 percent of the custom receipts of the ports of La Guaira and Porto Cabello, and that the United States and the other claimant nations, France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark. Colonists For Venezuela

Joplin, Mo., Feb. 3 .- "The Venezuela company," which organized here several days ago to enlist men for coloniza tion in Venezuela, has, it is stated, enlisted over 1000 men, all with military training. Applications for membership are pouring in from all parts of the United States and Canada. The company expects to secure large land grants from the Venezuelan government.

AFTER HALF A CENTURY

Vermont Has Become Tired of Prohibition Law

DECIDES FOR LOCAL OPTION

Large Cities and Towns Overcame Small Communities, Which Voted Strongly For Prohibition-Majority of 1603 In Total Vote of 59,739

White River Junction, Vt., Feb. 3 .-The advocates of local option carried the state yesterday and after more than half a century of prohibition the voters in the cities and towns of Vermont will, after March 1. be permitted to decide shall be sold in those communities.

The total vote, with 4 small towns missing, is 30,671 in favor of license and 28,068 opposed, a majority of 1603 for local option. The missing towns, which are all in remote districts, gave a total vote of less than 200 at the last election. It is a coincidence that Vermont voted for prohibition in 1853 by 1500 majority.

The question before the voters was whether a high license local option law passed by the last legislature should be accepted or rejected. The law as passed set the time for its going into operation on March 1, should the people accept yesterday, as they did, and on Dec. 1, 1906, should it have been rejected yesterday, giving two legislatures the opportunity of repealing the law had it been rejected yesterday.

The vote was much closer than was anticipated and the 1600 margin in a total vote of about 59,739 surprised even the local optionists. while, too, it brought chagrin to their opponents, who saw many chances where it might have been overcome. The big cities and rowns decided the question, for the little hill towns clung tenaciously to prohibition. The cities of Burlington, Montpelier, Rutland, St. Albans and Barre, with the village of Bennington, rolled up a majority of 6391 in favor of the bill, a total that the 200 little communities were entirely unable to overcome. As for the counties, it is singular that only six voted in favor of license, while eight were arrayed against it.

Although there was superb weather all over the state during the entire day the vote fell below what had been anticipated, which was disappointing to both sides, but especially to the opponents of the bill, who counted on suc' conditions to bring out the farmers in the hill towns. It was expected that the total vote would equal if not exceed that cast at the fall election, but in stead it fell off over 10,000. Still it exceeded that thrown for president in 1900, showing that the strenuous efforts made by both sides during the campaign had not gone for naught.

The returns of the balloting came in very rapidly and the entire state, with the exception of a dozen small towns was tabulated by 10 o'clock. From the first it was seen that local option had won, for although the first 20 towns, small ones, all voted strongly for pro hibition, the majority was more than offset by the vote of one city. A bunch of returns from large communities sent the majorit for license up to 3000, but it soon fell back again.

As for the ultimate result of the decision, it is expected that the little towns will continue in their opposition to the sale of liquor. The cities and large communities where the traffic has admittedly been carried on by stealth will, however, vote to grant licenses, although dealers will be compelled to pay a high price for the privilege.

The victory was undoubtedly due in a considerable degree to P. W. Clement of Rutland, who has worked unceasingly for over a year to swing the state to local option. The total votes by counties was as fol-

CROCKER'S WIDOW WINS Contention of Three Sons of Testato Not Upheld by the Court

Boston, Feb. 4.-A decision sustaining the will of Uriel H. Crocker was given yesterday in the Suffolk probate court by Judge Grant. The sons of the testator, George U., Joseph B. and Edgar Crocker, contested the will on the ground that it showed undue influence. The estate is valued at about $500,000. It was stated at the time of the hearings that the widow, who was Mr. Crocker's second wife and until her marriage had been a clerk in his law office, would receive a larger amount of money if the will were broken than if it were allowed to remain in force. The contestants based their opposition to the will on two grounds, that the testator was under the influence of an insane delusion, or else that he was unduly influenced by the fraudulent repre sentations of his wife to believe things which were false, and hence to make the will in question. The first contention was not strenuously pressed.

Have Sold Considerable Coal Below Cost.

Eben W. Sheppard, the Quincy mem ber of the coal firm of J. F. Sheppard & Sons was interviewed this morning y the Ledger relative to the charges against the firm by Mayor Bryant at the State House on Tuesday, and makes a general denial of the salient points.

Mr. Sheppard says Quincy was not only better supplied with coal in the spring but at all times, with the possible exception of Lynn and Marblehead, than any Massachusetts city. It was not true that Weymouth and

Milton dealers do not compete for

Quincy trade, because they do. We sold to the city in 100 pound bags as long as we owned a ton of coal. Or the same day we stopped selling coal to the city we stopped selling to our cusomers, except with the understanding that we would book orders to be de livered when the coal was received; also with understanding that orders could be cancelled if [coal could be obtained elsewhere at lower prices.

Mr. Sheppard also denied the statement of Mr. Bryant, which reported of Quincy citizens that he then had that appropriation, while those who At the meeting Mr. Patch stated that supply of 4500 tons of anthracite coal. there was then in the city 2,600 tons, and I at the time verified the statement.

In the list of petitions before the Legislature, says the Globe, are a large number for the completion of parkways and boulevards in different sections of the metropolitan district. These bills have been introduced each year for the last three years, and they were turned down in line with Gov. Crane's policy. During the first year of his administration he set his face against any appropriations for new parkways and False against the completion in several cases of parkways already begun. of parkways already begun.

But they are all in this year and there is said to a plan to have the committee this week. on metropolitan affairs report an omnibus parkway and boulevard bill which shall include all of the measures introduced.

It has not been difficult to get bills of this nature through the legislature, because the opportunities for log-rollng, on account of the diverse local interests, have been unusual, and with the forces united, as they would be if an omnibus bill is reported, the friends pension of $8. of economy would find it extremely difficult to prevent the passage of park improvement projects.

FURNITURE ECONOMY.

More care should be exercised in the buying of furniture than in that of any other household essential. Although not generally known there is a great variance in furniture prices even in the largest stores, and expensive city rents, costly delivery of goods, large salaries and small fortunes that are spent in advertising are all taken into consideration when the per cent. of profit that must be added to the cost of goods to show a profit is figured, and the retail price so common now a days called BARGAIN PRICES are marked on the goods. Some people have, what is known as the Boston buying fever—necessary in buying some classes of merchandise for obvious reasons,—but a serious costly illness when furniture or carpeting is needed.

It is not a dream, not a fanciful talk—but a solid cold fact—that furniture prices are lower at this store than at any other store in New England. Comparison of prices alone can convince you. It costs less for us to do business in Quincy than it does for others to do business in Boston. We are selling furniture at economical prices to the buyer. We are saving money for thousands of families in Quincy and surrounding towns. We can do the same for you.

fastenings of the blinds and tore them open. In a moment the assemblage poured out upon the porch. They had sat unusually long at the table. Night had fallen-the soft, deep semitropic night-with the stars blazing brilliantly overhead.

Out on the street the troops were coming. The lights from torches carried by negro boys on the flanks sparkled upon the bayonets. As they drew nearer the fifes joined the drums in that already popular song, "Listen to the Mocking Bird."

It shrilled through the dark and crowded streets. The entrancing strains rang above the cheers and shouts of the crowd. How handsome and mysterious the soldiers looked in the uncertain light! The old governor hesitated a moment and looked at her quizzically. "You can tell us now strely, sir," she cried, laying her hand upon his arm.

The governor hesitated still, but finally made up his mind. "My dear Miss Mary," he said at last with fatherly kindness, raising his voice as he spoke so that the whole assemblage could hear him, "we are going to forestall the United States troops day. I have directed the cavalry to arms to the military force of the state!" "And the cadets and the rest?" interrupted the young woman.

"They are going down to take and garrison Fort Morgan!" A sigh seemed to rise from the company on the porch as they realized the fateful import of the governor's words. It was followed by a burst of applause, but the drums and fifes were just opposite the railing now. The captain of the battalion took in the group on the after. A great roar of cheers burst from the men and women surrounding the soldiers and then the troops themselves joined in the acclaim. Above it all rang the shrill notes of the fife playing the "Mocking Bird," breaking into the night with its passionate cadence.

Far over the railing leaned Mary Annan. Quickly she tore the shawl from her shoulders and flaunted it toward the passing soldiers. Washington, Feb. 4.-There are as yet no advices from the allied governments respecting the nature of the next proposal they will submit to Mr. Bowen, Venezuela's representative, for a settlement of their claims, but there is good authority for the statement that the note of Mr. Bowen addressed to the British ambassador Monday night will result in an adjustment of the trouble.

At the British embassy yesterday the most important conference that the representatives of the allies here have yet held among themselves took place. Mr. Bowen, of course, was not present. DESIRE OF ROOSEVELT

A Factor In Adjustment of

Venezuelan Dispute

AN AGREEMENT AT CAPITOL

Would Remove Barriers Likely to Arise From Resorting to The Hague Tribunal-Allies Advised to Accept Three Months' Preference

Washington, Feb. 5 .- Every effort is making by the representatives of the allies here to secure an early settlement of the Venezuelan dispute without referring it to The Hague. In this effort the Italian and British ambassadors and the German minister are receiving the endorsement of Mr. Bowen, as well as the cordial approval of the government of the United States. It is understood that the president, while in no way connected with the negotiations, is peronally in favor of a final agreement being reached at Washington. This fact, it is believed, will have an important bearing on the decision of the British and German foreign offices.

The British ambassador and the Ger man minister have both cabled to their governments the fact that Mr. Bowen has expressed his willingness to give the allies preferential treatment for three months in order that they may emerge from the controversy without injury to their honor.

The allies have not get answered the ast representations of their envoys here urging an acceptance of this plan. Advices reached here from Berlin yesterday afternoon of an important nature, but assurances are given that they were sent prior to the submission of the last proposition and effected only detail of the controversy. Their be some days yet before a final answer reaches Washington, but all the negotiators feel hopeful of a successful out-

At a joint conference at the British embassy yesterday the three months' proposition was discussed at length. It was considered that the claimant nazuela if the Washington negotiations fail. While Mr. Bowen, in his note rejecting the last proposition of the allies that they receive 20 and the other creditor powers 10 percent of the customs receipts of La Guaira and Porto Cabello, stated that Venezuela would assent to the reference of this one point to The Hague, there is a streng probability that weeks would elapse before a preliminary protocol even along these simple lines could be drawn up. And once the question of settling the entire dispute at The Hague is raised Vene zuela stands ready to interject countless details into the protocol which the allies' representatives are quite sure they cannot allow to be arbitrated. All this will serve only to complicate further an ugly situation, and the negotiators feel that its main effect will be an increase of unrest throughout the United States and South America against the allied powers. British and German trade, it is pointed out, is suffering greatly from the maintenance of the blockade.

It is regarded as fortunate here that the negotiators themselves are acting in harmony. Early in the Venezuelan negotiations the British ambassador pledged himself to do all in his power to settle the Venezuelan dispute as soon as possible and all his efforts in this direction are receiving the endorsement of the Washington government. It is stated in an authoritative grar-ter that the president and the German emperor are both taking a keen interest in the early adjustment of the dispute, feeling that no good can come by prolonging the blockade.

Report on Campanile's Collapse Venice, Feb. 5.-The official report of the cause of the collapse of the Campanile attributes it mainly to the cutting of a trench near the loggetta without proper precautions. It was found that the materials used in repairing the Campanile at various periods had imperfectly cohered, but there was no subsidence of the foundations, which were in excellent condition. The responsibility for the disaster is divided between the official architects and the cathedral authorities.

Hospital Authorities Criticised New York, Feb. 5 .- A coroner's jury chosen to determine the cause of death of Joseph Gardiner in the Kings County hospital found that the man died from bi-chloride of mercury poisoning, administered by a convalescent patient, and added: "The responsibility is believed to rest with the hospital authorities for allowing an incompetent nurse to handle a deadly poison." The bichloride of mercury was given to Quincy Adams Mass. Gardiner internally, when it was intended as a lotion.

$4000 Wants County to Settle Boston, Feb. 5.-The committee ou counties of the legislature had an intion of Daniel Leonard, an Agawam farmer, who, having lost $4000 in a gold brick scheme, wishes the county of Hampden to reimburse him from the $5000 it received in the forfeited bail of persons arrested.

It was brought out that the perpetraclose of the morning service at the carriage shed in the rear of an Agawam church. J. L. Rice appeared for the petitioner and S. S. Taft for the county commissioners. Rice claimed that the case had features different from any Baker. money in causing the arrest of the parprecedent to be established by the repayment would be one of justice; while, would be to take advantage of a mere technicality and the practical saying to all persons in the future: "You simply cause a man to be arrested so that an offer of settlement to avoid prosecution may be made."

Mr. Taft told the committee that in the efforts that Leonard made to arrest the parties and in refusing a settlement he was only acting the part of a lawabiding citizen.

It may 24 hours in which to return to their benches with the assurance that they would not suffer any subsequent penalties. If they do not report for work within the time specified their places will be filled tomorrow by imported members of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union. Secretary White of the independent union says that the men on strike will disregard the ultimatum. Stones Thrown at Strike Breakers Lynn, Mass., Feb. 5 .- A disturbance occurred last night at the Herrick factory, about 200 men and boys stoning the 16 Boot and Shoe Workers' union cutters when they left work. This factory is on the outskirts of the city and no previous trouble near it had occurred. The cutters finally escaped by boarding a street car. FURNITURE ECONOMY.

More care should be exercised in the buying of furniture than in that of any other household essential. Although not generally known there is a great variance in furniture prices even in the largest stores, and expensive city rents, costly delivery of goods, large salaries and small fortunes that are spent in advertising are all taken into consideration when the per cent. of profit that must be added to the cost of goods to show a profit is figured, and the retail price so common now a days called BARGAIN PRICES are marked on the goods. Some people have, what is known as the Boston buying fever—necessary in buying some classes of merchandise for obvious reasons,—but a serious costly illness when furniture or carpeting is needed.

It is not a dream, not a fanciful talk—but a solid cold fact—that furniture prices are lower at this store than at any other store in New England. Comparison of prices alone can convince you. It costs less for us to do business in Quincy than it does for others to do business in Boston. We are selling furniture at economical prices to the buyer. We are saving money for thousands of families in Quincy and surrounding towns. We can do the same for you.

What the constitutional lawyers here are debating is why the arrest was not made in Canada and extradition demanded by the president. That some such purpose was originally in the mind of the federal authorities is obvious from the fact that an opinion was rendered by one of their law officers that in spite of the decision of the supreme court and the consequent action of congress fixing the status of the Philippines for tariff and kindred purposes as non-domestic territory, the islands are for all international intents as much a part of the United States as Maine or Texas: and hence that an extradition demand from the United States for the return of a fugitive from the islands would be recognized by any friendly power as much as if the accused party had fled from any part of the mainland.

Unless the action of the governor were immediately disavowed by the people through their representatives it meant

There was, however, on that account no hesitation anywhere. The approval of the governor's action as soon as it became known was well nigh universal. He had shrewdly taken stock of public opinion and was entirely sure of his ground before he moved. Indeed, from his point of view his action Mary, and then, "Do women cry when was soundly politic. If there was to be war, the quicker the south got in possession of the implements wherewith to wage it the better; and if there was to be no war, the sooner the valuable auxiliary to these defensive preparations-which some people believed might avert it-to be found in the forts and arsenals of the southern states should be seized, the better.

Peyton fortunately had time for a few words with Mary Annan before he left. As the assemblage was breaking up and as his mother and sister were putting on their wraps in the house he found himself alone with her on the balcony. He stood before her for a moment without speaking. Mary Annan's eyes shone like the stars above them. Her white figure melted it was that gave her courage. She was a creature of impulse at best. She took her lover's hands in both her own and with an instinctive gesture of passionate self forgetfulness pressed them against her heart.

"Thank you, thank you!" she murmured, not quite comprehending what she did in her excitement and emotion. "but I knew how it would be. I knew that you would be true to us at last." "To you, dear, to you," interrupted Peyton softly, wholly under the spell of her beauty, drawing nearer to her as he spoke.

"How handsome he looks!" she thought. Her head sank beneath the almost fierce intensity of his gaze. "Not to me," she urged, still not mistress of herself: "to the south."

"You incarnated that spirit for me tonight. Oh, how beautiful you wereyou are!" The words fairly rushed from him. "How I loved you! Tell me -tell me again. Have you no kinder word for me now, now that I am yours, now that I belong to your cause? Ah, sweet, I love you, I love you!"

She had released his hands and now stood silent before him in sweet if helpless confusion. Emboldened by her silence, by the yielding that spoke in her position, he stole one arm around her waist. She did not withdraw. She did not resist. She stood quite still. But her heart, oh, how it beat and beat! Washington, Feb. 5 .- According to naval officials there is no political significance in the dispatch of the four vessels of Admiral Casey's fleet to Amapala island. The state department suggested that one vessel be sent to the island to afford protection to American interests which might be imperiled as a result of the civil troubles which are threatened in Honduras, but the navy department thought that it would be a good plan to dispatch the entire fleet with directions to cruise together as far as possible so as to give an opportunity for sea drills and tactical practice. It is declared that it is for this reason only that Admiral Casey's fleet is going to Central America.

FURNITURE ECONOMY.

More care should be exercised in the buying of furniture than in that of any other household essential. Although not generally known there is a great variance in furniture prices even in the largest stores, and expensive city rents, costly delivery of goods, large salaries and small fortunes that are spent in advertising are all taken into consideration when the per cent. of profit that must be added to the cost of goods to show a profit is figured, and the retail price so common now a days called BARGAIN PRICES are marked on the goods. Some people have, what is known as the Boston buying fever—necessary in buying some classes of merchandise for obvious reasons,—but a serious costly illness when furniture or carpeting is needed.

It is not a dream, not a fanciful talk—but a solid cold fact—that furniture prices are lower at this store than at any other store in New England. Comparison of prices alone can convince you. It costs less for us to do business in Quincy than it does for others to do business in Boston. We are selling furniture at economical prices to the buyer. We are saving money for thousands of families in Quincy and surrounding towns. We can do the same for you.

ADDICKS IS OUT OF IT

Gives Up Fight For Candidacy For Senate

TURNING DOWN OF BYRNE

Showed Him the Futility of Continuing a Contest Which Has Deadlocked Three Sessions of Legislature and Split His Party Into Factions

Dover, Del., Feb. 6.-The sudden announcement yesterday afternoon that J. E. Addicks had withdrawn from the candidacy for United States senator, which he has urged so persistently since Old woodsmen say that they never be-The belief is general that the refusal of the United States senate to confirm United States District Attorney Byrne had the effect of bringing about Addicks' withdrawal. The Union Republican choice for senator in place of Addicks will probably be Governor Hunn or Secretary of State Layton. State Senator Allee, the Addicks leader, has repeatedly declared that he would not accept the United States senatorship. Mr. Addicks arrived here from Wilmington about 1 o'clock, going direct to the capitol. He was ushered into the parlor of the state house where all of the 21 Union Republican members of the legislature were assembled to meet him, together with Secretary of State Layton and Insurance Commissioner Marshall. The assemblymen received Addicks with cheers.

Immediately after Addicks arrived Governor Hunn, who is called the peacemaker in Delaware politics, entered the parlor. After the door had been closed those outside heard frequent bursts of applause and the rumor became general around the capitol that Mr. Addicks was about to withdraw from the most remarkable political fight in the history of this country, a fight which had deadlocked three sessions of the legislature and split the Republican party into factions.

This rumor was confirmed soon after 2 o'clock when the caucus adjourned. The caucuses requested by the Union Republicans did not take place last night. The claim was made that Addicks' withdrawal as a candidate for United States senator was for the purpose of electing two of his supporters. It is understood that the regulars, or a number of them, will refuse to enter the caucus because of this circumstance.

To the Democratic caucus which met at the Capitol Hotel to talk over the situation under the new developments, several proposition were submitted to act quickly and defeat the Addicks move. The meeting took no action on the matter, the members being disposed to await today's developments and see whether or not the regular Republicans will really join with the year began Jan. 21. The 21 Addicks men voted steadily for him, though there were temporary changes of one or two votes. The 21 votes of the Democrats were consistently given to candidates from that branch. A proposal that they unite with the regular Republicens in electing a Democrat for the long term and an anti-Addicks Republican for the short one fell through. The regular Republicans have prevented any election, repeating last year's deadlock, and threatening to leave the state without its senators for another year. The president's appointment of Byrne, Addicks' agent, was a severe blow to the regular Republicans, and a corresponding lift for Addicks, who expected to control the federal patronage. Presumably the senate's refusal to confirm Byrne has shown Addicks the futility of keeping up the

The withdrawal of J. E. Addicks marks the end, or perhaps only a pause, in his 12-year fight for a place in the United States senate. His campaign up to last winter had reached nothing better than a deadlock in the Delalegislature there are 21 Democrats, 21 | water are coming in steadily.

To Settle the Question of Preferential Arbitrator Will Probably Throw the Whole Case to The Hague

Washington, Feb. 6.-Irritated by the note of Minister Bowen, Venezuela's representative, addressed to the British ambassador on Monday last, refusing to accept the allies' proposal for a scheme of preferential payments by which Great Britain, Germany and Italy were to receive 20 percent and the remaining eight creditor nations 10 percent of the customs receipts of La Guaira and Porto Cabello, the allied powers have instructed their representatives here from England yesterday. He says that to submit the question of preferential treatment for settlement to President Roosevelt, and in the event that he de clines to act as arbitrator to take this and possibly the entire Venezuelan coutroversy to The Hague for settlement, thereby breaking off negotiations with Mr. Bowen.

> At the British embassy today there will be a conference of the representatives here of the allies. In view of the fact that the London government is now taking the lead in the negotiations the British ambassador will preside at this conference. The British ambassador was the first of the representatives to receive instructions to this effect and the matter was discussed at yesterday's conference between the three representatives of the

The strikers declined flatly to return under those conditions.

Long discussion failed to change the position of either side in any respect and the conference broke up. The news of the failure to come to an agreement gave general regret about town.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the nost dangerous diseases that medical men have contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of nfluenza (grip), and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. to Commission.

The only witness Thursday afternoon pefore the special committee of the Legislature on coal problems was ex-Representative Eben W. Speppard of the coal firm of Joel F. Sheppard & Sons of Quincy and Braintree.

He said his firm had asked committee for an opportunity to testify in answer to what Mayor Bryant had said about his firm, and the coal situation in the city of Quincy, and is reported by the Globe as follows:

He asked permission to take the stenographer's report of the mayor's testimony and answer the charges contained in that testimony separately.

He was granted that privilege and reading from the report denied in toto most of the mayor's statements. Several he qualified as absolutely untrue, and explained why he charged the prices he did at different times quoted by the mayor.

The coal he offered to the school comnittee at $14 a ton, he said he paid $12 for at his wharf and the expense of screening and handling it made the $14 price not excessive in his opinion.

After being closely questioned by the members of the committee in relation to his prices and expenses Representative Schofield got him to say that he had sold both under and above the Boston coal club rates. Then later the representative induced the statement from him that Boston coal club members had sold soft coal in Quincy to his customers.

READY FOR ARGUMENTS Counsel In Coal Strike Hearing

Thanked at Close of Testimony

Jan. 27.

Philadelphia, Feb. 6.—After a sitting of 51 days the anthracite coal strike commission concluded the hearing of witnesses yesterday afternoon and adjourned until next Monday, when it will begin to hear the arguments of counsel representing the several sides. The arguments will take up 51/2 days. In ali, the commission heard 566 witnesses. The stenographers took down approximately 9200 typewritten pages of testimony, or 2,300,000 words.

The attorneys for the operators and the miners presented some statistics on various subjects yesterday and Mr. Darrow announced that the miners' case was closed. This ended the nearing of witnesses for both sides, and in reply to this announcement Chairman Gray, speaking on behalf of the commission, said:

"Well, gentlemen, we have had a very protracted hearing. In some respects the hearing has been an unexampled one, I think, in the experience of this country. The commission has endeavored to keep wide open the doors by which testimony could come to us that would throw any light upon the various very serious questions we have to consider, and we wish now to thank the counsel on both sides for their cooperation and assistance in elucidating the complex questions that we have had presented to us.

"On the whole, we congratulate the counsel on the fairness and thoroughness with which they presented their several sides of the case. There has been much to excite feeling, much to appeal to the passions of men ic this matter. We feel that it is a matter of congratulation and that we ought to congratulate both sides and their counsel on the good temper, fairness and conciliatory spirit in which they have urged their claims and with which, by their opponents, these claims have been met and resisted "

Street Car Strike at Montreal Montreal, Feb. 6.-At 12 o'clock last night the street car service in this city was suspended pending the settlement of the demands of the motormen and conductors for more wages, shorter hours and the reinstatement of men who were discharged, presumably for their connection with the newly organized union of street railway employes. At midnight the men ran their cars into the barns and at 12:50 a, nr. not a car was moving. Under ordinary conditions a 20-minute service is maintained between 12 o'clock and 6 a. m. on the principal lines of the system. Manager Wanklyn states that the company will make no effort to operate the service until the men "come to their senses and return to work." THAT THE FOOD IS DIGEST. ED IS ASLO EQUALLY NECESSARY.

We Recommend Vinol as an Appetite Creator.

WE GUARANTEE THAT VINOL WILL AID DIGESTION

Vinol is the greatest aid to digestion that we have ever known.
It is because Vinol acts so beneficially upon the stomach that it accomplishes so much good. Vinol contains the active curative principles that are found in cod-liver oil, without any oil or grease. These medicinal elements act so favorably upon the stomach, that this organ obtains for itself the elements necessary for creating new flesh, muscle tissue and for making rich red blood.

When the stomach acts easily and naturally, a desire is created for good simple food and a good appetite is the sure result. With cod-liver oil as formerly taken the medicinal elements which it contained were too often unable to counteract the harm that was done by the obnoxious grease that enveloped

Now that in Vinol we have those same elements separated from the vile-tasting fat, we have a tonic and rebuilder that is simply marvelous in its action.

The following is a letter that will explain itself:
"This is to certify that I have used six bottles of Vinol, and have found it of great value as an appetizer and tonic in general debility. I have re-ceived so much benefit from its use that I gladly furnish this testimonial in order that others may be induced to give it a trial and prove to themselves its recuperative powers."—Mrs. ELIZ-ABETH FEENEY, Waterbury, Conn.

We want every one in this place to know more about our Vinol, how it cures and what it cures. Certainly the greatest tonic and rebuilder we have ever sold.

We, therefore, cordially invite any one interested to call upon us; and we want all to bear in mind that we will gladly refund to any one who is not satisfied with the action of Vinol every cent they pay for it.

CHAPTER XIV. THE SIFTING OF PEYTON.

H, but had things come right, after all? There are decisions water that washed the shores, the be a sacrilege. mountains that lifted their crests into the heaven, the palm tree, the live oak, the magnolia, the flowers that bloomed on them, the mocking birds that sang the association!-the woman was as in them, the cotton fields-aye, he loved the slaves that tilled them. He would give his life for the south cheerfully; but what was he to do? There are harder things than life to give.

comparison as to the station of the two in his estimation. His heart cried out for the state, for the south, but that something he could not define possessed him so powerfully that in the still watches of that long night it almost drove him to despair. He could not give up his allegiance to the United States. Yet he had, in fact, done so!

He had been carried away by the enthusiasm of the men at the dinner, whom from his earliest childhood he had respected and venerated, whose opinions he had prized, whose approbation had been his highest reward. There were good old Dr. Bampney, holy, saintly, learned priest, who had indoctrinated him in the mysteries of the religion he professed, and Dr. Venosste, and Judge Annan, and his fiery, noble, soldierlike, distinguished old father; there were the governor of the great state, the mayor of the city, educated at the sister school of his, at West Point, and all the others. Could they be wrong? And there was Mary Annan. Oh, what a picture she had made, standing erect and slender, with sparkling eyes and heaving bosom and flushed cheeks. the incarnation of that ideal of romance and beauty around which the chivalry and gallantry of the south centered! She loved him at last, at

The fire of passion which flamed in his own heart had communicated its heat to her. This glorious, radiant creature, just budding into womanhood, with all the passionate possibilities of unlimited devotion latent in her being, in her soul, loved him! He had swam as he thought of it. He had pressed his own lips upon those ribbons of scarlet that had mocked him in girlish laughter through many a day and dream. He had held her for one brief eternity in his arms unresisting. Almost he had persuaded her, she had said. The mighty change that he had prayed for had come over the girl. "Almost persuaded"—his own words! Good God, he had won her by proffering an allegiance he could not keep, by adherence to a cause from which his soul shrank.

It was out. He could not do it. Something compelled him to be true to the uniform that he wore, to the government he had sworn to protect and defend. As between state and nation. with every desire on earth leading him to state, he must choose nation. He had to do it! His honor demanded it! There was no other way.

Stop! How could be do it? It would break his mother's heart. He had been swept away by his own feelings. No one had forced him, he had been under no restraint. He had given a public testimony, almost a pledge, of his own free will. Could he keep it. Could he break it? What would his father say if he did? He had folded him in his arms a few hours since with rare and touching affection. He had blessed him. It would break his heart, too; yet there could be no blessing unless his own conscience approved of his own action.

And Mary Annan? The consequence of his surrender and hers rose before him. He had been a coward, a craven, a scoundrel. The kiss that he had taken from her, unresisted, burned in his soul. He had stolen it. Gratitude had struck at her defenses. The struggle that she had watched with bated breath in his soul, that she had stimulated in every way that woman could, had resulted, as she thought, in victory for her, for her cause, and in the sweet abandonment of the triumph she had yielded. A pilferer, he, a purloiner, a common thief, to have stolen upon false pretense the sweetness of a armory. They sent up a mighty cheer milk for the baby. woman's lips who had trusted to his as he passed them by and turned up ionor! That he loved her was no excuse. The deeper condemnation there. Honor! Was not his pledged, or was it already lost?

Under the spur of this acute indictment he wished, he prayed, that he might die that night, and but for the precepts in which he had been trained he might have put an end to a life which, in the decision forced upon him, brought misery everywhere, even stood in the light with the blue snawl fluttering over her head like a flag as the soldiers marched by playing the "Mocking Bird!" Yes, he must keep to the letter of his bond. Satan had bought him with a woman's heart, and-oh, the irony of pure as a child, as innocent as an angel. Sometimes a gentleman was called upon to sacrifice even his honor to a woman; perhaps this was such a call. Yes, he would do it. When he had He had sworn allegiance to the kissed her, he had given away the United States. Certainly there was no right to change. He would be a soldier of the south if it killed him. Please God it might. If war came, he should seek death in the front rank and end it all.

CHAPTER XV.

HERE came to Peyton during neither sleep nor dreams. He rose early in the morning. After his agonizing vacillations he had resolved to throw conscience and everything behind him and keep to the south: but he could not bear their congratulations and approbation at that time. He could not stand them. He called for his horse, and in the gray dawn galloped down through the sleeping town and out upon the old Shell

Down the white track by the heaving sea, under the moss draped live oaks, he drove his horse as if in rapid motion he could shake off the demon of uncertainty which clutched him again. Could he never make up his mind? he thought. He did not know what to do. In every direction seemed destruction. Meantime he could ride. He set his teeth hard and drove the spurs into his horse as if the physical effort could displace the mental struggle. On and on he sped.

Miles beyond the end of the Shell road he drew rein at last and stared out over the gray waters of the bay. rolling cold and leaden under the lowering sky. How different from the other day! The chill melancholy of the surroundings accorded with his feelings. But he was not cold. The blood morten riot in his veins and flushed his dark face a dull red color. His gaze turned at last toward Fort Morgan, invisible, of course, on account of the distance, yet he could imagine it. He had been there many a time, he had sailed every foot of water in that bay in his own boat. He knew it as he knew the shore, and Mary Annan had been with him often too. Could he never get away from her? The old fort, which for forty years had borne aloft the stars and stripes, today was under another banner. The troops of Alabama were in charge. His state, his troops, for he was one of them, arrayed against the United States! No, by the God above him. no!

He wheeled his horse sharply, struck his rowels deep into the quivering flank in unconscious cruelty and dashed back into the town. On and on he galloped, retracing his earlier ride. The trees raced by in rapid succession. Presently he reached the Shell road again, but there was no intermission to the wild gallop in which he urged his horse, and every hoof beat that crashed upon the white way hammered out "Traitor!" "Scoundrel!" "Blackguard!" "Lover!" and moved him not. Could he hold to this last determination? Was it in him to hold to anything at last?

He reeled in his saddle sometimes but drove his horse recklessly on. Presently he entered the outskirts of the town, and in a few moments he was in the middle of it. He held himself straight and checked the speed of his horse slightly, though he came down Emmanuel street at a rattling pace. The horse had grown as reck- milk. Sometimes the mother less as he. As long as he had strength he would run forward.

Extra Session May Be Necessary For Ratification

To Appropriation For Settling Alaskan Boundary, as Many Think There Is Nothing to Arbitrate-Morgan Obstructing Panama Agreement

are becoming fearful that it will be impossible to secure action on the pending treaties before March 4, and that in consequence an extra session of the senate will be called in the spring. The present plan is to call up the Alaskan boundary treaty first, because that requires an appropriation, and to get it ratified, if possible, in season for the house to join in providing the necessary funds. During the past few days President Roosevelt has had several conferences with prominent senators concerning the status of the Alaskan treaty, and has been informed that the opponents of the treaty will not permit it to be ratified. It was shown to the president and Sec retary Hay that the active opponents of the treaty maintained that there was nothing in the boundary question to arbitrate and that therefore they would not consider its reference to a commission as provided for in the treaty. In view of the situation as presented by the senate leaders it is understood that the president and Secretary Hay have practically abandoned hope of the ratihorse was led away Peyton mounted fication of the treaty because the opdoor. There has been a secretary of the navy to supply the senate copies of any correspondence that may have occurred between the naval officers of the United States and persons on shore in Colombia during the recent stay of American vessels in Colombian waters. Mr. Morgan's purpose in introducing the resolution is to ascertain whether there is truth in the report that the American naval officers made an offer of $3,000,000 to the revoiutionists to desist. He calls attention to the fact that the first treaty which the United States sought to negoiate with Colombia on the construction of the canal called for $7,000,000, whereas the treaty really negotiated calls for $10,000,000, the difference being the amount involved in the reports concerning offers to the insurgents.

Mr. Morgan also introduced a bill providing that no treaty with Colombia, ville last night from Washington, and Nicaragua or Costa Rica shall be held was herself so ill that she had to be toalter or modify the act of June 28, conveyed from the train to an ambu- 1902, regarding the Panama canal bill by which act an agreement is authorized with the new Panama Canal company.

New Bankruptcy Law In Effect

Washington, Feb. 6.-The president late yesterday afternoon signed the bill which amends the bankruptcy law of 1898. Under the existing law those who had received payments from a person who had soon afterward been declared bankrupt could not have other claims passed upon without surrendering the amount received. This provision was modified so as to allow the creditor to retain the money received unless the previous payment was fraudulent. Other amendments add to the list of debts from which a bankrupt cannot be relieved by a discharge from is weak; her thin milk does not bankruptcy. The new list includes debts to wife and children and alimony. The list of corporations which may go Emulsion changes all that, into bankruptcy is increased by adding To Accept Hobson's Resignation Washington, Feb. 6.—Secretary of the Navy Moody has decided, in view of Constructor Hobson's declination to reconsider his proffered resignation, to accept the same. Woman Convicted of Assault Salem, Mass., Feb. 6.-The case of

Mrs. Laura Charland, charged with assault with intent to murder upon Mrs. Aurelia Currier at Salisbury Beach, was yesterday given to the jury, which spent nearly all day in deliberation. Nothing to harm-all for While the jury was out an agreement was reached by which the government consented to accept a verdict of guilty of assault with a dangerous weapon, and this verdict was returned late in the afternoon. Sentence was deferred. # HILL'S BRIEF VACATION Asylum Officials Sent Murderer on an Errand and He Went Home

Boston, Feb. 6.-To the consternation of his family and the astonishment of the neighbors, Herbert E. Hill, who killed his sister and wounded his mother last summer, suddenly appeared at his old home yesterday, having escaped from the Worcester insane asylum. Since his removal to Worcester Hili's condition has steadily improved, and the authorities of the asylum believed bim to be so far responsible that yesterday morning they gave him a small amount of money and sent him on an errand it.to the city. It was the boy's first breath of free air since his imprisonment last August, and he could not resist the Washington, Feb. 6.-Senate leaders temptation so graciously offered him He purchased a ticket for Boston and

He was speedily handcuffed and sent to the city prison. He was taken to Worcester this morning. Hill was addicted to the morphine habit, brought no by dissipations of various forms, and on July 8 he killed his sister, Mrs. Frances E. Reilly, and also shot his mother. Judge Wait, on Dr. Jelly's statements, ordered Hill to the Worcester insane asylum.

Acre Squabble Nearing a Crisis Rio Janeiro, Feb. 6.-The Brazilian government has decided on the military occupation of Acre. Diplomatic relations with Bolivia, however, are not interrupted. President Pando of Bolivia proposes to continue negotiations, white at the same time marching upon Acre. The Brazilian government has ordered the troops stationed in the northern region to start immediately for Acre. A naval squadron left here yesterday for the Amazon river.

Giron Must Keep Out

Vienna, Feb. 6.-A meeting has been arranged between the former Crown Princess of Saxony and an authorized representative of her father on the express condition that she shall come to Austria unaccompanied by M. Giron. She will not be allowed to enter the house of her father, Ferdinand IV, but the residence of her brother, Archduke Peter Ferdinand, at Aigen, is being prepared for her reception.

Peerless Chess Player Boston, Feb. 6.-Dr. Emanuel Lasker proved his superiority as a chess expert last night by easily defeating 12 members of the Boston Chess club in si multaneous play. During the afternoon be nad as an opponent Abram A. Sussman, amateur champion of New England, and forced him to resign on the £7th move, although he had him really beaten on the 15th move.

Boers Buying Up Husbands Geneva, Feb. 6.-Swiss papers assert that the Boer secret committee in Europe is sending out, fully equipped and with their passages paid, French and German Swiss to the Transvaa and the Orange River Colony to marry the Boer widows and orphan girls, with a view to repopulating the country and preventing the British from becoming predominant. The Latest From Tangier

London, Feb. 6.-The correspondent of The Morning Leader at Tangier telegraphs that the escape of the pretender. Bu Hamara, is confirmed. It is announced, says the correspondent, that the American missionaries will start for Fez today. Some apprehension exsits regarding their safety.

Prince Edward Island Cut Off Halifax, Feb. 6.-Steamer Minto, which has been performing the winter service between Pictou and Frince Edward Island is frozen in the ice in Pictou harbor. The steamer Stauley is also fast in the ice, so that the island is without steam communication with the mainland. The Weather Forecast

an Angry Mood

MEN REMAINING AT WORK

Roughly Handled by Mob Upon Leaving Factory Where Strike Is In Progress-Punched and Assailed With Eggs-A Little Girl's Bravery

Haverhill, Mass., Feb. 7.-Trouble of a serious nature occurred late yesterday afternoon as the result of the strikes in this city, and two men were assaulted and roughly handled outside the Hilliard & Tabor factories, while other men who had remained at work in the departments of the factory affected by the strike were jostled and hooted off the streets by the crowds, two of the men having to seek refuge in the police

At 5 o'clock George Kief and George Eastham came out after their work, and were greeted with shouts and hisses by a crowd of strikers and their sympathizers. There were four police officers present at the time and the crowd surrounded the workmen, jeering and hooting them. The men were pushed about roughly, and as they did not dare to separate they proceeded to the police station, but before reaching the station they were hurled time and again against the buildings by the angry crowd. They managed to reach the station, but the only two officers at the station at the time were unable to disperse the mob. Officers patrolling beats were communicated with, and upon their arrival the crowd was dispersed.

Eastham, escorted by officers and followed by a howling mob, was taken back to the factory in search of his team. There another crowd was encountered, and the demonstration against him was continued. Later his wife drove up with the team and Eastham, escaping the crowd, entered the wagon and was driven to his home in Plaistow, N. H. Deputy Boynton escorted Kief to his home on New street, followed by a large crowd.

Meantime, Alec Bishop, who has remained at work, left the factory and a crowd followed and finally drove him into a barber shop. Word of this outbreak was sent to the police station and two officers went to the place and escorted Bishop to his home.

The crowd returned to the vicinity of the factory and were augmented by other shoe workers. It was then that the most serious outbreak occurred, and a posse of police was sent to the scene in a patrol wagon. Charles Woodcock left the factory about 5:30. The crowd immediately closed around him and Woodcock was crowded and held up against the buildings and then received several punches in the face. Eggs were thrown and a general mixup was threatened. Woodcock ran back to the factory, was jamined against the door, which opened outward, and more blows were exchanged. Benjamin Bouvier was jostled and assaulted by the crowd when he left the factory, and as no officer was near at hand his little daughter, Mabel, pushed her way through the crowd, and, taking her father by the hand, escorted him out of the alley. This unexpected action of the little girl temporarily checked the crowd, and they let Bouvier go to seek further opportunity for assault upon other workmen.

The temper of the crowds which have been congregating about the Hilliard & Tabor factory is growing worse, and it is expected that trouble will ensue when the factory closes today for the week. This evening more trouble is looked for when the men congregate in saloons about the city,

"When a fire is started with bituminous coal in the ordinary cooking stove, all the dampers must be open. The coal will then kindle quickly. Put the coal on in small quantities or the fire will be smothered. Keep the firebox pretty well filled and free from ashes.

"In a range be careful in starting a fire not to fill the firebox too full, as the bituminous, coal will swell or expand and raise the lids. Coke can be burned in precisely the same manner. "In fixing the fires for the night in a rules:

"First.-Have a good, strong fire.

"Second.-Put on fresh coal. "Third.-Let the draft on long enough to burn off the gas. This requires but a few minutes.

"Fourth.-Close all the dampers or, in other words, take off all the draft. "In the morning stir up the fire well with a poker, put on the draft, and a good, quick fire will soon be secured.

"The smokepipe in a range should not be less than six or seven inches in diameter. When less than that, the fire is apt to be sluggish.

"The flues, smokepipes and chimneys must be cleaned from time to time and the soot removed. The accumulation of soot in a stove or heater where soft coal is used is much greater than when anthracite is used.

"Experiments have shown," said Mr. Essick, "that soft coal can be used as successfully as anthracite and at less

ROOSEVELT DECLINES

Dispute With Venezue a

Tribunal, the Blockade to Be Raised Pending a Decision-Debtor Will Have Time to Collect Port Duties

Washington, Feb. 7.- President Roosevelt has declined the invitation of the allied powers to arbitrate the question stove or heater observe the following their claims against Venezuela over the other creditor nations. He reached this decision late yesterday afternoon and instructed Secretary Hay to dispatch a note to the British embassy at once advising the British ambassador to that effect. The matter will therefore be referred to The Hague tribunal. This will result in the immediate raising of the blockade.

The administration, it is stated in official quarters, was unwilling to approve the effort of the British government to eliminate Minister Bowen from the negotiations and, moreover, the president could not have accepted the invitation of the allies, even had he been so disposed, without the consent of the other negotiator, Minister Bowen, and this the allies did not obtain or request in their note of invitation to the president.

Preliminaries with reference to the signing of the protocol referring matters to The Hague for arbitration will be considered today.

Immediately on receipt of Secretary Hay's note announcing the president's declination, the British ambassador addressed a communication to Minister Bowen stating that he was suffering from an attack of grip and asking Mr. Bowen to call on him. Mr. Bowen went at once to the embassy, where Ambassador Herbert announced the arrival of his protocol, which he was prepared to submit to Mr. Bowen for signature. Later the German minister, Baron Sternburg, called on Mr. Bowen and announced the arrival of his protocol.

Two protocols are to be signed by Mr. Bowen with the Itahan ambassador, Street Car Overcrowding Condemned and two with the German minister. The first protocol in each case will provide for the reference of the allies' contention for preferential treatment to The Hague and the raising of the blockade simultaneously with the signature rage upon the decencies of life as well of this convention. It is doubtful as a menace to safety in travel. Having arranged for the signature of these first protocols the negotiators will take up the second protocols, which are to cover the manner of adjudicating the claims of the various creditor powers and the means for the acmunistration of the customs receipts.

It is admitted that some days may yet pass before either of the protocols can be signed, owing to the minor differences, but negotiations are expected

In administration and diplomatic circles the reference to The Hague is rein charge. It is explained that the patient garded as a victory for Minister Bowen, was a hard subject to handle and her as Venezuela thereby is enabled to recover from the distressing effect of the blockade before starting upon the payment of her debts. The cumbersome machinery of The Hague, it is expected, will delay matters considerably, and the payment of creditor nations cannot begin until the important question of priority payment for the allies is decided. The finding of The Hague tribunal may not be handed down for some months. The tribunal also will decide the vital questions to South American states as to whether blockades and bombardments entitle powers to preferential treatment at the hands of their debter.

Lay in a Stupor From Heart Disease.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Me.

The nails turning blue is a sign of defective circulation as is the bloating of the arms and legs. Other common symptoms of heart disease are shortness of breath from slight exertion, pain in or near heart, smothering spells, palpitation or fluttering, weak, tired and hungry spells, dreaming and nightmare, sudden starting in sleep. In severe cases the hrain, stomach, lungs, etc., may become so disordered as to mislead the physicians as to the nature of the disease. If you suffer from any or all of these symptoms your heart is any or all of these symptoms your heart is diseased and treatment should not be post-poned a single day. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is guaranteed to help you as it has helped thousands of others.

"I owe my life to Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. After four doctors met in consultation on my case, their verdict was that I had suffered from heart disease so long that they could do nothing for me and I would surely die. My brother said, "While there is life there is hope, we will try Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.'

When I began taking it my nails had turned When I began taking it my nails had turned blue and my arms and legs were bloated to twice their natural size, and I lay in a stupor most of the time. After the first few doses most of the time. After the first lew doses the dizziness went away and after three bottles I was able to go around the house and do my work. Both my family and my nurse think I would have been in my grave had it not been for Dr. Miles' Heart Cure."—MRS. ROBERT MORRIS, Sackets Harbor, N. Y.

ANTI-TRUST ARGUMENT

Closed In the House by De Armond and Littlefield

A REVISION OF THE TARIFF

Favored by Democrats, With Presi-Trust-Made articles-Republicans Think Publicity Is the First Step

Washington, Feb. 7.-General debate on the auti-trust bill closed in the house shortly before 6 o'clock last evening. The debate had proceeded since 10 o'clock in the morning. More interest was aroused as it proceeded and the closing speeches by De Armond (Dem. Mo.,) and Mr. Littlefield (Rep., Me.) were delivered to crowded galleries and to a very full attendance on the

Mr. De Armond said he realized how difficult it was to deal adequately with command, was not to be easily bailed, and therefore a solution of the problem required sincere and honest endeavor. He was one of those, he said, who believed that a revision of the tariff could accomplish much. He did not believe that the tariff sheltered all trusts. Still, if it would break the bones of any of the giant trusts, why, he asked, should the remedy not be applied?

Some on the other side, he said, openly admitted that the tariff should be revised in certain particulars. Why should not the bars be let down when the tariff had been made a sheltering place and a breeding ground for trusts. His side proposed an amendment to clothe the president with the power to suspend duties on trust-made articles whenever necessary to protect the public. Why, he asked, would not the other side join in the enactment of that

"Do you prefer," he asked, addressing the Republican side, "to trust the trusts rather than your own president? We are not seeking to destroy, but to preserve; to act as a bulwark to prevent the concentration and constantly multiplying monopoly which will finally crush out the American individual and make a husk and shadow of what was once his proud American citizenship."

Mr. De Armond said the bill reported from the judiciary committee was quite a different measure from that originally introduced by Mr. Littlefield. "When the gentleman from Maine started out," said he, "he had blood in his eye and a tomahawk in his hand. But by the time he and his colleagues caught up with the trusts they were smoking the pipe of peace. The sky was clear and the pickings were to continue good for

Mr. De Armond said that corporations should be made amenable to local courts as individuals were. The taxing power of the government should be 8 Bennington Street. Tel. 83-2 employed as it was to suppress state banks. The bankruptcy act could be employed as it was to suppress state used to throw trusts into court if they violated the law. He believed that members should seriously, without seeking party advantage, strive to place an effective law on their statute books. "The administration and the Republican majority in congress," he said, "will go far enough to satisfy the people that it seeks to do something for the people's good, but not far enough to hurt the people's enemy." Mr. Littlefield closed the debate for the majority. He said that no one seriously believed, with the existing constitutional limitations, that a bill could be prepared that would fully and adequately meet the situation. But he believed the committee had presented a "fair, reasonable and constitutional measure." He created considerable amusement by reading a most extravagant denunciation of combinations and then announcing that the extract was not from the speech of any gentleman on the other side, but from a speech of Sir John Culpeper, delivered in the English parliament 262 years ago. "They had 'em then," said he, "just as we have 'em now. I call your attention to the fact that there was no protective tariff in those days."

He traced the history of combinations back to 2300 B. C., to show, he said, that combinations always had existed and that there had been an outery against them. It showed further, he said, how old and how difficult the problem before congress was.

Speaking of the bill, Mr. Littlefield said it was not contended that the publicity feature was a specific or cure-all for monopoly, but only that it was a step in the right direction, helpful to the public in the three connections where corporations touched the people-namely, as investors, creditors and consumers. In reply to a question, Mr. Littlefield said he did not believe congress should penalize over capitalization. To do so, he said, would produce a panic. But publicity, he insisted, would acquaint the people with the facts, and the evils of over-capitalization gradually would be corrected. Towards the close of his speech, Mr. Littlefield was frequently interrupted with questions. When he concluded the general debate was formally declared closed.

REGAINS HER SENSES

Princess' Louise Leaves Giron That

She May Be With Her Children Geneva, Feb. 7. -The legal adviser of the former Crown Princess of Saxony

has made the following announcement: "M. Giron will leave Geneva this evening for Brussels, where he will join his family. Giron has broken off all relations with the princess in order not to impede the reunion of the princess with her children."

The sudden end to the royal romance is said to be due to the refusal of the dential Power to Suspend Duties on | Saxon court to consent to a divorce. It is reported that the princess sought her father's pardon in order to get permission to see her children, but was refused everything unless she quitted Giron. Her law; er visited Dresden, but failed to get any concession beyond the offer of a small yearly allowance and the promise, if the crown princess gave up Giron and returned home, that no legal proceedings would be taken against her.

The princess, realizing at last her equivocal position, became ill and pale and apparently was willing to agree to any terms. On the return of her lawyer from Dresden yesterday a prolonged interview between the parties took place, in the course of which the princess, in a torrent of tears, cried: the true question. Human greed, must see my poor children again." Her with the best human intellect at its | parting with Giron is said to have been very affecting.

Jury Secured In Young Case

New York, Feb. 7.-The taking of testimony in the trial of William H. Young, charged with the murder of Mrs. Anna Pulitzer last September, began yesterday, the jury box having been filled. Young was half dragged, half carried into court by a deputy sheriff and at once sank into a listless attitude. He was closely studied by an alienist employed by the defense. Justice Herrick announced at 2 o'clock that he would adjourn the hearing until Monday.

Morgan Scents War

Washington, Feb. 7 .-- Mr. Morgan continued his remarks in executive session of the senate vesterday, alleging that $3,000,000 which the United States paid to Colombia would go to the insurgents who made peace last year. Mr. Morgan predicted that if the United States continued its policy with reference to the construction of an isthmian canal, war with Colombia was inevitable.

Chamberlain Felt Insulted Bloemfontein, Feb. 7 .- Colonial Sec-

The fast schedule now made by the Lake Shore and New York Central limited will be utilized to bring the New England metropolis closer to the west. The through service will be perfected by the beginning of spring.

Fighting Begun In Acre

Rio Janeiro, Feb. 7.-The Acre dis pute between Brazil and Bolivia is becoming more serious. The Brazilian forces have captured Puerto Alonso, in Acre, where Bolivia has heretofore maintained a custom house. The Brazilians took 300 prisoners, who were taken to Manaos, where they were released by the governor.

Williams and Ledger Owners.

The cases, growing out of the publication of the charges made by Chief of the Fire Department, Peter J. Williams, against George F. Faircloth, and brought by him against Mr. Williams and the owner of the Ledger, in the Saperior Court in Boston, have been abandoned by Mr. Faircloth's lawyer, Mr. Edward J. Parker.

Mr. Faircloth's counsel had brought John F. Murphy, the newsdealer at the South Station.

When the actions were entered in court, the defendant's counsel, Paul R. Blackmur, filed a motion to dismiss on the ground that the suits for libel were improperly brought by trustee process, that such actions were forbidden by the Revised Laws of this Commonwealth, Chapter 189, Section I, and are not authorized by the common law.

Since the filing of this motion, counsel for Faircloth has entered a discon- which was heartily encored, Mrs. James tinuance in both suits. It is said that Mr. Faircloth may try again in another court or by a different process.

"Why, where did you ever see him?" John demanded in open eyed wonder. Again Gussie laughed. "His grandmother and mine were cronies at the springs," she said. "Don't you remember our going to the mountains? Those two old ladies thought I was born to take care of Jody. How I should have hated him if I had not been so sorry for anything compelled to suffer that name! He was so sickly and spoiled and just plain hateful along with it. Ugh! I'm sorry he's coming. He quite scorned dancing with me-said I was clumsy-but I always believed it was spite. I beat him so far when it came to climbing trees or even throwing rocks"-

"And you never told me a wo this," John said a little reproachfully. Gussie tweaked his ear, answering softly: "Of course not. You have been in love with Rose since you wore trousers. I wouldn't say things about your dear cousin that was to be, Jody

Six double sets were already dancing under the big bush arbor when the Radleys drove up. High above the dancers a string band played for dear life, while the leader of it called the figures in a loud, merry voice. Out under the trees other people sat, usually young people, fittingly paired and so rapt one in the other they had eyes for little else besides.

A slight young fellow, with a single glass dangling from his buttonhole, leaned against a near tree trunk, looking discontentedly about. He darted at Gussie and caught both her hands saying: "How dare you be late? You must have known I was pining for another real good fight."

"You cried 'Enough!' and promised to keep the peace ever after the last time," Gussie protested. "Besides, I do not fight enemies any more."

"I'm ahead of you," Fitts said, drawing her hand through his arm. "I not merely keep the peace with my enemies; I love them dearly-one of them

Madame turned away as though she had not heard. Softly Fitts held out his hands. Before Gussie could reach him John had leaped to her side and was holding her close in the face of all the world. "You're a trump, but mine is the older claim," he said, holding out a hand to Fitts, who wrung it hard. As for Gussie, she was too happy and Modifying a Bow.

Travelers received by the sultan of Morocco were at one time required to make the customary obeisance of the country, but that ceremonial is now omitted. The reason, according to Lady Grove in her "Seventy-one Days' Camping," goes back to a slight social awkwardness involved in carrying out that prescription.

A distinguished naturalist had been presented to the sultan, and as he bowed his head to the ground, instead of supporting himself with his hands, he placed them behind his back; consequently his forehead came against the marble floor with a loud bang, and he had some difficulty in recovering himself.

The sultan was amazed. "Has not the gentleman had the honor of entering the presence of his own sovereign?" he asked another visitor later.

"Probably he has had that honor, your majesty," was the answer. "Then," said the sultan, "he should have learned the art of making salutations without the occurrence of such accidents." Thereupon his majesty learned with astonishment that this lowly form of obeisance is not observed at European courts, and he immediately decreed that none but the usual customs demanded by European sovereigns should be required of Europeans when they entered or left his presence.

A Close Combination.

"They can get up combinations in the west to beat the band," said a Philadelphia drummer who had come in off a trip and had a shortage to explain. CHAPTER XVI.

PEYTON STICKS TO THE FLAG. EYTON staggered up the stairs somehow and went to his own room. He threw himself upon his knees before his bed, as he had done when a little child, stretched out his hands before him on the cover and buried his face between his arms. His body shook with tearless sobs. He could form no words of prayer, but in that attitude the thoughts of his heart went up to God in broken petitions. Into the agony of that soul the Master looked. To those unformed prayers he made answer. He had come to a decision final and irrevocable. He would do his dutyand he knew now what it was-no matter what happened, whose heart broke, what appeals would be made to him. Friends, family, love - they were all cast into the balance in that human soul and outweighed by another claim.

As he rose to his feet he picked up the letter. It was an official envelope addressed in a familiar hand. Eagerly he tore it open. There fell from it his long expected commission as ensign in the United States navy and orders revoking his leave and directing him to report at once to Washington. Such an order could only be met by compliance or resignation. With these official papers was a letter in a hand he knew. The name signed to it was little known outside of naval circles, but in a year the world would be ringing with it. It was an appeal, an appeal to his conscience, to his honor, to his sense of duty, from a brother officer, an old man greatly his senior in rank, who had been a second father to him; an appeal to his loyalty, to his patriotism as an officer, and finally an inspiring expression of confidence which was balm to his soul, and the theme of the letter, the text of it, as it were, was, "Stick to the flag!"

"Thank God!" he said, laying the letter down. "Thank God that I decided before I broke the seal!"

The music of a fife and drum came into the avenue and coming toward the house. The soldiers were accompanied by a great multitude of people on foot, on horseback or in carriages. What had Willis said? They had elected him their captain! Him! He "I-I-forgot myself." laughed, though there was little mirth in the sound he made.

Well, he would meet them fairly and frankly and boldly before father, moth-God they were all there! It could all traitor! O God, could that be? be done in one blow.

ifs mettle, and we have wanted no merely a commander of courage and of family to lead us-there are many in our ranks who possess such qualifica tions-but we want a man of expe rience, a man who has been bred to the profession of arms, who can teach us what we lack. It is needless to say that our thoughts have been upon you, Mr. Peyton, ever since your return to the home of your fathers last month. But, sir, you will forgive me, I am sure, although we were morally certain, we had no public assurance until last night as to your feelings toward the Southern Confederacy. But the story of your decision has been noised abou by your fellow citizens to our great satisfaction, sir. The company was assembled this morning and we held an election, and I have the honor to inform you, sir, that you have been unanimously elected to be our captain. God save the state of Alabama and the Confederate States of America!"

"Three cheers for our new captain!" said the first sergeant, stepping forth from the ranks as Johnstone finished his address.

"Stop!" instantly cried Peyton, in a clear voice heard on the very outskirts of the assemblage. "You are mistaken, gentlemen. In part, at least, I did in some degree engage myself to the south last night."

"In some degree!" cried a girl's voice, surprise and horror.

It was Mary Annan. "Carried away by the enthusiasm of the party," went on Peyton steadily looking down at the surprised, awe stricken faces of the men before him, although the sharp cry of the gir pierced his very soul, "moved by the example of venerated friends, an honbred father, and influenced by"-For the life of him he could not pre

There was a certain young minister in Maine who on his first charge was called upon to preach a funeral sermon over a woman. It was his first funeral sermon, and he laid himself out to make an impression and succeeded. The woman had had her faults, but the minister forgot them. This was to be expected, but he extolled her so highly that the poor bereaved husband, sitting there listening, couldn't recognize her by the description. Finally, in a glowing peroration, he pictured God and the archangels and the angels and all the hosts of the redeemed joyously forming a parade to welcome to heaven this "one of the very best of all women." The husband could stand it no longer, and, leaping up, interrupted him with beckoning hand, gasping out Bank Official Charges Robbery New York, Feb. 7 .- George Schanne was held for trial in default of $2500 bail in police court yesterday on a charge of grand larceny. Cohen, vice president of the State bank, was the complainant, and alleges that Schanne, acting in collusion with a former assistant note teller, who was also arrested, robbed the bank of $8500. The note teller is alleged to have given Schanne an account in the bank under a fictitous name.

Chinese Boss Becoming Cordial

Pekin, Feb. 7 .- Much interest has een aroused in diplomatic circles here by the action of the dowager empress on the occasion of the Chinese new year's audience yesterday. After set speeches had been delivered by Minister Conger and the dowager, she called the Russian, French and Corean ministers separately to the throne and addressed each of them with exceeding cordiality.

Impeachment Proceeedings Quashed Helena, Mont., Feb. 7.-The house judiciary committee, to which was referred the resolution demanding the impeachment of Judge Harney for malfeasance in office and high crimes against the state, yesterday recommended that the resolution be laid on the table. The report was adopted by the house and disposes of the impeachment proceedings against Harney.

Rev. J. Herbert Yeoman, formerly of Atlantic, resigned his pastorate of the TewksburyCenter Congregational church Sunday. Mr. Yeoman has accepted a call to the Richmond-st. Congregational church in Providence.

The Lowell Citizen says: With the withdrawal of Mr. Yeoman from the pastorate of the Tewksbury church, the town will lose one of its best leaders, and most progressive men. Not only has the minister endeared himself to the hearts of the people of his church, but his acquaintance has been sought by others in the community who have recognized in him, a personality that was strong and beautiful. He has been identified with all the movements of the town during the last three years, especially in educational and religious matters. The Twentieth Century club had Mr. Yeoman for one of its most energetic promoters, and he at the present time is secretary of that organ-

The town library has claimed much of his attention, and as secretary of the board of trustees he has necessarily become closely interested in this importtant department of the town's welfare. During Old Home week, the prominent part he took in the exercies of the town made it manifest to the people, that as a new resident he had stepped up to his full duty, both as a citizen and pastor, immediately upon his arrival in his new home. From that day to this, Mr. Yeoman has been a man sought for advice, both by his personal and political friends, and his experience has stood him in good stead in many cases.

FURNITURE ECONOMY.

More care should be exercised in the buying of furniture than in that of any other household essential. Although not generally known there is a great variance in furniture prices even in the largest stores, and expensive city rents, costly delivery of goods, large salaries and small fortunes that are spent in advertising are all taken into consideration when the per cent. of profit that must be added to the cost of goods to show a profit is figured, and the retail price so common now a days called BARGAIN PRICES are marked on the goods. Some people have, what is known as the Boston buying fever-necessary in buying some classes of merchandise for obvious reasons,-but a serious costly illness when furniture or carpeting is needed.

It is not a dream, not a fanciful talk-but a solid cold fact-that furniture prices are lower at this store than at any other store in New England. Comparison of prices alone can convince you. It costs less for us to do business in Quincy than it does for others to do business in Boston. We are selling furniture at economical prices to the buyer. We are saving money for thousands of families in Quincy and surrounding towns. We can do the same for you.

Islanders Perished

EIGHTY ISLANDS RUINED

Inhabitants Took to Cocoanut Trees When Water Began to Cover the Land, but They Proved Only a Temporary Haven of Refuge

San Francisco, Feb. 9.-News of a fearful loss of life in a destructive storm last month reached here yesterday by the steamer Mariposa, direct from Tahiti. The loss of life is estimated at 1000 persons. On Jan. 13 last a huge tidal wave, accompanied by a terrific hurricane, attacked the Society Islands and the Tuomoto group with fearful force, causing death and devastation never before equalled in a land of dreaded storms.

The storm raged several days, reaching its maximum strength between Jan. news received at Tahiti up to the time of sailing of the Mariposa it is estimated that 1000 of the islanders lost their lives. It is feared that later advices will increase this number.

The first news of the disaster reached Papeeta, Tahiti, Jan. 26 by the schooner Eimeo. The captain of the schooner placed the fatalities at 500. The steamer Excelsior arrived at Papeeta the following day with 400 destitute survivors. The captain of the Excelsior These figures comprised only the deaths on three islands, whose ordinary population is 1800. On another island, where 1000 inhabitants were engaged in pearl diving, nearly one-half were drowned.

washed out to sea. Makokan and Hao are depopulated. Conservative estimates at Tahiti place the number of islands visited by the tidal wave and hurricane at 80. A!! of them are under the control of the 69 French governor at Tahiti.

measures to relieve the distressed districts and dispatched two warships with 1.98 fresh water and provisions. The Italian man-of-war Calabria accompanied the French vessels on their errand of mercy. As the supply of fresh water and provisions was totally exhausted by the storm, it is feared that many lives will be lost before the relief shins white people were among the drowned. As the islands were barely 20 feet above sea level and were not surrounded by coral reefs it was necessary for all the inhabitants to take to the cocoanut trees when the tidal wave began to cover the land. These trees grow to an immense height, many reaching an altitude of 100 feet. All of the lower trees were covered by the raging seas, which swept with pitiless force about and over them. The natives in the taller trees were safe until the cocoanut roots gave way and then they, too, were swept out into the sea. The 400 survivors brought by the Excelsior to Papeete gained the ship's side by swimming three and four miles from the tops of the cocoanut trees. The Eimeo, though badly damaged by the storm, also brought off as many persons as could swim to her sides, she, like the Excelsior, being unable to run close to the shores because of the violence of the ocean swells, which con- 51 years ago. tinued to run abnormally high for a week after the tidal disturbances.

Killed and Burned Husband Monticello, N. Y., Feb. 9.-Mrs. La fayette Taylor of Centreville yesterday confessed to having killed her husband and burned the body on Jan. 25 to escape detection. Her story is that Taylor, who was a hard drinker, came home on the night of Jan. 25 very drunk and immediately began to abuse ber. She secured a revolver and when he attempted to take it from her it went of, the bullet killing him instantly. Her 14-year-old daughter witnessed the shooting and helped her mother to cut up the body in small pieces with an axe and burn it in the kitchen stove with the clothing of the victim.

Rio Janeiro, Feb. 9.-The Bolivian government has replied to the Brazilian government, agreeing to the Brazilian occupation and administration of Acre news that the pretender, Bu Hamara, territory pending the settlement of the dispute, and offering to send a minister plenipotentiary to Brazil invested with full powers to negotiate a settle-

Minister Brazil said last night: "The razilian government sent an ultimatum o Bolivia in February, to the effect that hould Bolivia attempt to make posession of the disputed territory of Acre Brazil would occupy and administer it until a reasonable settlement of the whole dispute had been reached.

"I am informed by today's cable gram from the Brazilian minister of foreign affairs that in answer to this ultimatum Bolivia has agreed to the Brazilian military occupation and administration of the contested territory of Acre to the west of the Yaco river. The Bolivian government advises us that they re sending to Rio Janeiro a minister with a special mission to reach a satisfactory solution by means of an agreement or by submitting the dispute to arbitration, as Brazil herself had proosed some days before.

"Porto Acre, the last point in the Acre territory, which was held by the Bolivian troops against the revolting Brailian inhabitants, was captured by the revolutionists, under Placido Castro, on Jan 24. Castro has been proclaimed governor by the victorious revolutionists and is ready to acknowledge Brazilian authority, I am advised. With the fall of Porto Acre there are no Bolivians left in the whole territory and the 300 Bolivian prisoners have been sent by the revolutionists to the Brazilian city Portland, Me., Feb. 9.-Snow fell all of Manaoa. Washington, Feb. 9.-The Acre dispute has caused considerable interest here and the news that there is a prospect for its settlement without recourse to war is exceedingly gratifying to all concerned. The Bolivians contend that the ownership of the territory never has been in dispute; that its sovereignty has been acknowledged by Brazil by treaty in 1867 by the appointment by Brazil of consular representation and by other acts. The grant by Bolivia to an Anglo-American syndicate, which is developing the rubber industry of the Acre tract, has been one of the questions which has brought the controversy to an issue. In Demands of Employes of Boston and Northern Railway Company Lynn, Mass., Feb. 9.-The reply of the Boston and Northern Street Railway company to the demands of the Amalgamated Railway Employes' union for recognition of the union, the rearrangement of the pay schedule and the righting of several alleged grievances is expected to be received today in order that the same may be presented to a meeting of the union tonight. The answer is expected to be of importance not only locally, but to all employes on lines controlled by the Massachusetts Electric companies. The Boston and Northern division employes initiated the movement and it is expected here that employes of the Old Colony division, which embraces practically all the roads south of Boston, will make a like demand within a few days. The chief itera is recognition of the union, and it is on this point that a hitch is anticipated. The Lynn union asks for a number of things, including an increase in pay, a rearrangement of hours of labor and a ew method of inspection. There is some expectation that the management of the road will make publie its answer without formally recogpizing the union. In such a case that answer is expected to be much like the announcement recently made by the Boston Elevated road, in which the employes are placed on a graded wage scale, with a premium for long and faithful service and made eligible to a

Cars Were Unmolested

Waterbury, Conn., Feb. 9 .-- The beginning of the fifth week of the strike of the trolleymen employed by the Connecticut Railway and Lighting company was extremely quiet and no violence was reported in any of the districts during the day. A light snow fell in the morning, which soon changed to a heavy downpour of rain, and this aided materially in keeping the people from the streets. The cars of the company were started out at the regular hour and during the entire day were unmolested.

Public Meeting of Strikers Amesbury, Mass., Feb. 9.-The strikng carriage workers held a meeting in the town hall last night, which was open to the public. The speakers referred to what they considered the unfairness of the manufacturers in refusing to recognize the union, after the union had recognized the Manufacturers' union when making the demand for higher wages. The officers of the union declared that the strikers are as firmly determined as ever not to return to work until their demands are granted.

Weavers' Strike Closes Mill Providence, Feb. 9.-As a result of a strike instituted by a few weavers in the Oriental mill here, who demanded an increase in pay, the plant has become seriously crippled by the spread of the disaffection. The plant employs about 250 operatives. As nearly half of the weavers are out the management have decided to close the plant, since operations cannot under present conditions be conducted to advantage. Vassalboro Strike Ends

North Vassalboro, Me., Feb. 9.-The strike of the weavers of the American Woolen company mill in this village has been declared off. The settlement is somewhat complicated in its construction, but the weavers are satisfied. There is to be an increase of wages, with a bonus over certain amounts each month.

This Week In Congress Washington, Feb. 9.-All indications point to the conclusion of the debate on just when in the week the change will come or how it will come. All senators are becoming very restless under the present conditions and it is evident the situation cannot long continue. The house will resume work on the appropriation bills this week. The session is so far advanced that minor matters have to give way for the supply budgets and other imperative matters. The friends of the currency bill are still insistent on time for consideration for their bili, but the chances for it are growing more slim.

Good Afternoon.

Why not let Commodore Willey be the arbitrator to hear the evidence and decide whether Commodore Bryant has slandered Commodore Sheppard.

It is possible that one of the Quincy parkway bills will be used as a test case to see whether Gov. Bates favors any Metropolitan parkway appropriations this year, as it was one of the first heard. However there is more injustice probably in Quincy's claim than most of the others, because Quincy people gave the necessary land for nominal sums, sometimes $1, but with the understanding that the parkway would be built in a year or two. The aggregate of the amounts asked of the Legislature this year for Metropolitan boulevards and parks is $2,520-000, which of course is all out of the question.

Personal.

Among the fire department news of the Globe we read: "William J. Walsh, the driver of ladder 7, East street, Meeting House Hill, is receiving center of which was handsomely emthe congratulations of his friends. His marriage to Miss Katherine L. McGinty of Quincy will take place in that city Wednesday, Feb. 18. Walsh makes a fine appearing fireman and was among the special crew selected to drill for the delegates of the Massachusetts state firemen's association, when that body convened in this city last October.'

CLEVER CAMPAIGN.

Scituate Liquor Officer Has Some Wonderful Squashes.

Mammoth squashes will play a prominent part in the no-license campaign n Scituate, says the Herald. Covered with appropriate inscriptions, huge vegetables are being distributed in place of campaign literature. They were raised on the farm of the towa's

The license question will be the keynote of the town meeting on March 2. For several weeks the license agitators have been putting in vigorous work in an effort to turn the town into the 'wet'' column. Walter Scott Harrab has made his fight against the illegal iquor dealers so hot that they want him thrown out of office at the March

Officer Harrub has taken it upon imself to distribute no-license "litrature" where he thinks it will do the most good. In connection with his duties as liquor officer he runs one of the largest farms in the Old Oaken Bucket town. Last summer, when his crop of squashes were small in size, he scratched various inscriptions across each squash with a sharp nail. As the vegetables grew, the sap oozed out of these scratches, forming raised letters. As the season progressed the squashes grew to mammoth size and are now the argest ever raised in Scituate.

"Rum, Not the Trusts, Will Ruin the Country," and other piquancies stand out on the squashes like the handwriting on the wall. The largest quash of the lot weighs 26 pounds, out the average size is near 21 pounds. To some persons they are being sold for 1 cent a pound, while to certain persons whose sentiments on the license question are known, Mr. Harrub gives the squashes.

"Rum Takes the Shingles off the Farmer's Barn, and Puts Patches on His Pants," reads the inscription on a squash given to one Scituate voter.

Mr. Harrub's reason for taking this original way of pointing out the advantages to the town of no-license i that the regulation campaign literature s seldom read. Squashes cannot bandly be thrown into the waste paper basket or burned in the stove or fireplace. The vegetables are among the best grown on the South shore, and as they are eaten at the dinner table are sure to provoke a discussion of the license question. One cent a pound hardly pays for the cost of raising them. It is the best vote getting scheme ever promoted in the town, so far as results are concerned.

"Whiskey Grows Weeds in the Farmr's Garden and Cob-webs on His Brain," was the sentence that startled a North Scituate resident.

The story of "Scott" Harrub is well known along the South shore. He was when $500 was raised to suppress the illegal liquor traffic. He made a vigorwith St. George and the Dragon, the ous fight, and was assaulted by several patron saint of England and the emblem gangs he had molested. Howard N. Dennen.

Councilman H. N. Dennen of West Gloucester, brother of Mr. Joseph W. Dennen of Quincy, passed from this Observations in Daily Walks of life to the land beyond, Sunday, Feb. 1, in the 48th year of his age, after an illness of 11 days from blood poison-

From a mere scratch which seemed slight at first, but which was aggravated by cold, the trouble spread and quickly became serious, and although there seemed at one time to be some improveiquor officer, Walter Scott Harrab of ment in his condition, the disease again became in evidence in much more serious form than ever.

As a last resort he was removed from his home, No. 12 Concord street, Saturday. In the afternoon an opera- ness. tion was performed as the last hope of saving his life. The operation was successful, but during the night the trouble again became in evidence, and he gradually sank until the end came at 10 o'clock Sunday, forenoon.

Mr. Dennen was a native and lifeong resident of West Gloucester, being the son of Nathaniel and Mary (Bray) Dennen, thus tracing his ancestors back down to 5 above. to the earliest settlers of the parish. The sturdy stock from whence he came found in him a worthy descendant, a man beloved and held in the highest regard by his neighbors and others who had been his friends since boyhood. To them he was, as to all, modest, unassuming, and a man of honor.

In 1902 he represented his ward in the city government, being elected to the common council, where he served with credit on the committee on ordinances and public property, also on the special committee on the Fourth of July celebration. He was re-elected last fall and this year was re-appointed on the committee on public property. He entered but little into debate, but was an energetic worker and wise counsellor in committee work. With the exception of one meeting held during his recent illness, he did not miss a meeting. and was always alive to the interests of his constituents. Among his colleagues the city government, he was deservedly held in highest esteem, his mild manners, sound judgment and eminent fair-mindedness, causing them to express their regard for him in n measured terms.

For years the deceased conducted a farm, and also a milk route in the city proper. He thus came in contact with many citizens and throughout the city gained an honorable reputation. He was a member of no secret so ciety, being essentially a great lover of his own home and fireside, and there found his greatest enjoyment in the company of his family, to whom his sudden taking off comes as the saddest blow. By his demise the city loses a faithful servant and citizen, the family mourn the passing of a loving husband and father, and the many friends, colleagues and neighbors will miss from the every day walk of life, an honest and honorable man.

He married Miss Ellen F. Gamage, who with one daughter, E. Maude, and HEROINE OF A WRECK.

Mrs. Harksen Tells of Incidents of Westfield (N. J.) Railway Disaster. The following incidents of the recent railroad disaster near Westfield, N. J., were described for the New York American by Mrs. Emma Harksen, the eroine of the wreck, who had the dead and injured taken to her home near the scene of the accident. In telling of the collision of the two trains she says:

It was the most awful crash I ever heard. It began like a clap of thunder and ended in a long, low moan. Instantly the whole train seemed to flare up, and, just like the action of a cider press, the locomotive crushed into the rear car, while at the same time men and women jumped, fell and were pushed ont of the windows.

I saw the people in the other cars jump to their feet and then fall back again, and then began the awful shrieks of the injured and dying. It all happened in a minute. Part of The annual meeting of the Quincy what I saw then I saw over my shoul-Yacht club was held Saturday night at der while I was running to Mrs. the Council Chamber, City Hall. The scenes were heartrending. One man who was carried looked at me ap pealingly and said:

It was just after one of the victims had died that I discovered a strange man, rather young, who, I think, lives in Westfield, bending over Charles R. Langworthy of Plainfield, over whom action the club would take in regard I had thrown a coat. I am not certain that the man intended to steal anything, but he was feeling in the pocket of the coat; so I said: "What are you doing there? Is that your coat?" "Yes," he replied.

A human arm was still hanging in the sleeve. "You have told a lie," I said. "Now, get away from here."

"Let me see," I said.

He didn't leave, so I ran over to the dresser, where I keep my husband's revolver, and, taking it out, said: "If you don't get away from here and

His hand went to the hilt of his sword; the blade flashed in the air as he partly drew it from the scabbard. "Stop!" cried the colonel. "Put up your weapon, sir! Your friends will need it, and on this porch we fight only with gentlemen."

"You are right, sir," said the young nan proudly, yet wincing under his father's sneer, thrusting his sword back into its scabbard; "they will need it, and they shall have it."

But his resentment at once gave place to other feelings. Those before him were his all. Might he not persuade them, justify himself?

"I can understand how you must feel, father-all of you," he said. "Miss Mary, you did persuade me last night. I intended to resign then. I kissed as ever beat in a man's breast. For that kiss I am deeply sorry, and I humbly beg your pardon. Anything you can say of me cannot be as deep as the recollection of it. It was evident that she scarcely knew what she was saying or doing, as she stretched out her arms to him. It was not love, but what was it? Jealousy, resentment, revenge, or what? The temptation was great. If he took her at her word, he might bind her to him. A week before he would have done it, he would have leaped at the chance; but now he was changed. It was different. Not thus would he win her. He showed his magnanimity when he spoke, and the girl, recognizing it, almost loved him. "I love you," he said. "God only knows how I love you. To call you mine, to win you for my wife, is the dearest wish of my heart. But I can't take you this way. You don't know what you are saying. It would not be fair to you. I wonder if you know what it costs me to say this? No, you can't know, but you will later. Meantime you must know, and by this, that I am yours, all of me is yours, and that the day you can say to me in your sober senses what you have just said will make me the happiest man on earth. Goodby; thank you, and God

He bent low over her hand, kissed it fervently and left her alone. A soldier and a gentleman indeed, and never nearer to his desire than in that brave renunciation.

"Oh, my God, my God!" she cried as she turned toward the house. "Was you're playing some game on ever woman so cruelly used as 1? And, shame upon me, I love him still!

No, no; I hate him!" Poor Peyton, poor Darrow, poor Mary Annan!

WORKING ON PROTOCOLS

fall upon the boards sounding like a Allies Anxious to Speedily Settle Venezuelan Matter

FIRST ONE ALREADY DRAWN

Proves to Be Very Satisfactory to Minister Bowen-Secret Pact In Force Between Germany and Italy-Idea Is to Give Italy Equal Treatment

Washington, Feb. 9.-The representatives of the allies here are busily engaged in the preparation of the protocols which they are to sign with Mr. Bowe. for the reference to The Hague of the question whether the blockading powers shall be entitled to preferential treatment in the settlement of their claims. The blockade will be raised when the protocols are signed. They are in constant communication with their governments on this subject and are anxious as far as possible to cover every detail which should be comprised in an instrument of this character.

Mr. Bowen also is anxious that the protocols shall be identical so far as this may be practicable, and he is directing his efforts to that end and also that they shall be signed on the same day.

Minister Bowen was in communication with the English and Italian ambassadors and the German minister vos terday. He saw Mr. Herbert at the latter's home, the ambassador still having a cold. From the instructions he has received Mr. Herbert has prepared the draft of a protocol which ne submitted to Minister Bowen. It was the first of three protocols which have been prepared and the manner in which it Venezuela's representative. Nothing seriously objectionable had been inound only one or two places where he elt called on to suggest any change. He is convinced that the ambassador is tious matter to a close and to arrange protocol which will be mutually satisfactory.

The Italian ambassador was at Mr. protocol and Baron Steinburg saw Mr. Bowen for conference regarding some feature of the instrument.

Minister Bowen continues optimistic of an early settlement and speedy raisno perplexing or vexatious problems may intervene now that the matter has he long before the whole question is settled in its primary stages, the raising of the blockade, arbitration of the question of preferential treatment and protocols signed for the settlement for the claims themselves, including those of the allied and of the unalifed powers.

Disclosures of a secret alliance be tween Germany and Italy constitute the most important development in the been made known to the British ambassador and it wili put all of the negolators more closely on their guard in the drafting of the protocols. The German-Italian alliance was old news to Mr. Bowen, the fact having leaked out in Caracas before he left there. Generally speaking the alliance is intended to secure to Italy the same treatment in the allies' settlement with Venezuela as that received by Germany and Great Britain.

Mr. Bowen has made it plain both to the British ambassador and to the German minister that he cannot affix his signature to any protocols they may present to him which are not substantially of the same character as that to be submitted by the Italian ambassador.

Regarding reference to The Hague, Mr. Bowen has informed the allies that he will not consent that one man be selected from the personnel of The Hague tribunal to sit as arbiter on the question of preferential treatment. He wishes that this court shall consist of three and preferably of five members.

Slain In His Office

New York, Feb. 9.-Louis Mandel, a dealer in old iron, was murdered yesterday in his office, his skull being crushed by blows struck with a heavy iron bar. The murder is supposed to have been committed by an Italian known only as "Joe," who was employed by Mandel and the last person seen with him and who has since disappeared. Robbery was evidently the motive of the crime.

Tendency of the Times. The tendency of medical science is towar was drawn was very satisfactory to preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been serted in its provisions and the minister fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia making every effort to bring the vexa- always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip), and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in Bowen's apartments on two occasions which this remedy has been used during the with reference to the terms of the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit con fidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest ing of the blockade. House Expresses Opposition to Sunday Legislation

RECORD IS NOT APPROVED Older Men of Boston and Northern

In the Case of Conference Report on Department of Commerce Bill, Presented During Memorial Session to Expedite Its Advance

Sunday to legislative activity was raised in the house yesterday, over a question that is likely to attract the attention of the Sabbath observing people of the country. The eulogies over deceased members, formerly delivered on Saturday afternoons, during this session, have been given on Sundays. Last Sunday, to save time, the conferees on the department of commerce bill held their final meeting in the forenoon and submitted their report in the house when it met for eulogies. Under a rule of the house a conference report must lie over a day, and by making it on Sunday the house would be at liberty to act on it Monday.

The house has often met for business on Sunday in the closing days of a session, but always under the fiction that it was a continuation of the legislative $1.19 day before. Its business has of record been that of Saturday. Y sterday the record gave this bill of legislative business as occurring on Sunday. When .69 the question of approving records came up, Mr. Richardson, the minority leader, argued that Sunday was a dies non in law and in legislation, and that the precedent, if established, would prove dangerous. Speaker Henderson ruled that the touse of representatives and absolute power under the constitution in that chamber and could make Sunday a legislative day if it chose to do so. He answered Richardson's point that the house had met under rule for the specia purpose of eulogies by saying that the house could charge its mind, as it had apparently done Funday. Richardson alluded to the precedent in special ses sions when it had been ruled that only pensions could be considered. The speaker said this was wrong and that the house was at all times the judge of Richardson announced that he would object to further Sunday sessions for eulogies, unless the record was corrected in this case and the conference report submitted anew. He appealed from the decision of the chair, and was sustained by all the Democrats and 10 Republicans, including Powers of Massachusetts, Foster of Vermont and Currier of New Hampshire. The appeal failed, 88 to 80.

A rollcall was then ordered. The motion was carried, 116 to 101. Mr. Hepburn insisted that although the house had just stricken from the journal the record of the action of Sunday, the fact nevertheless remained that the conference report had been presented. "What proof has the gentleman?" in quired the speaker. "The house has just stricken all reference to the action from the journal."

PROTEST FROM UTAH Reputable Citizens Think Smoot

Should Not Be a Senator Washington, Feb. 10.-Senator Burrows, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, has received a protest against the seating of Reed Patrolmen Valentine, Tyler and Joyce. Smoot as a senator from Utah on the ground that he is an apostle of the Mormon church and that as such he should not represent the people of Utan in the senate. The document is very voluminous and quotes liberally from the sermons, speeches and other Mormon utterances showing the power of the priesthood of the Mormon church over all matters spiritual and temporal. Senator Frye, as president pro tem of the senate, received a copy of the protest. It was decided by Senators Burrows and Frye not to present the protest to the senate until Smoot's credentials are presented, when both will be referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

The signers of the protest are resi dents of Utah. A statement furnished the committee gives the politics and occupation of the signers and a brief sketch of each, the purpose being to show that all of them are men of high standing in the state.

STRIKE UNLIKELY

Are Against Enforcing Demands Lynn, Mass., Feb. 10.-The Boston and Northern Street Railway company of which is in this city, and it refuses to accede to other demands made upon it by the employes, an increase of wages, Washington, Feb. 10.—The relation of rearrangement of running schedules and a change in car inspection being among the chief items. This demand was made upon the road some time ago and the officials replied last night. At 1 o'clock this morning the street railway men met to consider the reply. This city, Marblehead, Danvers and other nearby towns were represented. The company's reply is couched in careful terms and throughout there is congratulation to the men for their past excellent service with the company, especially in pointing out that in respect to other demands made, while they are of less importance, evidence is given that the employes have the road's welfare at heart.

After the mass meeting had heard the company's reply read, speeches were in order. It had been generally reported that the employes favored a strike in order to enforce their demands, but the indications in the meeting were that no such step would be taken. The older men spoke in a conservative strain and there seemed to be a general desire on the part of these men to wait until later to see if the company would inaugurate a graded wage system with a premium for long service and a pension list. The younger employes, however, spoke in favor of a strike and thus tie up the entire system. The younger men were frequently rebuked by older speakers, who thought that Lynn had considerable labor trouble and the results of strikes were not always enjoyed by the men who figured in them.

Haverhill Strike Situation Haverhill, Mass., Feb. 10.-The strikers are becoming restless and the police fear a further resort to violence. It is said that arrangements have been made by which the firm of Nicholson & Co. of Lynn will attempt to have their stitching done in this city. Ofstitchers will probably become involved 500 or so steerage passengers who bein the strike. Now that the union has made good its promise to import and put to work strike breakers, the independent officials threaten to extend the strike in other quarters. Big details of police were stationed at the strikeaffected factories yesterday. Their orders from the marshal were to arrest any one who made a demonstration and to keep the crowds moving. The marshal has also notified the officials of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union that wholesale arrests will follow any Officials of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union called upon Mayor Eastham and preferred charges against They declared that the officers had been negligent in not affording the strike breakers adequate protection. The patrolmen were also heard. The matter will probably receive further consideration, as no action was taken by the mayor yesterday.

Postponement of Demands Boston, Feb. 10.-The employes of the two large street railway companies in eastern Massachusetts outside of Boston, the Boston and Northern and the Old Colony street railways, decided at a meeting yesterday to postpone all action in regards to demands for an increase in wages until Feb. 23. Employes of the two systems have made three demands upon the company. First a substantial increase in wages. second a recognition of the union, and third, improved conditions on different lines. It is thought that the petty office can explain the presence of so many stowaways on board, but he has not been found. The escape of four of the Italian stowaways makes complete the case of conspiracy to evade the United | Gegraud, a French woman of refine-States immigration laws, and in a way the immigration authorities are not sorry, though one escape would bave done as well. These escapes are a serious matter for the line, as the United on the gas. Some of her acquaintances States laws mulct the ship $300 fine for state that she has been despondent for each excluded immigrant whom they allow to land.

To the ordinary person it is hard to conceive of 37 persons crossing from one side of the Atlantic to the other without a ticket and yet escaping detection. On a freighter this would be impossible, but on a passenger steamship like the Commonwealth it could be done. In numerable hiding places afforded them an opportunity to remain out of sight until after the steamship had started on her long voyage from the Mediterranean. Then all they had to do was to come out and mingle with the other has jurisdiction over this city, Central steerage passengers on board. Immigrant and stowaway were of the same | decided to make a demand for an innationality and all had the one object in view-to begin life anew in the land 10 instead of a 12-hour day, the new of promise. Therefore the regular passenger did everything his power to aid the stowaway in escaping detection. Once the ship was under clare that if this is done the local way they could mingle, and did, with the friended their fellow countrymen. Thus they were not discovered until a roundup of the steerage passengers for tickets disclosed their lack of these credentials.

Stowaway traffic has flourished ever gince the institution of direct steamship traffic with Mediterranean ports. With the Italians is has not always been a question of money that brought them here as stowaways. In fact, according to an Italian conversant with the facts, a steamer recently brought one who had paid many dollars in excess of the steerage fare for the privilege of becoming a stowaway. TEST CASE PROBABLE Baston Coar Dealers Object to Giving

Figures to Investigators Boston, Feb. 10.-The coal investigation now going on at the state house sesterday took on its serious aspect when members of the special committee desired to get some information regarding the coal dealers in Boston and man Apsey as to how long it would take to supply the information desired. The coal dealers all replied it would take from one to four weeks 'o give the committee the facts relating to the supply and demand for coal in Boston.

That a test case seems now probable was demonstrated at last night's hearing when Representative Skerrett insisted that Coal Dealer Diehl produce facts and figures relating to the amount of coal he had in his possession at the time of the strike, remarking at the same time: "Mr. Diehl, this hearing is not a farce. We want all the facts in your possession "

The Wellesley coal dealer promised to furnish those facts to the committee and was allowed to go. The coal hearings will be continued until such time as the Boston dealers will produce the books. Whether the committee will compel attendance is now under serious consideration, and contempt proceedings in the house may be resorted to if the dealers refuse to divulge the secrets of their books.

OBJECTIONABLE DEMANDS NOT COMPULSATORY

In the Nature of Preferential Treatment After Having Agreed That It Should Go to The Hague-Will Refuse to Sign Unless Changed

Washington, Feb. 10 -Although Mr. Bowen and the other negotiators are closely guarding the provisions of the several protocols, it is understood that the demands which are known to exist in the German and Italian agreements as they are at present drafted, which Mr. Bowen cannot agree to, concern an increased payment by Venezuela prior to the handing down of The Hague's decision regarding the allies' contention for preferential consideration in the settlement of their claims.

It is reported that Germany asks that she receive, in addition to the $27,500 cash that Mr. Bowen has agreed to pay, certain percentage of the customs receipts until the remainder of the $340,000, demanded in the origina! ultimatum addressed by Germany to President Castro last autumn, is paid.

Italy, it is believed, is insisting on a similar demand, though the amount a contemporary more magnificent than asked for in her ultimatum was over $500,000. CHAPTER XVIII. A WANDERER AND A VAGABOND.

N his way to town people passed Boyd Peyton in wagons or buggies and marveled at the unusual spectacle of a oung man in a naval uniform, carry continued his friend; "their passions ing a sword, walking with drooping head on the public road. One or two who recognized him stopped and offered him a seat. He refused these kindly proffers, however, with a silent shake of his head, so they were forced to pass by. When he entered the city, he found that the story of the scene had been repeated by those who had participated in it, and he had become a marked man.

He roused himself here, lifted his head up, summoned his strength again go." and walked boldly forward. People think my position is sufficiently secure ran to the doors of stores as he came to enable me to do what I please. And, along the street and stared after him, and there were women who looked at him with pity. Those whom he had known intimately in days gone by avoided his gaze, turned aside as he approached or else resolutely gave him the cut direct by looking him full in the face and giving no sign of recognition.

He was not entirely oblivious to the urroundings either, and there was forced upon him the necessity for a decision about what ordinarily would have been a trivial matter. Sometimes trivial matters in great crises save us from going mad. The train for the north which he had resolved to take did not leave until evening. It was not more than 2 o'clock now, and he did not know where to go, where to stay, during the intervening hours. He had almost reached the limit of his strength. Unless he could get some resting place he would collapse in the street. There was another duty to be done.

He must go to the bank. The little fortune his father had spoken of was rightfully his own. It had come to him through his grandfather, and he was resolved to take it. A messenger from his father's place had passed him on the road, and the matter was undoubtedly arranged. To the bank on Royal street, therefore, he turned his steps. Old Mr. Pleasants, the cashier, whom he had known from his childhood, who had always treated him with affectionate cordiality, met him at the door. The old man, without a word of greeting or recognition, sternly motioned him to a seat near the window and coldly indicated that he could remain there until the necessary formalities were concluded. The money, which he took in New York drafts, was fairly flung at him. He stepped out of the bank door and wait. You will see," said the doctor ooked hopelessly up and down the street. There was the Battle House, the principal hotel of the place. Well, why not go there? He resolved to do so. He noticed that the men shrank from him as he entered the rotunda and walked up to the desk.

"I want a room until this evening and a meal sent to it," he said, picking up the pen preparatory to signing his name on the register.

"Very sorry, sir," answered the clerk curtly, not to say rudely, "but we have no vacant rooms.

Peyton understood and, too proud to argue, turned and walked out of the hotel. In that whole community he ger, and ye took me in." seemed to be absolutely alone. The veriest wandering dog, the poorest vagabond out of the streets, could win more recognition and find more kindness than he.

Mastering the trembling of his limbs by a violent effort, he struck out aimlessly across the square, intending vaguely to go out on the Shell roadanywhere away from the observation of the curious, which galled his sens !tive nature beyond control, when he was accosted in kindly tones by Dr.

Venosste. "Good gracious, Boyd!" he said. "You are as white as death and trem bling like an aspen! Where are you

"I-I don't know," answered Peyton. "Come with me."

"I don't believe-you know-what I have done," said Peyton, resisting. "I know all about it, my boy," said

Dr. Venosste, with kindly insistence. "We don't think alike on some things, but you have a right to your opinions. I believe you entertain them honestly. If your honor calls you to take the course you did today, I, at least, shall never blame you. Meanwhile, you must come with me."

He turned the young man about, and they walked rapidly down Joachim street toward the doctor's house. "You must have something to eat and get a few hours' rest. If you don't, you will faint here on the street." "I must not do that, doctor."

"No, of course not," said the doctor. "Here we are at last. Now come in." "Doctor, who told you about-abouteverything?" Peyton asked as he sank exhausted in an easy chair in the li-

Tendency of the Times.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip), and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is when my end might come. Shortness of breath and smothering spells frequently caused me to sit up in bed at night and I was in despair. As a last resort I began using Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and Nervine. The first few doses cured my nervousness and enabled me to get sleep at night, after which my recovery was rapid. Women Stichers at Lynn Not Exempl From Assault

THE ABSENCE OF POLICE

1.98 Taken Advantage of by Mob of M n Boys and Women-Cutters Also Followed and Stones Thrown at Them -Many Cases of Rough Treatment

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 11.-Eggs flew thick and fast last night when about a dozen women stitchers, who are taking the places of strikers, left the George Quincy, Mass. a Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad train for their lodging places along the line of that road.

> They came out of the factory about 6 o'clock, escorted by three members of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, among whom was Michael J. McNally, who has already been the object of several attacks. Taking advantage of the absence of the police, who were watching factories in other sections of the city where it was believed trouble would be more likely to occur, a crowd of 200 had gathered in front of the factory and as the women stitchers passed along Broad street, this number was increased to thrice that number, many of whom were girls who had just finished their day's work.

> The crowd was very demonstrative and suddenly some one shouted: "Give it to them," and a shower of eggs hit the women strike breakers and they made succeeded in reaching the train shed of the railroad, many of them looking much the worse for their treatment by the mob. McNally and the two other escorts became separated from the others in the rush, and one of them drew a revolver and held the crowd back temporarily until they were able to reach the depot.

Word was sent to the police station, but by the time the officers arrived the crowd had melted away and McNally was escorted to Lasters' hall.

The demonstration against the women stitchers continued late in the evening and six were followed from Lasters' ball to the boarding house by a crowd of nearly 300. This crowd was made up of men, boys and women and there seemed to be a majority of women. Just as the stitchers were just about to enter the hotel there came a volley of from making an exhaustive inquiry into Croix, Ponce, Martinique, Fort de eggs which broke on the sides of the building and all over the piazza. A little later four women stitchers and whose cases are being investigated. It is also rumored that it is the inten tion to send them to Havernill. There were about 20 stitchers In to go to their lodgings for fear of violence at the hands of the mob, and they were escorted from the hall in small squads by the police during the night. Arguments on the application for an injunction against the Cutters' assembly, Knights of Labor, have been postponed to some later date. The city government will, it is expected, exonerate the three officers against whom the Boot and Shoe Workers' union made charges of failure to protect

The crowd continued on the streets until a late hour, but the strike breakers as a rule kept indoors, although there were several individual instances of rough treatment.

Two Men Attacked by Mob Haverhill, Mass., Feb. 11.-Two cutters who came here this week from Lynn to fill the strikers' places in Hilliard & Tabor's factory last evening were followed by a mob of 500 men and boys from a barber shop in which they were discovered to their boarding house One of them was struck on the head About 50 of the turned workmen who are on strike have secured jobs elsewhere. The reduction in the number of strikers is considered to be the reason why street demonstrations are become ing less noticeable.

Stone Throwing Decreases Waterbury, Conn., Feb. 11 .- Aside from a few stones thrown sporadically at the cars last night there was nothing unusual to record in the trolley strike situation. Sheriff Dunham is withdrawing his deputies gradually. It is building a i'ne of street railway from Worcester to Hartford, a distance of about 30 miles in Massachusetts and 30 miles in Connecticut. The Connecticut end of the line has already common carrier rights. The line passes over the old Worcester and Hartford turnpike. A great deal of opposition had been aroused on the part of rival street railway companies and the steam roads, but Mr. Taft, who presented the case for the petitioners, said that the business men and manufacturers of the towns through which the street railway is to run are much interested in having common carrier

Quebec Steamship company's steamer Madiana, Captain Frazer, which sailed from New York last Saturday with a party of excursionists for a special cruise around the Carribbean Islands, vent ashore on the reef off this island at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. The passengers had a thrilling experience. The ship is a total loss, but all on board were rescued and brought safely to land after a perilous trip in life boats from the wreck to a tug standing a mile off. The mails and the passengers' baggage were also saved. According to statements made by those on board the Madiana was threading her way in the night through the narrow channel between the coral reefs which leads to Hamilton harbor when she struck a reef 11/2 miles northeast of North Rock. No explicit explanation is yet forthcoming as to how the vessel went on the rocks, and the only information obtainable from the officers is that the light which indicates the channel. for some reason, could not be seen. All the passengers were in their berths when the Madiana struck the rocks, but the shock of the impact awakened them and they rushed on deck, the majority of them without attempting to dress. Considerable alarm, though not a panic, prevailed among the passengers when they found that the vessel was hard on the rocks, but the officers calmed them, although a number did not venture below again to seek proper clothing. A part of the crew did not share the coolness of the officers, but the latter soon restored order among the troublesome seamen. Distress signals were sent up and the passengers passed an anxious time during the latter part of the night. The Madiana listed heavily during the night, and when morning broke lay broadside to the wind. The passengers, many still Railway company, who want the right scantily dressed, were buddled together on the hurricane deck, and the sea, The witnesses included a number of breaking over the steamer, drenched that it became possible to effect a rescue. The crew of the Madiana launched a boat, but it could not live in the sea then running and was dashed to pieces against the steamer's side. A second and more successful attempt was made a little later. Some of the passengers were lowered into this boat and after much exertion it succeeded in reaching the Gladisfen. The Madiana's other life boats were then launched in surcession and the remainder of the passengers and the captain and crew gained the salvage tug in safety.

faid to Have Brought Vermont Mau $75,000 Without Paying a Cent

Rutland, Vt., Feb. 11.—Charles W. Norton of South Wallingtord pleaded guilty of using the mails to defraud in the United States court yesterday and was sentenced to 18 months in the house of correction. There were 10 counts in EXCURSIONISTS IN BERTHS the indictment, and Norton pleaded guilty to one charging him with securing goods of a Boston firm through the mails without intending to pay for them. The other nine counts were held open, as the district attorney refused to nolle pros them. Norton used letter heads representing himself to be the proprietor of a large department store, dealing in all sorts Hamilton, Bermuda, Feb. 11.-The of merchandise. He was arrested last October by postoffice inspectors. At the time it was claimed that Norton had been swindling merchants all over the country for more than five years, and that the total value of the goods which he obtained, and for which he never paid a cent, was $75,000. At one time he claimed to represent a mining enterprise, and sold 80,000 shares of stock to business men in different parts of New England, which stock, it was afterward said, was worthless. The amount of money represented in the indictment on which he was sentenced was $209.89.

Receiver For Home Purchasers

Boston, Feb. 11.-Burton P. Gray was yesterday appointed by Judge Barker as temporary receiver of the Prudential Home Purchasing association and an injunction was ordered restraining it from doing business until further order of the court. The concern recently started business in this city under a plan for buying homes for subscribers, but the method was complained of as illegal. The case is to be carried to the full bench of the supreme court, where the question of legality will be argued in March.

Engine Bumped Into Caboose

Rockland, Me., Feb. 11.-An engine with a snowplow crashed into the rear of a freight train yesterday on a steep grade near Warren station. Those in the caboose jumped before the crash came, and all escaped injury. Engineer Woodson was hurt, but his fmjuries were not serious. The pilot of the engine was wrecked and the caboose was smashed to pieces.

Infants' Hospital For Harvard Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 11 .- A gift of $76,000 to establish an Infant's hospital

Formally Accepted In Behalf of Venezuela

Due to Misunderstanding of Certain Steps In Negotiations-Italy Will Fall In Line When German Convention Is Satisfactorily Fixed

Washington, Feb. 11.-Great Britain's protocol, framed to secure a reference of the Venezuelan dispute to The Hague arbitration tribunal, has been formally accepted by Mr. Bowen for Venezuela. The German and Italian conventions are still undergoing revision, but assurances are given in authoritative quarters that they eventually will be made to conform in all essential respects to that of the British ambassador.

Owing to the illness of the British ambassador Mr. Bowen called at the embassy yesterday and personally signified his approval of the agreement to the ambassador. He then presented his formal note of acceptance and it has for burial. been cabled to the London foreign

Tendency of the Times.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip), and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevaleuce of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has pneunonia. Be on the safe side and take Chamber lain's Cough Remedy as soon as the cold is conracted. It always cures. For sale by all Drug-

Washington Correspondents Had Lot of Fun With the Banker and off and bought without orders. Gave Him the Most Remarkable Dinner He Ever Enjoyed-Bucket Shop Representing His Office Opened, With Guests as Customers.

"Say, Hanna, I had the time of my life last night."

"Beginning to like newspaper men at last?" remarked the Ohio senator. Mr. Morgan hesitated a moment and then replied, "I can say that I like newspaper men quite as much as they like me, but of all the dinners I ever sat down to the Gridiron club dinner last night takes the palm."

"You remind me of a parrot that once learned to talk the morning after a firemen's dinner at Akron, O. All You read about him every day he learned was: 'Oh, mamma, mamma what a time we had! Say, pop-ha,ha,

This is part of a conversation that took place about 10 o'clock the other morning in Washington when J. Pierpont Morgan and Senator Hanna of Ohio, two of the subjects of much of the mockery and jest that prevailed at the Gridiron club dinner the night bethe Gridiron club dinner the night be-fore, met at the breakfast table in the But when he tackled Teddy he ran up Arlington hotel, says the New York Herald.

Mr. Morgan had been the feature of the dinner. He accepted the invitation several weeks ago when the Gridiron club decided to make its annual din ner a feast to "the captains of indus-

The Gridiron club, which is com posed of Washington newspaper corre spondents and has entertained every president who has been in the White House during nearly twenty years, always makes a great feature of its annual dinner. The members are no respecters of dignity. Every man who attends its dinners, even the president knows perfectly well that the humor ous side of his character will be por trayed in one way or another.

It is all very good sport. It is given in fun and received in fun. One of the rules of the club is. "Ladies are a ways present; reporters never." This means that coarse jest or insinuation is never permitted and that any speaker can use the utmost freedom of expression without fear of his words being printed or repeated beyond the walls of the banquet hall.

When the guests were seated, Mr. Morgan found himself at the left hand of William E. Curtis, the new president of the club. The tables had been arranged in the form of an enormous gridiron. Each guest found before him a small golden easel, to which was at tached a gridiron calendar. Each of a dozen prominent guests had his picture published under some month with an appropriate verse.

February had been reserved for Mr Morgan, who was depicted with for eign potentates kneeling around him each offering his crown to the great American financier. This verse accompanied Mr. Morgan's picture:

Though kings and nabobs s'lam, Our king is as close as a clam; They may offer their crowns,

But Morgan he doesn't care Senator Gorman was accorded March He was mounted on a Democratic don key, with a finger and a smile both pointed in the direction of the capitol and this is what the calendar said about Senator Gorman:

Arthur Pue, Arthur Pue, What in the world's the matter with you? We heard of you downed, Unseated, uncrowned

And now you are back with the gridiror A. J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, figured under April. He was depicted as placing an elabo rate union station at the center of con verging railroad lines. The verse read There was a good man called Cassatt, Who never knew where he was at Till he promised a station That beat all creation, And then he remarked, "Island Pat."

Clement A. Griscom, president of the International Steamship combination appeared as May and was dressed in a ailor suit. Mr. Griscom was trimmed up in this style:

Little Bo Pips has lost his ships
And doesn't know where to find them.
Let them alone, and they will come home
With a subsidy behind them. Senator Hanna, as June, was dressed as a circus clown leading the G. O. P. elephant, astride of which sat President Roosevelt. Senator Hanna marched to this music: The slickest man in all the show Marcus A. Hanna stands. He says no word; he has, you know, An elephant on his hands.

Shafts began to fly at the heads of the "captains of industry" when the president of the club was inaugurated. Ferdinand and Isabella appeared on the throne of Spain, and Columbus was brought in to give an account of his wanderings and discoveries. He was asked by the queen what he bad done with the money raised by "hocking" her diamonds. He replied in fear and trembling that he had dropped it all in "United States steal." He announced that he had discovered a trust during his wandering, which was a "bunch of money entirely surrounded by water," and an arbitration, which ent of the New York World, was "a conference for keeping coal at

And the price was twelve per ton The union of the "Lily Whites" and "Black and Tans" was effected by the initiation into the club of J. K. Ohl of Atlanta and J. P. Miller of Baltimore the two "baby members" of the club While quietly eating their dinner thes men were set upon by a mob of angry northern and southern editors, carry ing ropes and uttering the wildes threats of torture and hanging. The offending members were dragged to the center of the room and charged with being carpetbaggers who were trying to direct southern affairs. They were known as "J. Clarkson Ohl, leader of the 'Lily Whites,' " and "J Pritchard Miller, leader of the 'Black and Tans." A sheriff rescued the men from the mob after Colonel Henry Watterson and Mr. Clark Howell impersonated by leading members of the club, had advocated their death by incendiary speeches. By giving the Gridiron club as surety they were re leased on the promise to go linked through life with a colored brother. Much to the surprise of Secretary Cortelyou, who was one of the guests his well known colored messenger, Arthur Simmons, appeared, and to him the "baby members" of the club were bound by broad silk ribbons of black and white, the club colors. The presi dent of the club then announced that places had been prepared at the table for the club members, but that their companions would have to be cared for on the other side of Lafayette square in the White House. When the dinner was concluded, Mr.

Morgan expressed himself as very much pleased with the entertainment and for a long time listened to stories of good things that had been done at previous dinners. He will possibly be frequent guest in the future. Gold Plated Ax For Officeseekers.

She had developed strangely since that | to her senses again. As she had done on that never to be forgotten night, she resolutely dried her tears and opened the window and stepped upon the gallery. The soldiers were making a parade through the town before they marched away. They were far up th street now. The music came to he faintly. The band was playing "Dixle," a tune which had thrilled and wa to thrill half a continent with its in fectious melody and which was to b enshrined in southern hearts until the day of judgment should come.

Presently the music stopped, and the adence was kept up by the rattling of the drums. They were nearer now. The streets were full of people, black and white, rich and poor, high and low, cheering and shouting madly. It was a sunny, brilliant afternoon. The lights sparkled upon the bayonets flashed from the brass buttons, gleam ed on the officers' swords. There was the regiment itself, some of the com panies already uniformed in the then unfamiliar Confederate gray, and following it were the escorting compa nies, soon to march to the front them selves in answer to similar calls. The troops represented every nationality that made up the composite town. The city which had known four flags-the French, the Spanish, the English and the United States-was now under the fifth-the stars and bars borne by the color company in the front of the line.

As the troops approached her the sound of the cheering grew in volume until as they passed the place where she stood it was a perfect roar. Yet not everybody was cheering. The regimen would write its name high upon the roll of heroic organizations; its children would sleep till the eternal awakening on many bloody fields from the Rappahannock to the Mississippi Peace to them! Glory to them!

Thoughts of this kind rose in the mind of the girl and almost choked her. There at the head was little Colonel Withers, with Lieutenant Colonel Lomax, and there, looking straight to the front, like the soldier he was, rode her lover. She stared at him so intensely that for one brief moment his face swerved and he shot one look at her. The glance was so fraught with

Turf Investors Rattled

St. Louis, Feb. 11.-Crowds of men and women filled the offices of several co-operative turf companies yesterday afternoon. All were excited and demanded the return of their investments. A squad of police was detailed to prevent any trouble. Several women fainted in the crowds. The managers of the several concerns now experience ing a run on their treasuries are unani mous in their individual declaration that they are solvent. These companies have been paying from 2 to 5 percent dividends each week.

Chicago May Have Railway Strike Chicago, Feb. 11.—By action taken by the employes of the Chicago City Railroad company a general strike on all lines of that system is made possible. The union last night formulated an ultimatum to be presented to General Manager McCullouch and if he shall decline to grant any of the requests contained therein the committee which will wait upon him will report back to the union in favor of a strike on all

Princess Realizes Her Folly

Munich, Feb. 11.-The former Crown law to read the "United States is." Princess of Saxony has written to an intimate friend, a member of the Bavarian royal family, bitterly complaining of the irreconciliable spirit shown by her own and her nusband's family. The princess is reported as saying that she dismissed M. Giron definitely and went to the Nyon sanitorium of her own accord. She now deeply repents her flight.

Not Wanted In This Country

New York, Feb. 11 .-- The immigra tion authorities have decided that Henri Thiboeuf, who was detained upon the arrival here of steamer LaBretagne at the request of the French authorities, being suspected of having murdered a woman near Paris, should be excluded from the United States. Marie Pietto, who accompanied him, was also excluded. The couple will be sent back to

NOW FOR THE TREATIES Likely to Take Up Remainder of This Session of Congress

Washington, Feb. 11.-The three treaties will consume much of the time of the session that remains, executive sessions for their consideration beginning today. Panama comes tirst. It is the strongest obviously, and offers besides a more economical use of time. Morgan is so determined in his opposition that he would talk against the other treaties, if they came up before Panama, to delay that by indirection, and on either of the others he would have Bird," and with that air ringing in his enough co-operation from beet sugar men against the Cuban treaty and the firebrands on the Alaska treaty, so that his efforts might prove effectual. If, however, he is brought up against the will probably exhaust itself, so little support has it. The French option expires March 4, which is an additional reason for giving precedence 'o the Panama compact.

The Cuban treaty, should it be ratified too late for the house to take conthat infinite tact which sometimes very | current action, would doubtless give the supreme court a chance to settle the long disputed question as to the power of the senate regarding treaties af-Opposition to the Alaska boundary treaty is lessening as its terms become better understood. The northwestern senators are coming to believe that the British want this treaty because it gives the government a chance to let itself down gently, by preventing the outery which would be raised in Canada against any recognition of the American position without the intervention of some sort of a tribunal.

Earthquake Covered Wide Ground Washington, Feb. 11 .- Superintendent

Tittmann of the coast and geodetic survey makes the following statement concerning the earthquake disturbances: "The earthquake which caused disaster in the South Sea on Jan. 13 was felt in Mexico and it was recorded as a seismic effect at the magnetic observatories of the coast survey in Baldwin, Kas., and in Cheltenham, Md., as appears from reports just received."

Root May Not Complete Term

Washington, Feb. 11.-The story set in circulation at the Union League club since Secretary Root's recent visit, that he is to resign on March 4, has no foundation. That he will stay in his present postiion through all the rest of Mr. Poosevelt's service as president is unlikely, but it is not a question of a few weeks or even a few months so far as Mr. Root himself can now look

Two States to Come In Washington, Feb. 12. -Germany has position of the Roman communion, ignored her previous agreement made tolic character of the Angelican body, with Mr. Bowen by Count Quadt, her charge d'affaires, and has insisted on a cash payment of $340,000 or a lien on the customs receipts of one of the Venezuelan ports until this amount is paid. This information was communicated to Mr. Bowen last night by Baron Sternburg, the German minister.

beritage. He suggested that the Epis-Mr. Bowen immediately informed the German minister that he refused to yield to the receipts of any port prior to The Hague's decision, saying that would be preferential treatment. As to the cash payment of $340,000 demanded, Mr. Bowen left that matter to the German minister to determine, saying to him that if Germany can afford 25 cts. to make a public confession that it 25 cts. does not stand by agreements signed by its duly accredited diplomats, he (Mr. Bowen) is willing that they shall the total amount asked in the original ultimatum. The response has been cabled to the German foreign office. Great Britain and Italy have renounced, any responsibility for the ac tion of Germany and expressed their regret. Through their representatives, they informed Mr. Bowen that they will stand by all agreements they have made with him and will not be influenced by the action of Germany. Both the British and Italian protocols provide for a cash payment of $27,500 and for the submission of the question of preferential treatment to The Hague. They contain recommendations for the renewal of all previous treaties of amity and commerce, and the Italian communication has an article providing for the payment of the Italian claims which already have been adjudicated without further arbitration, after her commission has arbitrated the other claims.

With the exception of the demand for an increased cash payment the protocol of Germany in all essential respects will conform to that of Great Britain. but will be somewhat more concise. All three protocols, it is understood, will provide for the immediate return of all the present schedule is likely to stand vessels seized by the blockading ships. It is stated that the action of Germany in asking for $340,000 instead of contenting herself with $27,500 is due to a misunderstanding of certain steps in the negotiations which had been passed on by Count Quadt before the arrival of Baron Sternburg. Mr. Bowen holds that Germany is bound by navy yard at Bremerton. Wash., to succeed Rear Admiral Stirling, ordered to the act of its representative.

It is expected that an answer will arrive here today from Germany to the the Asiatic fleet. Admiral Stirling final representations made, and upon the receipt of that answer the signing of the protocols probably will occur. As soon as they are signed orders will be dispatched to the blockading ships for their immediate withdrawal from Venezuelan waters.

> Medical Examinations of Healthy Persons Who Acted as Substitutes For Half Dead Applicants For Insurance From Many Companies

New York, Feb. 12.-An exposure of the methods of the conspirators in the recently discovered Italian life insurance frauds was made yesterday by the confession of one of the men concerned to Assistant District Attorney Krotel, who has had charge of the investigation. It appears from the confession that the frauds have been in operation for 10 years, during which time the nsurance companies have been defrauded by hundreds of thousands of dollars. In one instance a company paid out $20,000 on one fraudulent risk. The head of the conspiracy, Mr. Krotel says, was Bartolomeo Cirini, who was recently arrested and released under $6000 bail. Cirini is said to have disappeared and his bond will be ordered forfeited. The usual plan of operations was to make an application for insurance in the name of some person in a practically dying condition, a healthy substitute being presented for medical examination. In cases where the original "risk" lingered too long to satisfy the conspirators, a substitute body was used on which to collect the amount of the

These bodies are said to have been furnished by Joseph Tripani, an Italian undertaker, who is now awaiting trial in the tombs. In some instances false death certificates were presented, said to have been signed by Cirino or by two Italian doctors who are now un-

So well organized was the scheme, Krotel says, that there was a regularly appointed board of directors that used to meet every week to discuss the payments of premiums falling due and pass upon the matter of the substitution of bogus bodies in the case of "risks" that did not die until the payment of premiums became too heavy. Krotel's information is to the effect that it was through a row that broke out between two members of this board that the first inkling of the conspiracy became known.

AGREEMENT MADE IN 1825

Association are now open afternoon Incorporated Into the New Document -Commercial Treaty With Greece Failed of Ratification Because of Objections From Senator Hoar

> Washington, Feb. 12.-In an execu tive session which lasted only an hour and a half yesterday the senate, in addition to confirming a large number of nominations, ratified the Alaskan boundary treaty and came near taking similar action on the commercial treaty with Greece, which was reported by Senator Cullom of the committee o foreign relations.

The Greek treaty was read through by the clerk and then Senator Cullom asked that the resolution of ratification be acted upon, but Senator Hoar objected. He said that he desired an opportunity to examine the provision in the treaty concerning consular trials He explained that he had no objection entertain the Junior Society of Adams to the general purport of the treaty, drawn and he wanted an opportunity to read it carefully before giving his assent to it. OW much had happened in two and a half years! Mary Anshort a space of time events of such is, let us hope, a heavenly one. there could be crowded into so trenfendous moment, so disastrous in their import to the Confederacy. Two teen, home from the Virginia Military rears of constant fighting, of terrific battles from Virginia to Louisiana, coupled with the bloody repulse of Lee at Gettysburg, must have convinced the far sighted of the hopelessness of the endeavor to form a southern conederacy unless the situation might be changed by outside intervention. Gripped by the terrible blockade of throat, as it were; reeling under the wful blows on the Mississippi, in ennessee, amid the hills of Pennsylvania, with resolution unabated they still fought on. The decimated, depleted battalions still looked to their weapons and held their lines. Nay, more, with impetuous gallantry they actually assumed the offense on every possible opportunity.

With each hour of the struggle some of the bitterness of it disappeared. The personal antagonism which had been so prominent was blown away by the cannon. Strange as it may seem, they fought good naturedly-almost good humoredly-and without malevolence. They still cherished the principles for which they contended, they were still determined and resolute to enforce them, but they did not hate and despise each other as a whole. Every battle showed this. It was the politicians, the noncombatants, the prison guards, the contractors, who held and nourished the rancor. And, forgive me, to this class may be added the women. They are the only unreconstructed class today. For this there was a

The hardest of humanity's tasks is waiting while others act. To sit passive at home while the struggle is waged abroad; to watch with sinking heart for reports from the battle; to scan with deadly anxiety the monotonous lists of killed and wounded, fearful for the sight of a beloved name: to be left alone, to find oneself a widow in the twinkling of an eye, a mother bereft; to be hungry, ill clad, to feel want where plenty had been; to have children clamor and have nothing wherewith to satisfy them; to wait in New York, Feb. 12.-Max C. > What wonder, then, that most of them were bitter? Tried in that awful fire, Mary Annan had emerged from city yesterday. Nervousness Kept Me From Work.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Gave Back My Health.

There is no reason why a disease should attack you or anyone periodically. There is no excuse for chronic disease. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine will so strengthen the nerves upon which the entire body depends for health that you can resist the attacks of disease and drive away the ailments that threaten. It has positively no equal as a nerve tonic and restoration nerve tonic, and restorative.

"Every spring and fall I was subject to a most annoying eruption of the skin, and was so nervous I could not hold a glass of water without spilling it. I could not work. I could not enjoy life. I could walk but a little ways. I was thin, cross and wretched. I commenced using Nervine and Restorative Tonic, and the result is I am now storaged. commenced using Nervine and Restorative Tonic, and the result is I am now strong and healthy and myself again. My nervousness is gone. I can enjoy a good night's rest and arise in the morning capable of doing a good day's work, which I confess I could not do before. I think Dr. Miles' remedies are truly a godsend to suffering thousands."—MRS. JOHN A. STEVENS, LeRoy, N. Y.

the mst nope of the south went down as Pickett's column reeled back from Cemetery Ridge, leaving the heroic Armistead's dead body to mark high water on the hills, as if in accordance with his own resolution the judge foldnan had not dreamed that ed his hands across his breast and became a citizen of another country, that

> And Beverly Annan, a boy of sixinstitute, overruling his sister's protests, had enlisted in the artillery and gone down to Fort Morgan with the First Alabama battery, where Colonel Peyton, now a brigadier general, commanded all the defenses of the bay. "What!" cried the boy when she expostulated with him and besought him. "The south in extremity, fighting for everything that men hold dear, and no the seaboard, which clutched by the Annan in the field! Yes, yes, I know l am the last of them, Sister Mary, except you and little Tempe, the last of the line; yet, if it must end, can it end in a better way?" And so, laughing, boylike, beneath his tears, he had torn himself from her and was gone. Only Tempe remained. Tempe grown taller and larger and wiser, but Tempe much the same, not asking now if the soldiers were going to shoot the "Nunited States." The departure of troops from the city had become such an ordinary occurrence now as to awaken little attention. Willis Peyton, perhaps influenced by his brother's profession, had resigned from the battery and had gone into the Confederate navy, where he had already enjoyed a brilliant career on the Sumter. He was now on duty with other officers at Selma, up the state, where was building a great war vessel, destined to earn for itself a heroic name in future naval history. Mrs. Peyton and Pink lived at Annandale now. The additional expense of keeping up two establishments was great in these straightened days. Mary Annan, alone in the great house, craved the companionship of the elder woman whose daughter was her dearest friend. Outwardly things remained much as they had been before the war began. The breeze still swept across the bay laden with the heavy summer fragrance of the semitropic blossoms, the mocking birds still sang in the live oaks, but within everything was dif-difference in my plans," said Mr. Sn.oot. ferent. Mobile had not yet suffered for the necessaries of life, but luxuries had long since gone. For instance, it had been difficult, nay, impossible, for Mary Annan to purchase black goods for mourning wear when her father died. There was such a demand for that all over the south-and the north, too, for that matter—that had it not ager of Canfield's alleged gambling been for the resources of wardrobes of the past she would have been without it.

These growing privations fell hardest again upon the women. But they made no murmur, accepted the situation without repining, rejoiced that they could contribute that little to the cause they loved. (To be Continued.)

FERNANDO PO ISLAND About as Far From Being Civilized as Can Be Imagined

London, Feb. 12.-Lieutenant Boyd Alexander, who has just returned from the island of Fernando Po, in the Bight of Biafra, Western Africa, gives an interesting description of the various inhabitants of the practically previously unexplored interior of the island. These are known as "boobies." Very few of them have ever seen a white man and they never leave their primitive dwellings in the rocks except on organized drinking bouts. The race is fast dying out from the effects of rum and palm wine.

The natives are mostly quite naked except for a curious straw bounet They paint their bodies with colored mud, are unspeakably filthy, for they never wash, but occasionally use knife to scrape off the surface dirt, and create artificial deformities by tightly enwrapping their limbs.

The Fernando I'o natives are exceedingly timid and when sighted by the whites bolted into the depths of the jungle, where they set up fearsome wails. At certain hours each day the villages are quite deserted, everyone, including the children, going off on a The lieutenant adds that although be searched for them assiduously he could find no traces of the burial places of the natives of the island.

Arsenal Storehouse Burned Rock Island, Ills., Feb. 12.-Shop

A, the principal issue storehouse at the Rock Island arsenal, was destroyed by fire last night, with its contents. The latter included cavalry and infantry equipments of every description and 1,000,000 rounds of Krag-Jorgensen smokeless ammunition. The contents were worth $1,500,000. The building was erected 20 years ago at a cost of $400,000. The Rock Island arsenal is the largest in the United States. It represents an expenditure of $12,000,000.

Sharkey Not a Great Wrestler

Cleveland, Feb. 12 .- Pugilist Tom Sharkey was not able to withstand Wrestler Dan McLeod's attempt to throw him three times within an hour last night and McLeod was successful in 50 minutes. Sharkey did not attempt any aggressive work, but simply laid on the mat and balked, so far as he could, the efforts of the champion to throw him. The contest was ad vertised to be for a purse of $1500 and a side bet of $500.

Princess Threatened by Giron

Vienna, Feb. 12.-An interview with Dr. Zehme of Dresden, the lawyer of the former Crown Princess Louise of Saxony, is published here. Zehme says Giron was actuated by personal vanity. According to The Zeit the BROKEN, EGG, princess would have left Giron when her brother, Archduke Joseph, went to Geneva in an endeavor to persuade her to return, but for the fact that the French teacher threatened her with a revolver.

Female Inspectors Get to Work New York, Feb. 12.-Three of the young women recently appointed inspec tors under the immigration bureau made their first trip down the bay yesterday and climbed the ladder from a revenue cutter to the steamer Ivernia They declared afterward that the work was much easier than they thought it would be. The women wear divided skirts gathered at the knee and over these rainy day skirts.

Anti-Addicks Men Hold Out Dover, Del., Feb. 12.—The 10 regular Republican assemblymen who are holding out against the election of Addicks to either of the two vacant senatorships had another secret conference yesterday. Nothing was decided beyond a continuance of their support of Bail for the long term and H. A. Dupont for the short term. In the joint session yesterday the vote showed no change.

Smoot Expects to Be Seated Salt Lake, Feb. 12.-Senator-elect Smoot will go to Washington next week. His credentials as senator to succeed Senator Rawlius will then be presented. "The protests against my being seated in the senare will make no "I expect to take my seat, and I do not anticipate any serious interference."

Date Set For Bucklin's Trial

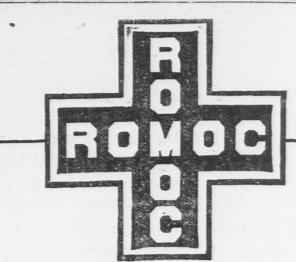

New York, Feb. 12.-Supreme Court Justice Herrick has fixed next Monday as the date for beginning the trial of David W. Bucklin, the reputed manhouse. Bucklin is under indictment charged with maintaining and baving control of a gambling house and also with being a common gambler. Cornell Students Have Typhoid Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 12.-Among the students of Cornell university there are 62 cases of typhoid fever, while between 150 and 200 students have been sent to their homes by physicians upon the appearance of fever symptoms.

College Destroyed by Fire Hutchinson, Minn., Feb. 12.-Ansgar college was totally destroyed by fire yesterday, together with the library and all the furniture. Two hundred students lost all their belongings.

Little Prospect of Failure of Administration Plan, Though It Suits Neither of the Extremse-Fear of Aid. ing Democrats In the Campaign

Washington, Feb. 13.-In Republican circles in the house considerable feeling is manifesting itself against the anti-trust program of the president and the senate leaders. It is said that this program means nothing, and that the country will soon so believe, and that this will give the Democrats for the next presidential campaign the opportunity to say that the Republican party meant tions of capital. The singular situation is thus presented of a line of legislation which most of the corporate interests regard as vexatious and unnecessary, and so oppose; while, on the other hand, it does not go far enough to suit the trust-bursting element, even among the Republicans of the house.

tlefield and his friends in the house. Even the senate judiciary committee is understood to stand seven to six in favor of the Littlefield bill, which, if adopted, would go much further than pletion.

Some inquiry has been instituted in the house to ascertain if the Elkins antirebate bill, which is the third part of the real anti-trust program, and an that remains to be enacted, might not be amended in the house by the substitution of the main features of the Littlefield bill. The Elkins rebate provisions might be displaced for the Littlefield provisions and so with the publicity provisions. All the Democrats and some Republicans would doubtless vote for such a substitution, in a desire to have more radical action.

to carrying out this scheme: The Elkins bill will probably be escorted by a rule cutting off amendment; the second objection, which would suffice in to semi-officially deny yesterday any failed, and read newspaper stories of case the first lapsed through failure to secure adoption for such a rule in the house, is that the conferees on the Elkins, bill from the house would be taken from the interstate commerce committee, of which Mr. Hepburn is chairman, rather than from the judiciary committee, where friendship for the Littlefield bill lies. Mr. Hepburn and his associate would doubtless yield to the senate conferrees and so the effort to break in with the Littlefield bill would prove futile, even with a strong house majority.

It should be noted that the senate judiciary committee's attitude of apparent support of the Littlefield bill really means the bill as a basis of anti-,39 trust legislation rather than in its exact form. Certain features from Mr. Boar's bill would be adopted as well as | Moon rises-8:40 p. m. large parts of the measure as it has High water-12:30 a. m.; 1 p. m. come over from the house. There are five Democrats and eight Republicans on the senate judiciary committee. Senator Hoar, its chairman, and Senator McComas are the Republican members commonly quoted as favorable to a more radical program than that mapped out by the original leaders. There is little prospect, bowever, that there will be any failure in the administration plan, two of its features having already become law and the third awaiting only the action of the house head. In the Opinion of Former Governor Wise, Who Predicts Organized Outbreak of Blacks-The North Recognizes Ineradicable Race Prejudice

Boston, Feb. 13.—The Middlesex club

Hotel Brunswick last night with an attractive list of speakers and a large attendance of members. Abraham Lincoln was of course the figure around which the remarks of all the speakers centered, but other topics were incidentally touched upon by all of them. The speakers included General Champlin, president of the club, who presided; Lieutenant Governor Guild, who represented the commonwealth; Congressman Brandagee of Connecticut, John S. Wise of Virginia and New York, Congressman-elect Landis of In-

Minnesota and Judge Hodges of New The address of former Governor Wise of Virginia was one of great interest the negro problem, urging prompt and effectual action to avert the possibility of calamity, saying that "feuds and fighting between the white and colored races in the south indicate that our country is rapidly approaching a fearful crisis." The gist of his remarks was that the several states be allowed the privilege of regulating their own suffrage, but at the same time have their representation in congress based on the votes cast. Mr. Wise said in part: "The white race is proud. The black race is gentle, but it is not below the worm. Some day here in Boston you will read in your morning papers of a great organized outbreak of blacks, murdering white men and women, and how the infuriated whites are slaughtering in retaliation. Whom will you help, the whites? Then why, in God's name, have you encouraged the blacks so long? Will you help the whites? Then you will find the struggle transferred. Dublin, Feb. 13.-John O'Donnell, even here. The nation must say to the south either obey the constitutional submit to a reduction of congressional representation." crime, and the danger to our country is so great that civilized nations are aroused to it and half civilized nations refer to us as governed by a mob." The speaker rehearsed the history of reconstruction days and pointed out that the southern states were required rot Francis, Jr., of Philadelphia, a student only to ratify the 13th, 14th, and 15th in Cornell university, died of typhoid amendments, but to recognize in good faith the new fundamental conditions. But now, after 30 years under pledge. we see state after state violating pledged faith and enacting unconstitutional legislation, usurping to themselves the right to deny the constitution and enthroning themselves as an oligarchy in perpetuity, while the north has sat silent and quiescent. BLOCKED EXPULSION

Resignation of Hub Councilman Convicted of Larceny Is Accepted

Boston, Feb. 13.-By tendering his resignation of his seat in the common council last night Councilman William H. Curley forestalled summary action by that body upon a report recommendng his expulsion that had been unanimously agreed upon by a special committee of five appointed to investigate his case. Curley recently pleaded guilty in the municipal court to lareeny in obtaining $10 from Arthur T. Clark, claiming that it was for a hospital free bed for veterans of the Spanish-American war, and was fined by the court.

At the meeting of the council a week ago an effort was made to have Curley held its annual Lincoln night banquet at expelled on the ground that the honor and good name of the council had been tarnished by his act and that for him to retain his seat was an insult to that body. The expulsion order was defeated and a committee was appointed to investigate the case.

The committee held a secret session vesterday atternoon, and after hearing the evidence and examining the court records decided unanimously to present a report at night, asking for Curley's expulsion.

Before the council assembled, however, President Dolan, members of the committee and Curley and his friends had a conference, at which it was agreed that Curley should voluntarily resign, and when the council was called to order Curley arose and tendered his resignation.

The previous question on accepting the resignation was ordered and passed. An order was passed notifying the board of aldermen that a vacancy exists in the delegation from ward 19, on account of Curley's resignation, and a new election will be ordered.

YACHT BUILDER.

W. F. Maybury, Who Passed Away Thursday, a Pioneer.

With the death Thursday of Mr. William Maybury there passed away one of the representatives of the early pleasure boat building industry in Quincy. Mr. Maybury was born in England 83 years ago, where he served his time and learned his trade. He came to Quincy many years ago and established a boat building business on Wharf street. There had been other boat, or as they were then termed, ship builders in Quincy, but Mr. Maybury was probably one of the first, if not the first, to en-

CLOSING ARGUMENT For and Against the Demands of the

dience that filled every inch of space in the United States circuit court room, President George F. Baer of the Reading company made his closing argument for the coal operators before the strike commission yesterday, and Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the miners, began the summing up for the ien. The two speakers held the attention of the auditors throughout their renarks. The greatest interest was manifested in Mr. Baer's appearance before the commission to plead the case of the mine owners. He said both sides have rights and he does not oppose the miners' organization. He objected, howver, to dictation in appointments, and his liberty to select men he will not surrender. To limit the right of work, he said, is to limit production, and this violates economics and also injures society. He declared that a monster nonopoly was created by the union and that the evidence sustained operators

Mr. Baer concluded his address by making a proposition to pay the contract miners on a sliding wage scale, their wages to fall or rise with the market price of coal at New York, but that n no case shall the wages fall below that basis. The spokesman for the coal commission took up 80 minutes in delivering his address, and when he sat down he was congratulated by hundreds of persons. Mr. Darrow spoke at the afternoon ession for 21/2 hours and will take up all of today in closing the miners' case. The crowd that heard him was equally as large as that which listened to Mr. Baer, and he, too, was surrounded by an admiring throng, when he temporarily suspended his speech at adjournment time. His remarks were directed principally at the wage statements presented to the commission, which, he said, could not be relied upon.

CHAPTER XXI.

MARY ANNAN LEARNS THE TRUTH. ARY ANNAN had changed out surrendering a single conviction, where she had defor it. She had many a time longed country. She would not have hesitated a moment between love and duty, she injunctions, talked of him. thought, but she had come to realize that, while duty may restrain, it is, of Peyton, whom she had rejected. She spite of her cause, in spite of her will, in spite of everything, she loved him! No one in Mobile had heard from Boyd Peyton since that day he dropped out of their existence years before. But she had loved him with growing intensity ever since. To be sure, she had engaged herself to Darrow. She had persuaded herself in his presence that she could do it with safety, she had tried to blind herself to the truth, and she had clung to that engagement with read the holy mystery of a loving wodesperate tenacity during the intervening years. But her eyes were opened, and she realized all too soon that the tie binding her to Darrow was merely one of honor and respect.

It was a pity that this was so, for Darrow had shown himself most admirable in the situations in which he had been placed. He had developed grandly. From major of his regiment he had risen to the command of an Alabama brigade, and in all the desperate fighting of the Army of Northern Virginia he had borne a splendid and heroic part. The state rang with praise of the young paladin. Alabama was proud of him; Mobile rejoiced to claim him.

There was something quixotic yet admirable about the young man's position on the subject of home coming. Mary Annan had promised herself to him when the war was over and he could come home a victor, and until that time arrived he had promised to let her alone. He would do it. He would keep that promise if it broke his his place to be in the battle line.

service permitted. Quaint, charming letters they were, too, manly, modest, humorous in a way, through them running the clash of arms, the echo of moving squadrons, the roar of battle. and all of them carrying to her the deep and mighty current of love and consecration of his great, devoted heart. She was the master theme in all the voices the crowded years played in his soul. Without her he was nothing, one of thousands as brave and strong as he. With her he was a hero. The realization of that fact had kept her to her engagement. He had scarcely gone before she wished it broken. Darrow was no less admirable than Peyton. True, he had not been compelled to make any such sacrifice as the other had, but he had done what he conceived to be his duty with a direct simplicity that was admirable. But what of all this? It was nothing. If Darrow had been dowered with every faculty, possessed of every virtue, and if Peyton had none of these, she would have loved him just the same. Her passion had passed far beyond the calmly reasoning or reasonable stage. It took note only of facts, or, rather, of the one sublime fact that she loved him. Darrow's appeal had been most powerful to the physical side of her nature, and that side was growing more and more in abeyance in her developing life. If she could have seen him, it might have been different. She might have realized the change in him.

Yet she was not ignorant of what he had done for and through her, how he had developed in love and war. And she was fearful what the consequences might be to him and, if he were of value, to the south if she should take Yet she had at last reached the point where she felt compelled to do so. As he loved her more he expected more from her; as she loved Peyton more, she gave Darrow less and less.

Her heart had turned absolutely to Peyton. Saving her duty to the south, by organized labor. He says he was she was his. His absence, the impossibility of their meeting, all conspired to produce the utter abandonment with which she gave way to her passion. The senator immediately made public | She could not sit a single woment in the proposition. The Democrats have the solitude of her chamber without thinking of him. She realized that if he ever stood again before her with his pleasant and most reliable cathartic in use. For whelming in its appeal to stay her movement toward him.

Her being went out to him more strongly when she learned inadvertently that he was an officer on one of the ships blockading the mouth of the bay opposite Fort Morgan. Fate had as yet given him little opportunity for disgreatly in this period. With- tinction; he was only a lieutenant, the watch officer of a frigate.

The overpowering of a great passion spised, she admired; where she had | such as poets have dreamed of, such hated, she respected; where she had as historians have written of, such as, thought she had forgotten, she remem- given wider fields, have moved the bered; where she remembered, she world, was upon her. The thought of loved! Yes, she was still devoted to the Peyton obsessed her, and her heart south and would cheerfully have died cried out to him with every beating. She trembled even at the most secret that she were a man to draw a sword | thought of his name. She was never or carry a musket in defense of her so happy as when Mrs. Peyton, long since having disregarded her husband's

The elder woman marked the revelation and wondered, with a painful pity after all, love that makes the supreme | for poor Darrow and a mighty yearnappeal. And the outward and visible ing for her eldest son, how it would shape which that supreme appeal took all end. The grim old father, too, down before her heart was not that of Dar- on the ramparts of Fort Morgan, row, to whom she was betrothed, but I watched the fleet tossing to and fro on the long swells of the gulf of Mexico loved him! In spite of her pride, in and longed for a sight of the boy he had so loved.

In Mary Annan's waking hours she was afraid, afraid to think how much she loved Boyd Peyton. In the long nights she dreamed of him. She was his, that was all. Whether he claimed her or no, whether he knew it or not, she was his. Ah, loving God, how she prayed for him in every hour of her life! The south and he mingled in her petitions, and only that God who can man's heart knew which came first.

Her feelings grew so strong at last that she came to the conclusion that she must tell Darrow. If it killed him, he must know. Every letter she received in its trusting devotion impressed upon her that honor demanded that he should be told the truth. She did not love him. She never could love him. Marriage with him would be no sacrament, but a sacrilege. She honored him, she esteemed him. She would have given worlds to have felt differently. She had honestly tried to love him, but her heart had at last outleaped constraint. That was the naked truth.

She could not permit herself to deceive him longer, so at last she poured out her heart to him in one long broken appeal, telling him the whole truth, shaming herself, scorning herself, but asking her freedom. In agony she penned the letter.

There was no doubt in her mind as to the sincerity of Darrow's passion for her. She looked into her own heart heart. Like Uriah of old, he believed and saw what he would suffer, and she suffered for and with him. The Frequent letters had come to her penalty and the reward of a great from him as the exigencies of his passion are in sympathy it begets with the suffering that always follows knowledge of the heart. She was dreadfully unhappy. But for Boyd Peyton she would have died.

The fateful letter had been sent to Darrow about the middle of September by the hand of Hamilton Pleasants, lieutenant colonel now, if you please, commanding the old Alabama regiment. He had come back to recover from an attack of typhoid fever after Gettysburg, and he had become betrothed to Pink Peyton at the time

The news had come that Longstreet's corps was hurrying from Virginia to re-enforce Bragg's army, then facing Rosecrans and the Army of the Cumberland on the mountains around Chattanooga. Though he was scarcely able to endure the fatigues and demands of active campaigning, Pleasants had hurried away to intercept his regiment and to take part in the effort which was to be ma hurl the Federal troops out of Fearl

BRYAN'S BITTERNES

Finds Vent In Sharp Attack on Palmer and Buckner Democrats

Columbus, O., Feb. 13.-A presidential boom in behalf of William R. Hearst and a bitter speech by William J. Bryan were the dominating notes at the barbecue given last night by the Jefferson-Jackson-Lincoln league, organized a year ago by former Congressman Lentz and others. Mr. Bryan asserted that if there is any one man in the country who has suffered on account of lack of domestic harmony he is that man, and charged that it was the opposition of alleged Democrats with n the ranks of his party that brought Lim to defeat in 1896 and 1900. He said that he knew all the men who had gone astray in those years and that since that time they had suffered severe heart burning. "If it is such a serious affair to change party allegiance," he said, "I hope these men will stay out of the Democratic party. There can be no harmony between Democrats who carry knives for each other and hate each other. There is a better chance to make Democrats out of Republicans than out of Palmer and Buckner Democrats. These men can never be in harmony with us unless they or we change our political convictions. I still believe in the platforms adopted at Chicago in 1896 and in Kansas City in 1909. I have no thought of surrendering my convictions. Our principles were true then; they are true now. I would not change if I could. Neither would I surrender my principles to win any victory, however great, for my party." Mr. Bryan said he did not propose to take his Democracy from any Democratic leader who received his training in Wall street.

St. Louis, Feb. 13 .- At the end of the third day's run on the co-operative turf investment companies by investors demanding the return of their deposits the result stands:

E. J. Arnold & Co., all payments suspended; John J. Ryan & Co., all payments suspended; International Investment company, all payments sus pended; Christy Syndicate Investment company, all payments suspended; United Turf Investment company, office closed. Grand jury investigation of investment company methods of transacting business.

Crowds of men and women, eager to regain their investments, surged about the offices of the various investment companies yesterday and all were doomed to disappointment, excepting the International Investment company investors. This company suspended payments in the afternoon and demanded the stipulated 30 days' notice of withdrawal. The United Turf Investment company did not open its office yesterday and a sign on the door announced that payments had been suspended indefinitely.

Late in the afternoon the February grand jury dropped all other business to take up the investigation of the turf investment companies. Ryan was summoned to appear before that body and a similar subpoena was issued for Arnold, but the latter is reported to be in Hot Springs.

"That's all right; I've got a brigade of foot cavalry here," laughed Darrow. "Don't wait for anything, general,"

"Oh, Beb, Bob! I am so glad"replied Thompson, laughing in turn. "Your men still have something left in their haversacks, I suppose?" "They have enough for another meal,

"I hope so," said the general, brightening in this vague assurance. "By the way. Pleasants, did you hear anything of Boyd Peyton while you were in Mobile?"

"Yes: he is in the blockading fleet down off Fort Morgan."

"Come to my headquarters tonight." said the general, "as soon as we have made camp, if we make camp. I want to talk to you about home and Miss his lines and so prevent detachment to Mary.

"And Miss Pink?" interrupted Pleasants.

"Yes, of course, before we go into battle tomorrow. It may be our last chance, you know."

By this time the platform and open space about the station were filled with soldiers from the two sections which had already arrived. Their uniforms were dusty and worn, sometimes tattered and patched, but their gun barrels were bright, their rifles were looked to. They bore themselves with the careless insouciance of veterans as they fell into ranks with the promptness of trained soldiers. Their lean, brown, leather tanned faces, their vigorous, easy movements, as well as their torn and tattered battleflags, spoke in eloquent language of hard marches, long campaigns and fierce battles.

With rattle of drums and shrilling of fifes, in obedience to the sharp staccato command of the officers rising above the confusion, they marched down the dusty road and aligned themselves in regiments at the designated position. Mounting his horse, which, with the other horses, had been unloaded from the stock cars in the front of the train, Darrow rode to the head of his brigade. The last section had arrived while the conversation had been going on, and, all the dispositions having been promptly made, a word of command put the troops in motion. The Alabama regiment in which he had gone out as a major had mustered on its departure from Mobile some eleven hundred officers and men. Now the entire force of the brigade, com-

CHAPTER XXIII.

SMASHING THROUGH THE UNION LINE. T 9 o'clock on the morning of the 20th of September, 1863, the tree clad hills in front of General Thomas' position between Chickamauga creek and Missionary ridge, covering the road ga, were suddenly covered with men who seemed to have sprung up by magic as they rose from the hollows in which they had lain concealed. The instant crackling of the rifles and muskets of the heavy skirmish line thrown in advance of the battle line soon gave place to crashing volleys, non as the southern batteries swung front into action, pouring their grape, shrapnel and canister into their enemies. It seemed to the Union soldiers that scarcely a moment elapsed between the appearance and the advance of the Confederates. With consummate courage the gray masses were moved forward in the smoke and hurled upon the Federal line, and with equal courage the assault was met. The battle raged up and down the Union left with terrific fierceness and with no present advantage as yet to either side.

Presently out of the smoke and dust far to the Union left Breckinridge's division, overlapping Thomas' shorter line by a long distance, swung around across the Rossville road and attacked the Union line in reverse. But no better soldier, no harder fighter, than the great Virginian ever handled an army. Quick to take in the significance of the dangerous movement, Thomas threw his reserve brigades in fierce countercharge right into the face of Breckinridge, and, aided by a timely re-enforcement of one of Negley's brigades-although the whole division should have been there and was not-he forced him back from the road and retained control of it.

Again and again Polk forged a mighty battle hammer of human bodles and drove it against the Union left, which shivered and vibrated under the terrific blows rained upon it. The two wings charged and recharged across the disputed ground. Positions were taken and retaken again and again. The armies were locked in a mighty, deathlike grip of battle-a writhing,

Meanwhile the front of Thomas' command was so heavily engaged that he did not dare to weaken it to help his hard pressed left flank by a withdrawal of a single regiment. The absence two-thirds of it, which had been promised, so seriously jeopardized his posttion as to render it almost impossible for him to hold it in the face of such continuous and desperate attacks. Messenger after messenger came to Rosecrans asking re-enforcement.

The right of the Union army had so far only been engaged in a desultory way that morning. The fighting as yet had all been on the left. The necessity for moving his right wing by the left flank was imperative, and the movement was at once begun by the Union general. This is always a difficult evolution in front of an enemy, and when the battle is in actual course the difficulties are increased a thousandfold. As the morning wore on the Confederate attack was extended from left to right with gradually increasing force. Bragg divined Rosecrans' purpose, and he endeavored to make him maintain the left, which he hoped to overwhelm. At any rate, he determined to strike the Union troops moving to re-enforce Thomas on their unprotected flanks as they passed.

Still, the fighting on the Federal right was as yet by no means severe, although the demonstrations of the Confederates were growing stronger with every moment, and their troops were being moved forward on the right for a general action all along the line. By half after 11 o'clock a misunderstood order, which was at the same time badly expressed, withdrew a whole Federal division from its place in the line near the center, moved it to the left and placed it in the rear of Thomas' heavily assailed position. There was a great hole left in the Union line. John B. Hood, one of the most magnificently reckless fighters in the southern army, detected it through his skirmishers. The news was at once carried to Longstreet, and he massed his corps for an instant attack, appreciating the brilliancy of the opportunity before

The men in the open flanks of the Union army on either side of this vast chasm were completely exposed to the Confederate avalanche, pouring into the gap in solid column, the fierce rebel yell, first heard from the lips of John Sevier 100 years population of 560,892, the foreign born before in Tennessee, ringing over the numbered 197,129, or a little more than field. Davis' men, taken in front and rear and flying for their lives, burst into the ranks of Phil Sheridan's division, throwing them into hopeless confusion, in which condition the gray battle storm surged down upon them In spite of the heroic efforts of that commander they were thrown into complete rout and swept away in mad disorder. Brigadier General Lytle, the poet soldier, was killed in front of his brigade, vainly striving to rally his shattered, disorganized troops and hold his lines. While this terrible catastrophe was happening Buckner's soldiers, advancing with equal valor, fell upon the remainder of the right center wing of the Union army and drove it before them in hopeless and inextricable disorder. Men, guns, horses and wagons, in a chaos of confusion, streamed back from the battle line and were scattered through the woods and down the Dry Valley road toward McFarland's gap. Some of them were halted on the other side of the ridge, at Rossville, but many did not stop until they reached Chattanooga.

Into this flying mass the Confederate guns poured shot and shell. The Union batteries were captured and turned against their own men. Rosecrans, the commander in chief, McCook, Davis, Sheridan and Crittenden, protesting, cursing, imploring, raging, beseeching, were swept along with the rest in a mad, tumultuous rout. The Union right wing had been hammered to pieces. The Union line had been riven in two. and one side of it crushed like a house of cards beaten down by a hammer And it had all happened in a few moments.

Far to the left Thomas and his battal ions, ignorant of the disaster, still stood fighting with desperate valor. Longstreet now turned his men toward that flank and what was left of the Union center and repeated with great success his attack on the right. The Union troops were slammed backward like a door. Hood was desperately wounded and Longstreet led his lines in person Bushrod Johnson's brigade in advance The Union troops in the center made a better resistance and somewhat de layed the advance. They changed from under fire and clung tenaciously to their new line, facing the gap and the victory flushed foe. But they, too, had to give way before the furious dash and overwhelming onslaught of the victorious Confederates, now in greatly superior force, until finally there was nothing left of the Union line but the still heavily assaulted left wing.

GENERAL RAID IS ORDERED

Detectives Descend on Four Offices as a Result-Made Captures In Three, but Proprietor of Fourth Place Took Alarm and Skipped

Chicago, Feb. 14.-Three turf in vestment company offices were raided here yesterday afternoon by detectives and a number of attaches arrested. The head of a fourth concern, warned of the proposed movement, made his escape before the detectives arrived The firms visited by the police were II. Brolaski & Co., Benedict & Co., the Mid-Continent Investment company and A. J. Demorest & Co. When the detectives reached the Demorest place the president of the company, A. J. Demorest, could not be found, and there was a number of patrons in front of the locked doors clamoring for payment.

The raids followed a general police order to close all fraudulent turf exchanges in Chicago. Three squads of round up the alleged offenders. The first place visited was the offices of Brolaski & Co., where H. Brolaski and five other persons were taken in charge. Brolaski declared that he had been doing nothing wrong and that he was carrying on a business for the benefit had been unable to get their money back when they called for it. George II. Vincent also appeared at Brolaski's office while the raid was in progress and declared that he had lost $1100. He said that he had invested his money on the promise of big gains, but that he had not received a cent in dividends. During the raid at Benedict & Co.'s office a number of men called to ask that the money they had intrusted with the company be returned to them. One man said that he had $1000 invested with the company, but was unable to get it out. A collector for the collection department of the American Express company and one for the same department of the Continental National bank also called. Each had claims aggregating several thousand dollars, most of which had been made by outof-town patrons. The letter heads of the company gave the name of John W. Benedict as secretary and treasurer and W. Curtis as manager. All persons at work in the office said they had never ably at the main offices at South Bend,

At the Mid-Continent Investment company the stenographer, a woman, was taken in custody, but the manager could not be found. The desks in the place were broken open and certificates of stock proprietorship and list of investors were taken in charge.

Investigation at St Louis

St. Louis, Feb. 14.-A police guard was placed at Arnold & Co.'s turf investment office yesterday to prevent the removal of any of the books or papers that might be of value in the grand jury investigation. Every effort was made to locate E. J. Arnold with papers and books bearing on his methods of doing business, but he cannot be found. John J. Ryan and the books of his concern will be brought before the grand jury. An employe states that at present E. J. Arnold & Co. have 300,000 investors. The average receipts of this company, the employe says, average $125,000 a week. The grand jury investigation is being conducted under statutes which provide jail sentences and heavy fines for frauds perpetrated through the medium of promises of profits on investment, which are impossible of fulfillment.

Chamberlain In Hostile District Cape Town, Feb. 14.-Mr. Chamberlain arrived yesterday at the town of Graaf-Reinet, situated in a wholiy Dutch district, which was the centre of operations during the war. The Dutch men held sullenly aloof from the receptions and functions. Many of them openly paraded rebel badges. Mr. Chamberlain rebuked the Dutchmen in strong terms for their attitude. If they wished to preserve their liberties, he said, they must not allow liberty to degenerate into license.

Ward Two Peoples' Union.

The meeting held at the Washington school-house last month for the purpose of establishing a branch of the People's Union in Ward Two was attended by an earnest and enthusiastic assembly of persons. All present signed the constitution and became active members. A membership committee and other committees were appointed. The various committees have been working during the past month. To further the movement, the executive committee have arranged for a public meeting to be held on Tuesday next, February 17, in the vestry of the Quincy Point church. This meeting will be addressed by the Rev. Frederick Palmer of Andover, a gentleman who has been closely identified with a similar association for several years. He will tell what can be done, and what has been accomplished by the people in Andover. It is hoped, and earnestly desired, that a large number of the citizens of Ward Two will congregate next Tuesday evening, and hear what is said and ask questions, if any occur to them.

There were some people in the village who did not hesitate to say that to do." Silly herself would "go to the dogs" some day, she had such "shiftless ways." She preferred to wear plain clothes rather than spend time indoors on needlework. She could not be counted on for the sewing circle nor dragged to the debating society. Moreover, she was not as fond of going to church and Sunday school as she might have been.

"It fits me, Dick!" she cried, her face, pink and white as their petals, framed in a bough of apple blossoms. Her eyes were as blue as forgetmenots, and her hair was like the golden tassels of the corn. "The name fits.

alarm, "don't do anything wise and learned!"

. . . "She never has a serious thought, that girl," her aunt remarked. "If her name don't fit her to a T!"

She was coming up the walk, her dangling at her side, singing one of the ragtime tunes with which she scandalized the town.

"She do seem to be light headed," observed her uncle, Samuel Morris. "But, then, she's a good hearted thing."

She could not remember her parents They had died when she was so little. She seemed to be a sort of accident in her uncle and aunt's family, a rather burdensome and unpleasant one, which by God's grace they must put up with. They lived in an old, old house on the outskirts of a quaint, rambling old village. It was set about with orchards where many birds loved to nest. Silly, when she might have been embroidering herself a petticoat, making a crazy quilt or doing some other sensible thing, preferred to stay out in the orchards with the birds.

Mr. Samuel Morris dreamed that a burglar was pressing a pillow down over his face. He tried to cry out, but could not. He heard a great banging at the door and a voice calling:

"Uncle, uncle!" "Somebody is killing poor Silly," he thought, but he could not move.

Then some one was pulling him out of bed. There were smoke and a gleam of shooting flames. Something wet was slapped over his face. He was being dragged over the floor and down the steps by one who panted hard. A voice -Silly's-was screaming:

"Help me save uncle! Somebody go back for aunt! I couldn't find her!" "No use!" voices cried back. "Come out quick! The house is about to fall in!"

"I'll save her or I'll die trying! Take uncle!"

The Passing of the Pie.

A word as to the causes of the disfavor with which pie has come to be regarded. Like other things, it kept a place by force of tradition after its special work was done, and, being always a "hearty" dish, when the savory "Dick, do you think, like all the rest, piece of pie was added to the plenty of the prosperous table in the nature of much and broke down the digestion airtight stoves.

The pie is not as black as it has been painted, having had to bear the load of many circumstances not its own fault. The viand which has usurped its place warsity man-to have a wife called at dinner is not as blameless as it is commonly held to be. For children eating no meat pudding may well be dinner, but for grownups a helping of pudding gives as much unnecessary food value as did pie. It must be remembered in discussing pastry also that it was in good hands not the heavy, greasy kind so often found today. The early cooks attained great skill in preparing light, flaky "crusts." The passing of the pie is not to be rearms full of apple blossoms, her hat gretted in view of the greater abundance of fresh food, especially as the habit. making of the pie requires not only skill, but time, and the baking of the pie in modern stoves is a matter of large experience.-Good Housekeeping.

Perishable Goods.

In a Vermont village there lives a young man who has reached the age of twenty-four with no apparent thought of taking to himself a wife, although all his companions have either "settled" or left the place. He is regarded by the entire community as a confirmed bachelor. His mother looks upon his state with a sadness which has afforded more or less amusement to her summer boarders.

"There's one of his last pictures," said the mother, displaying a photograph on a small card. "It's a good likeness, ain't it? Getting kind of drawed round the mouth, same as his pa, he is. I said to him that I'd been wanting he should have a dozen taken. so I could give 'em round to his friends -young ladies-for sometimes a picture standing on a bureau, facing right to you every morning, will start a kind of affectionate feeling. I've been waiting in the hopes he'd think of it himself, but when I saw that he was beginning to fade and show his age I took matters right into my own hands and marched him to the photographer quick as I could. I only hope some good may come of it."-Youth's Companion.

Breaking the Silence.

A little tot of about five summers held a place recently in one of the United States supreme court seats while the learned justices were handing down their weighty decisions. The court was the embodiment of dignity, so much so that it was almost oppressive. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 15-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.-Lessons from Benhadad's de feat.-I King xx, 12-20. (Temperance meet-

"And Benhadad, the king of Syria, gathered all his host together, and there were thirty and two kings with him and horses and charlots, and he went up and besieged Samaria and war is unknown, except that it seems to have been for the purpose of humili-When she came to herself, she was ating King Ahab and the people of Israel. The Syrian king's demands upon the king of Israel were most humiliating and offensive, yet would have had to be complied with had not God interfered to save the nation. In his proviof Benhadad that led to their utter rout and ruin.

One of the principal factors in this reply was sent to the Syrian king, he led the young men against them they were still drinking. "And they went out at noon. But Benhadad was drinking himself drunk in the pavilions, he and his kings, the thirty and two kings that helped them." This excessive drinking had no doubt much to do with the panic that immediately seized the Syrian army and caused its defeat and destruction. Nor was this the first the defeat of armies. Belshazzar and Babylon went down to defeat in the midst of drunken revelings, and Alexby the terrible curse. Men able to lead armies and to conquer nations have themselves been overcome by the demon of strong drink.

Drunkenness always leads to defeat. "It is not for kings to drink wine" nor for generals nor for soldiers nor for any one who would creditably hold any. position in life worth holding and who would perform successfully the duties of life. Drunkenness never won a battle. The Russian soldiers in the Crimean war were drugged with drink, but this only assured their defeat instead of saving them from it. Intoxicating drinks weaken the intellect, destroy the physical powers of a man and absolutely unfit him for the battle of life. Defeat will come to every man as surely as it did to Benhadad, who is accustomed to "drinking himself drunk.

Since intemperance has always led to individual and national disgrace and ruin, why will nations continue to make drunkenness possible, and why will men continue to form a habit that has proved so disastrous to thousands of others? That these things are done after centuries of experience seems almost incredible. Yet it is sadly true. Public sentiment has not vet been educated to the point where it will make drunkenness impossible by law, and individuals are not yet brought to the point where they are unwilling to risk all for the pleasures of intoxication. May God hasten the day when these conditions will prevail! To this end let us as Christians totally abstain ourselves, pray earnestly for the overthrow of the rum traffic and do all in our power to reach and to reclaim those who have been led to form this terrible BIBLE READINGS.

Foot and Mouth Disease at Points Near Boston

THOROUGHBREDS

Surprise-Anxiety at Washington Over Its Possible Spread

Boston, Feb. 14.—The recrudescence of the cattle disease in Massachusetts reported by the bureau of animal industry at Washington is in the towns of Needham and Medfield, some 20 miles southwest of Boston. The cases were reported to the state cattle bureau last week and summary means taken to stop the spread of the disease there. A herd of 39 thoroughbred Jerseys owned by Charles H. W. Foster of the Castle farm, Needham, was slaughtered on Monday, after condemnation by Drs. perity. Thompson and Durfee, representing the federal authorities, Dr. Peters of the state cattle commission and two town

Mr. Foster was averse to extreme measures being taken, as the herd was classed as one of the finest in the east, and the animals in it lad been selected only after the most careful attention to their breeding. The United States inspectors insisted that the only way to stop the disease from spreading was by slaughter, and Foster finally said that he would not ask to be treated differently than were his neighbors. After the killing the carcasses were buried. The disease, according to one of the inspectors, was of a mild type. As this herd was kept under conditions classed as almost perfect the appearance of the disease in it was a surprise. Since Monday traces of the disease have been found in other herds in Norfolk county, about 100 head of cattle at the state insane asylum in Medfield being condemned and destroyed. The local cattle inspector in that town also found the disease in cattle owned by his father. Isolated cases have since been reported and a systematic inspection of all herds in that section of the state is in progress. The fact that Dr. Salmon has been called to Massachusetts is looked upon as a result of the

EDISON'S NEW BATTERY

Famous Electrician Claims His Latest Marvel Will Soon Furnish

Homemade Light and Heat and

Automobiles For All Without the Services of an Expert. In an authorized interview-the first one given out by Thomas A. Edison in explanation of his new storage battery -the great inventor tells just how it is made and what it will do, says the

New York World. "Yes, my new battery is finished," said Mr. Edison to the reporter.

"It is finished after four years of constant work.

"The new battery means that another so called impossible thing has been accomplished. It was believed that in the present state of our knowledge of chemistry no commercially successful battery could be made without the use of lead. My invention negatives this, as I have used no lead whatever-nothing but iron, nickel and potash. "The storage batteries that are at present in use in automobiles were originally designed for stationary purposes, not for vehicles. The various automobile companies have been doing the best they could with them, but they were entirely inadaptable to vehicle

"The acid or lead which is used in painted with two good coats of white these batteries gives a complicated lead zinc and linseed oil paints of such chemical action. The batteries are thus not perfectly reversible, or, in other words, there is a leakage-a gradual plaster, with a white hard finish. The loss of power. A true storage battery floors are all laid with narrow tongued is one that must be perfectly reversible

"If a man buys an electric automobile today, he is furnished with a book of instructions about the battery, he must hire an expert to teach him how to run it, and if he does not follow the instructions he finds himself in a short while without any motive power.

"The life of an old fashioned battery is in proportion to its weight. If it is reduced in weight, its lifetime also is inevitably cut down. The problem, therefore, was to construct a battery not for experts, but for general use, a battery which a man can forget and neglect and which will plod along and do its work just the same.

"The thing that was needed was what I might call brutal practicability. Every machine made for general use must be made not only so that it will work properly when properly treated, but when it is abused as well. The new battery fills the bill in this regard. It has stood every possible test successfully. For a long time it has been my habit to test the packing of goods that were to be shipped. The packages are taken to a third story they are found to be unbroken when The second floor woodwork is paint- they are picked up, the packing is said the test automobile was turned up-The hardware is of fancy imitation side down with a crash, but neither

"There is no comparison between it and the other batteries. The one on exhibition in New York city weighs wash trays and sink, with open plumb- 660 pounds and will drive a heavy automobile, with two passengers, 100 leave Stops Arrive miles without charging if the roads Quincy. at Boston. Leave Stops Arrive Boston. at Quincy are good. It has enormous charge rate and is, in my opinion, the beau ideal for vehicle traction. At any rate, it is absolutely the best that I can do in that line.

"To describe the new battery in a popular way is not easy, though the machine is very simple. It may be r called an internal combustion apparatus. Finely powdered iron forms one pole, and an oxide of nickel forms the other pole. These two have never been used before for storage purposes. I also use an alkali, which is more stable

"When you connect a number of these cells with an automobile motor, the iron rusts or becomes oxidized. If the iron were outdoors, this rusting process would produce heat, but in the battery it produces electricity instead. It turns into heat finally, of course. The oxygen necessary to burn the iron is stored up in the nickel, so we don't have to get it from the air. When all the iron is rusted or oxidized, then the battery gives no more current and must be recharged.

"The battery was invented to solve prearranged problem in vehicle traction. If it failed in any one of half a dozen particulars, it would be a complete failure. When I began to work on it, four years ago, I labored for eighteen months without getting any-Few materials are more suitable or thing tangible. At present nothing remains but for an automobile company

"Yes, the new battery will settle the horse-not at once, but by degrees. The price of automobiles will be reduced so that almost every family may have one and run it without the aid of an as laid, make a wall of better color and expert. In fact, I hope that the time richer texture than one built up of the has nearly arrived when every man more expensive pressed bricks, which | may not only have his own automobile, are monotonously even in shape and but also be able to light his own house, color, with a surface like cut cheese. charge his own machine, heat his rooms, cook his food, etc., by electricity these services.

HOW TO INHALE.

Best Method of Breathing Steam to Cure Coughs.

During the winter months throat and chest troubles are abundant, and the victim is more often than not ordered to inhale, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Inhalers are expensive things to buy, and so the ordinary substitute is a jug filled with fairly bot water. Over this the patient sits, head and face enveloped in a towel, gasping and choking, getting a mouthful of steam, and then Sprague & Hobert, Washington cor. River St. raising the head in order to exhale, SOU .'H QUINCY-P. L. Litchfield, Water St. taking in during the process several mouthfuls of air.

This method does more harm than good, causing violent coughing fits. which irritate the throat and chest, and making the patient more susceptible to cold. If, therefore, instead of using the jug a common bedroom hot water can is taken, well warmed and carefully filled one-third full with boiling water. to which, say, a teaspoonful of eucalyptus oil or whatever the doctor has ordered has been added, a capital inhaler has been made.

Make a tube of the stiffest notepaper. place over the spout of the can to serve as a mouthpiece, raise the lid of the can the least little bit, and, placing the mouth to the spout, the steam escape as it is breathed out through the lid. It is most important not to fill the can above the opening of the spout, or a mouthful of the boiling water will be sucked in, with most disastrous results. Avoid going into a cold room after inhaling.

Former Mayor Ames Captured In New Hampshire

HIS HEALTH IS SHATTERED

Had Been Sheltered In Home of a Clergyman-Will Fight Extradition to Minnesota, Where He Is Wanted on Charge of Attempted Bribery

Hancock, N. H., Feb. 16.-Broken in spirit, a physical wreck, and changed almost beyond recognition, Albert A. Ames, formerly mayor of Minneapolis, and who is wanted in that city on an discovered yesterday in the home of a local minister and placed under arrest by Sheriff Doane of Nashua. So pitiful was his condition that he was not locked up, but left in charge of a deputy to wait the arrival of officers from Minneapolis. After his arrest, however, Ames communicated with United States District Attorney Hamblett of Nashia and obtained his services for a fight which he says he will make against ex-Ames has been here for several weeks, although his presence was not known outside of the home of Rev. C. H. Chaffin, who received and sheltered him. Mrs. Chaffin is a sister of the woman who accompanied Ames and who s supposed to be his wife. The knowledge of this relationship probably led to nis detection.

Sheriff Doane received a communicaion from Chief of Police Greger of Minneapolis asking him to go to Hancock and see if Ames had sought refuge at the home of his sister-in-law. The sheriff came here Saturday and after an investigation placed Ames under arest yesterday afternoon.

Ames is wanted to enswer to an inctment for attempted bribery, and also for defaulting his $16,000 bail given at .98 the time of his indictment. The priswere he a well man he would return 39 that under the circumstances he would make a desperate fight.

Ames is wonderfully changed from 1.69 Minneapolis police after his disappear- them you would use stronger language." ance from that city. He has grown a full beard and his hair is almost white. It is said that he is 62 years of age, but he looks over 70. His flesh is much 1.69 wasted away and from a physical standpoint he is helpless.

Just how long the parsonage has protected the prisoner and his wife is not known outside of the house, and none of the family are inclined to talk. It is pelieved, however, that Minneapolis deectives who followed him to Boston ere thrown off the track there, and that he came directly to this town. Beore going to Boston he was reported to have been in Kentucky and Indiana, and it is thought that he came east from the latter state.

As soon as the Minneapolis officers each here the matter of Ames' extralition will be taken up before the governor and council. Those who are familiar with the fighting abilities of Hamblett are inclined to believe that the return west of the prisoner will le delayed for a considerable time.

Developments indicate that Ames has till many friends and abundant financial resources, and that every move to bring him to trial in Minneapolis will be bitterly contested.

H., where he has been for some time. The authorities have known of his location, but it was not until a peremptory order was given by Judge Harrison that steps were taken to have him returned to Minneapolis for trial. Ames fled from the city in July.

Appropriate Memorial Services at Wreck in Havana Harbor

Havana, Feb. 16.-Four hundred served the fifth anniversary of the destruction of the Maine. A flag draped with crape and a wreath were hung on the wreck as a tribute to those who lost their lives in the disaster. Representatives of the Cuban Veterans' association took part in the ceremony and brought the finest of all the floral offerings. The exercises were purely memorial, references calculated to revive animosities being purposely avoided. The United States legation was not represented, Minister Squiers holding that any possibility of stirring up the feelings of the Spanish residents by public exercises commemorative of a bitter incident in the war ought to be avoided. Ernest Conant delivered the memorial address. He paid a tribute to the victims, but commended the mutual respect now existing between those who for a brief period fought each other, and in his references to the late Admiral Sampson the speaker especially eulogized the Spanish admiral, Cervera, Other speakers urged the co-operation of Cubans, Spaniards and Americans in working out Cuba's destiny. Good Afternoon.

There is nothing small about the Quincy birth rate, even if there is amenting in Massachusetts and France,

Many are to be congratulated over the increase of pay for the street railway men. Not alone the conductors and motormen who are to be pecuniarily benefited, but the officials of the system, the city and travelling public. The terms are even more advantageous to the men than those recently promulgated by the Boston Elevated Company, and will reward faithful and continuous service.

The officials are to be congratulated because they seem to take an interest in their employes and are willing to pay good wages and share the profits. The city and the travelling public are to be congratulated because Quincy will not be the scene of disorder and bloodshed which have recently cast a stigma upon Waterbury, Conn., Lynn and other cities. All labor differences should be promptly adjusted as in this case, that no ill feelings may arise.

Drift of Opinion.

Another new two-cent pos stamp has made its appearance in the mails. I presume those who bossed the job thought they were improving on the old one, but it is far from being an improvement. The head is supposed to be that of Washington. If "George" were here he could not recognize it. I cannot understand why men will put the head of a man on a postage stamp when millions of them are punched in the face every day. Better put the "bald" eagle on the postage stamp for he is a born thief; he lives by plundering the osprey and in other depredations, therefore he ought to be punched The most beautiful postage stamps I have seen are the Japanese stamps. Mr. Foster states that "the Boston with other companies, at least in the they demanded should go into effect east, is the most scientific and most April 1. substantial advance in the history of street railways. The total increase amounts to $154,677.87, or 12.18 per present fiscal year however, will be each and every man an opportunity to improve his condition from year to year. The companies have many true and tried men-men who look upon the success of the companies as their own, who as a rule are married, have families and are settled permanently in their respective communities-and experience show that such men take greater interest in the welfare of patrons of the companies, have less accidents and that repairs to their cars and machinery are the least.

"The classification and increase affect 2522 conductors and motormen. Men varying from 17 to 20 cents per hour. I wenty-three per cent of the total number of this class receive an increase varing from 11 to 18 per cent. and 50 per cent of them will within two months be advanced to Class No. 2. This class contains the new men who cause most anxiety to street railway managers. POLITENESS IN JAPAN.

Even "Giving Notice" Is Made an Occasion of Compliments.

Politeness distinguishes the relations between mistresses and maids in Japan. It is so inexorable in Japan that even the ceremony of "giving notice" is turned into an occasion of compli ments. There are no vulgar threats or sulkings or recriminations or scold ings or "answering back." A servant will never tell her mistress that she is dissatisfied or has had some better place offered her. That would be unpardonably rude. Instead she asks for a few days' leave of absence. This is willingly granted, for Japanese servants have no settled time for taking holidays. At the end of the given time the mistress will begin to wonder what has be come of the girl. She is not left to wonder long. A letter arrives couched in the most polite and humble terms and giving any excuse but the real one Sometimes it will be that she ha soak in the unbeaten white of an egg found herself too weak for service of at not returning in time, will take her arrears of wages and her bundles and disappear forever. So the matter ends with the kindest semblance of feeling on both sides. If the mistress on her part does not wish to have the girl back, she will not tell her so to her face, but will send word. Even when servants come on trial for a few days they often leave nominally to fetch their belongings or never because they have any "com cion of bad manners or of anything leading up to a "scene."

NO DELAY IS ANTICIPATED

Venezuela, United States and France Will Probably Line Up at The Hague as Opposed to Allies' Preferential Treatment Claims

Washington, Feb. 16.-Minister Her-WOLLASTIN PARK-C. E. Hosmer, con bert Bowen expects to begin immediately the preparation of the protocols with the representatives of the unallied powers for the settlement of the claims of the citizens of those nations who have suffered as a result of the troubles in Venezuela. There are eight of these claimant nations, including the United States.

The drawing up of the protocol with this government will be the first undertaken. Solicitor Penfield of the state department will represent the United States in these negotiations with Mr. Bowen. Work on this protocol, it is expected, will begin today, and Mr. Bowen's belief is that matters will move forward with greater rapidity than they did with the representatives of the allied governments who were enforcing the blockade against Venezuela. The negotiations with France will follow those with the United States, and so on until the protocols with all the unallied creditor nations are completed.

The suggestion has been made that as the unallied nations naturally are opposed to any preferential treatment to Germany, Great Britain and Italy. that in all probability Venezuela, the United States and France will be lined up as representing the eight unallied nations at The Hague as opposed to

Mr. Bowen continues to receive nunerous congratulatory dispatches from Venezuela on the satisfactory outcome of his work here. One of those which he prizes most highly is from the citizens of La Guaira, through the prefect, which read as follows: "The citizens of La Guaira, through me, felicitate you as the great and good friend of Vene-

Various efforts have been made by representatives of the big financial houses in this country to sound Mr. Bowen as to his views on the question of financing the debts of Venezuela which will arise out of the expected adjudication of the claims by the several mixed commissions. Mr. Bowen, however, has informed all those who have spoken to him on the subject that his mission here is entirely a diplo matic one, and that he could not consider the financial features of the

Blockade Is Raised

Caracas, Feb. 16.-Since S o'clock Saturday morning the Venezuelans were awaiting impatiently the official intimation that the blockade had been raised. They knew such action was to be taken, but no notification came Saturday. Sunday morning the Britmoved to the headquarters of the Boot sh man- of-war Tribune was still at La Guaira enforcing the blockade and preventing the fishermen from leaving the harbor. At 9:30 the government inquired of the United States legation whether it had received any advices and received a negative reply. The government was puzzled until at 11 o'clock the news reached Caracas that the captain of the Tribune had notified the authorities at La Guaira that the blockade was raised. At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Tribune left for Trinidad.

The news received from all the Venezuelan ports except Coro and Higuerote is that the foreign warships sailed away yesterday. The government, immediately on receiving the news that the blockade had been raised, took military measures and sent troops in all directions to crush the revolution without giving the rebels a moment's respite.

This Week In Congress Washington, Feb. 16.—The senate still finds itself burdened with the statehood bill, and while just as anxious to dispose of it in some way in order to proceed unimpeded with other business it is not even as confident of being able to do so as at the beginning of last week.

The appropriation bills are well advanced in the house for this stage of the session. With less than three weeks of the session ahead, only three of the supply bills remain to be acted on. Two of these, the naval and fortification bills, are on the calendar and will be passed this week. The general deficiency bill will follow next week. Delays on these bills in the senate, however, now promise to crowd things during the final hours.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES In Memory of Gloucester Fishermen

Lost During the Past Year Gloucester. Mass., Feb. 16.-Many people from all walks of life crowded Atlantic wharf yesterday afternoon and witnessed the beautiful, yet pathetic ceremony, when 74 flowers, emblematic of the 74 lives sacrificed in the fisheries from this port during the past year, were cast upon the waters of Gloucester harbor.

These memorial services are conducted annually under the auspices of Gloucester Seamen's bethel, of which Rev. D. D. Charlton is the present religious director. The records of the bethel show that during the past 72 years the deep has claimed 5046 lives from among the fishermen of Gloucester harbor: 989 widows and 1980 children have been left to mourn these tragic deaths; 732 vessels have been lost, representing a total value of $3,493,046.

The exercises were attended yesterday by a larger crowd and more interest was manifested than on any former similar occasion, in spite of the fact that the air was raw and disagreeable. The services opened with the singing by a chorus of seamen's children of tion was pronounced by Rev. D. C. Charlton.

Following the exercises at the wharf memorial service was held at the city hall. Brief addresses, interspersed by singing, were delivered. Each of these speakers paid an eloquent tribute to the lost fishermen

Mysterious Death In Shanty

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 16.-Charles Hill. aged about 40, a shoemaker, who came here recently from Haverhill, was found dead yesterday in a hovel at the rear of Linfield street. George Smiledge is the tenant of the place and Hill was one of a party of guests who beld a carousal in the shanty Saturday night. Smiledge says that his guests with the exception of Hill left the place early Sunday morning. He went to bed, leaving his companion asleep on the floor. When he roused himself about 10 o'clock yesterday he discovered Hill lying dead. An autopsy will be held, and an investigation will also be held into Saturday night's carousal.

A Timely Rescue

Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 16 .-- Fishing schooner Kineo, Captain John Streams, came into port with the crew of the schooner E. H. Foster, Boston for St. John, who were taken from their dismasted craft 40 miles off Cape Ann. The Foster had a hard time in a heavy gale. The captain and the four men of the crew were nearly exhausted and assistance came just in time. schooner went to the bottom within a few minutes after the men had bee 1 taken off by the Kineo.

HERE was now a lull in the battle on the right. The flerce | mainly, with small arms. charge and countercharges were intermitted. Longstreet ranks perilously neared the crest a was reforming his men, preparing to sweep Thomas from the field. So, too, there was a momentary respite from the attacks to which the Union left had been subjected all morning. The two exhausted armies rested where they were for a breathing space "Throw Out the Life Line." Following ere they renewed the action. Thomas this, Rev. W. H. Rider, D. D., spoke took advantage of this respite to withbriefly. Seventy-four children, each in draw his troops to the rear to a more turn, then cast their flowers upon the favorable defensive position. There water. Prayer was offered by Rev. A. was a semicircular hill back of Kel-M. Osgood, a chorus sang "There Will ley's field, called by many on account Be No Dark Valley," and the benedic- of its shape the horseshoe and by others Snodgrass hill, from the home of a small farmer which stood on the top of it. A spur of Missionary ridge extending out to the eastward, it rises about a hundred feet above the surrounding country. Its top is undulating and broken. Some distance to the westward, in the rear of its crest, there is a shallow ravine, beyond which rise other hills, one ridge in particular running east and west and commanding the horseshoe. It was thickly wooded and in places very steep. As it covered both the Rossville and Dry Valley roads Thomas determined to re-establish his line

> The troops as they retreated up the slopes were thrown around the crest of the hill and preparations made for another series of assaults to be expected. Firing on the right had not yet been resumed, and Thomas, ignorant of the disaster, having received no word, fancied this to mean the rebels had been repulsed and had given over the attack. He confidently expected re-enforcements and fought on, eagerly looking for the hoped for succor. He did not know that he was left alone with his four divisions to fight the whole Confederate army.

Presently a cloud of dust rising above the treetops indicated a body of men approaching Snodgrass hill from the right. Hoping, praying, that it was Sheridan's division coming to his appeared through it in ghastly yellow assistance, Thomas directed a staff officer to ride down and make sure of it. The soldier came back at full gallop and reported that he did not think it was Sheridan's division, but the troops of the enemy.

To meet this new danger Thomas hurriedly extended his lines to the tween two electric cars of the Old right and rear along the edge of the Colony Street Railway company, re- hill, occupying the position at first by sulting in injuries more or less severe a single Ohio regiment, and re-enforcto eight persons and considerable dam- ing it by stragglers from different diage to rolling stock. Although there visions who began drifting into his were 60 or more passengers in the two lines in considerable numbers from the cars not a bone was broken and in only routed right. Each one brought a tale one instance are the injuries considered of defeat and disaster which might serious. The accident was caused by well have appalled the stoutest heart.

It did not take Thomas many minutes to surmise that he was left with a fraction of the Union troops to hold Snodgrass hill in the face of the whole Confederate army. If he gave way, if he retreated or were driven from that field, the Army of the Cumberland would be irretrievably ruined, routed, smashed, battered to pieces, destroyed.

The expected attack was not long in coming. Sweeping forward with resistless force, excited and stimulated by their tremendous successes of the morning, Longstreet's veterans hurled themselves upon the hill. Again and again the gray deluge came rolling up the slope as a mighty wave assaults a rock shore. Again and again they were beaten back by the wall of fire which ringed its crest. The continuous

We Know is Hard to Control.

Our Vinol is Making a Wonderful Record in Curing This Dangerous Disease.

CALL AND LET US TELL YOU ABOUT IT.

Here is a letter that has just come to our attention. It will interest people suffering from bronchial troubles. It is from Mr. Geo. W. Brown, of So. Hanover, N. H., and reads as follows: "I have suffered with bronchial troubles for over a year; tried two doctors and have taken three or four kinds of medicine, none of which did me any good. At times I was so hoarse I could not speak. Then I heard of Vinol. After taking three bottles of it my voice has perfectly returned to I can see that in a short time I will be all right. When I began to take it I was very weak, but it has built me up and given me a good appe-

This is what Vinol always does. This is the way Vinol accomplishes its mission of doing good.

Vinol, as we wish every one to know, owes its power of accomplishing the cures that it effects to the fact that it contains the most wonderful medicina. elements known to science for the cure of all wasting diseases, as well as being in itself a marvelous tonic. These medicinal properties exist and have here-tofore been found only in cod-liver oil. Vinol contains these elements. For by a scientific process the necessary cura tive properties of the cod-liver oil have been separated from the fat and grease which formerly made cod-liver oil prep- description of the valuables. arations so objectionable.

As long as Vinol does not contain any of the vile-smelling oil, and is pre-pared by combining the sought-after properties with a delicate table wine, it is a most delicious and palatable

We know of what we speak when we recommend Vinol, and because we do know that Vinol does all we claim for it, we unhesitatingly endorse it, and guarantee at any time to refund the money paid for the remedy if you are not satisfied it will do all we claim for it,

CHAPTER XXV.

"TOWARD THE SOUND OF THE CANNON." WAY off on Ringgold road three small brigades of the Union army under Major General Gordon Granger lay on their arms around McAffee church on that dreadful Sunday morning. Far to the right of them from the deep woods enshrouding the battlefield the roar of the conflict trembled up through the air. They had been placed on that road to cover any possible attack on the far left, with instructions to remain there until ordered away. No enemy was near them, and it seemed evident that none was likely to approach

As the sound of the battle grew deeper and fiercer, as its thunder rolled back and forth in ever increasing detonation over the hills, the commander of the corps, chafing impatiently at this inaction, determined at last to advance toward the fighting. Disregarding his orders, on his own motion about noon he started for Thomas' position. Leaving one brigade to hold the road, the men marched rapidly through the heat and dust toward the sound of the

Avoiding bodies of cavalry skirmishadvanced they saw evidences of the stricken fugitives, wounded soldiers, abandoned wagons, broken guns, terrified men, weaponless regiments, masterless horses, the shattered remnants of a routed army, surging toward Rossville, stopping for nothing. Directing lifted. Now the crest was filled with the division commander, General Steedman, to come forward at the quickest possible speed, Granger with his staff galloped ahead toward Snodgrass hill, which he could see in the trees, blazing like a volcano, smoking like a fur- lent and awestricken, some stood with nace, shaking like an earthquake, roaring like a tornado.

Thomas had seen the clouds of dust raised in the dry air by the approaching troops. What could that mean? Who could they be? Had the Confed- the edge. There was Thomas himself, erates got to the rear of that long assailed flank at last? Was he to be ing troops were the men of Rosecrans' swept them away in scores. For twenty minutes pandemonium reigned. The passions of hell were let loose. At the end of that time the hill was gained, the ravine cleared and over 2,000 men in blue and gray lay dead and dying on its slopes. They had saved the army. The battle all around the circle had not been intermitted a moment during this episode either. And now the ammunition of Thomas' men was almost expended. But Granger's men shared theirs with their comrades and there was a slight lull in the conflict again after this repulse of the attempt to take the ridge, while both sides prepared for its re-

His men had waited their turn with the philosophy of veterans who knew that the day could not pass without their being poured into that smelting furnace of death and destruction. They had moved forward in the wake of the grand assaulting column and were now drawn up just out of range from the hill under the out of range from the hill under the trees. SPELL TERRAPIN.

There Are Five Ways, So You Will Hardly Get It Wrong.

the fact that there are more ways to water than any other I have any knowledge of. It is almost impossible to spell it incorrectly, and this is some thing you can say about very few words in the English language. By consulting the dictionary we will find that there are five ways of spelling the word, and they are these: Terrapin, terapin, terrapen, terrapene, turapen. The preference is given to the first way of spelling the word-that is, terrapinbut if a man should happen to write it in some other way he would not be entirely wrong. There is not much excuse for spelling this word incorrectly. Why, a fellow can shut his eyes and hit the mark almost every time. He can write it in the dark. The harder stunt would be to write it incorrectly. And yet it happens now and then that men hit upon the wrong way of any age. spelling this very same word. I have known men to spell it tarrypin, but not in print. But the point I had in mind was the curious fact that there are so many correct ways of spelling the word, and at this time I cannot recall the name of a single other creature the name of a single other was the curious fact that there are so similarly circumstanced so far as the dictionary is concerned."-New Orleans Times-Democrat.

On the Democratic side the Demo crats can join the bolters and elect anybody the coalition pleases. This cannot be prevented by the Union Republicans, and they would not lift a hand to prevent it.

As to the future position of the Union Republicans, in no event will any more notice be taken of the bolters in Newcastle county. No more common primaries will be tolerated which would be binding on bolters. No man who refused to vote for J. Edward Addicks in the legislature will ever be allowed to hold any office in Delaware, nor will any bolter sympathizers be permitted to come to the front. Union Republicans will nominate a straight ticket in Wilmington and throughout the stata in the long future.

As to the appointments, Congressman Ball cannot get a federal appointment. After March 4 the appointments, according to custom, ought to go to the chairman of the Union Republican state committee and the national committeeman, J. Edward Addicks. We will see where the power will lie.

CHAPTER XXVII.

THE RETURN OF THE REGIMENT. was a pleasant morning in October when the steamer from Montgomery drew up at the wharf with the regiment on board. There was a great concourse of people on the dock and in the nearby streets. Two or three companies of young boys and old men, home guards, in cheap, ill fitting uniforms, were there to welcome them, and there was a regiment from General Maury's command at the Spanish fort at Blakely to do them honor. The or with him.' rest of the crowd was made up of hoary grandfathers, little children and women. The troops on the shore presented arms as the debarkation of the regiment began.

A regiment! Was that handful a regiment? A faint attempt to raise a Darrow's failing hand. He gave it to the lieutenant in command, a mere | knot of our men rallied around me boy, who had been a private when he and stood there on that slope until went forth. There were tears in his they were shot down, all but me. I eyes, he stepped unsteadily, his sword trembled in his hands, his voice broke as he gave the words of command. Close after him came a little squad of men carrying the flag, a mere tattered, blood stained rag now, drooping down the staff in the still air. Then on a itter, carried by some of the soldiers, ame the prostrate figure of young Pleasants, the heroic lieutenant colonel. His foot was bandaged, and the yound and exposure had brought on a relapse of his fever. He had strength nough left to prop himself upon his arm and turn his gaze listlessly toward the crowd.

Then came the wounded who were able to march-men with their heads tied up, men with their arms in improvised slings, men leaning on human crutches, men with bandages over their eyes, led by others, and then the well nen-only by contrast could these haggard, broken fellows be called wellperhaps 100 of them. The two men played a few bars of it, but it was too much for them. The music stopped suddenly. The heads of the men of the regiment dropped on their breasts as the saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, memories of their first passage down Government street—the day they went away, so young, so hopeful and so strong - came upon them, staggering over the same highway on that day. Tears streamed from their eyes. They were home, all that was left of them. It was good to be home again. A groan burst from the crowd. The regiment proceeded slowly a little way up the street, the people swarming about it. There, on the norch at Annandale as they had seen her as they marched away, stood Mary Annau-no; not the same, for then she was gay and joyous; now she was bowed with grief and arrayed in the garments of mourning. With her were Mrs. Peyton and her daughter and old Mrs. Pleasants. Hamilton's father had gone to the front. The boy was to be taken there, and his mother had come to meet him. They, too, were in the same somber garb, and they made a striking group, a black dot against the white walls of the old house. The women in the street were pressing hard upon the soldiers now. Cries and appeals rang along the street. "Jack, Jack! Is it you?" "Oh, thank God, you've come back!" "Has any one seen my son?"

"Oh, where is my husband?" And so on in a confused medley of heartbreaking appeals. The ranks were invaded now. They were broken. The march was stopped. of it. The regiment was home and in the CHAPTER XXVIII.

PEYTON POINTS OUT THE WAY. was the afternoon of the Ith of August, 1864, in the cabin of the U.S. steamer sloop of war Hartford, caring the flag of Admiral David Glasow Farragut, Captain Percival Draycommanding.

'Well, Drayton," said the admiral, oking up from the chart at the officer itting near him in the cabin, "I think ve have done everything we can do the way of preparation, and nothing ow remains but to put the affair to

"Yes, sir," answered Drayton, a tall, hin, dark, swarthy, full bearded sailor, e able commander of the Hartford and Farragut's fleet captain, as brave n officer as ever sailed a ship. "I can nink of nothing to add to the instrucons you have prepared."

"The ships are to go in pairs, lashed gether," continued the admiral slowrehearsing his orders to see if anying further occurred to him, "the veaker vessels on the port hand, If ne ship is disabled by the enemy's re the other will be able to carry her ast the forts, I trust. Then the tide vill be at flood in the morning and we ould almost drift in were the process ot a little too slow. And I count upon he tide turning the percussion caps of the torpedoes away from the ships. The four monitors will go to starboard and ahead of the fleet and engage the orts at close range. The two heavier ngle turret ones will then proceed to gage the Tennessee, while the double urret Mississippi river monitors will e off the fort and cover our passage. We have had word that the Pensacola and the Tecumseh will be here this afternoon-thank God! I was mortified to death to find the army ready o begin this morning and we not able o carry out our part of the programme

"Waiting will do the soldiers no arm, sir," said Drayton, "and I hardly think it would be prudent to venture until all the fleet be here. The odds re heavy against us as it is."

"Yes, yes; I suppose you are right. I lon't fancy these iron pots myself, Drayton, but in this instance we must have them," replied Farragut thoughtully, with a sailor's natural reluctance to yield to monitor or ironclad any sueriority to the beautiful wooden ships n which he had served, been trained nd one of which now bore his flag. The time was the transition period beveen wood, sails, steam and iron, and vhile sails were doomed it was not yet quite certain that the oak timbers ould give way to the iron beam, or the broadside frigate to the turret

"Yes, admiral," assented the captain, "you see there is the ram, you know, and the gunboats. After we get past the forts we will have to deal with

"To my mind they are the most danerous obstacles to our attempt. They'll ake the life out of us in that narrow

"Yes, they will, if they are well handled, as they are sure to be. Well, we'll have to grin and bear it as best we can. Once get our broadsides to ear on the gunboats we'll make short work of them." "And the Tennessee, sir?" "We can't make any different plans to her. Old Buck is a fighter, you now. He isn't going to wait for our assage; he's going to be in the thing com the beginning, if I know him." "Quite so, sir. May I ask what you ropose to do with him?" "Why, fight him, of course!" exaimed the admiral. "Mob him! Throw very ship upon him that can get a

"The wooden ships, sir?" "Certainly; ram him with those and mmer him to pieces with the heavy uns of the monitors and our own oadsides."

"It will be wood against iron, sir," marked the captain thoughtfully. "Yes, I know that, except for the "The day of the wooden ship is about feetly certain we can attend to the Tennessee all right. We'll just work at her until we sink her by sheer weight of numbers." "Provided she doesn't sink some of us before that." "I've counted upon that, Drayton. I expect to lose some of my ships, probably some under the guns of the fort and possibly some from the Tennessee, but we shall have enough left to complete the work, never fear. That's a risk that every flag officer must run. And a lost ship counts for little beside a battle gained," said the admiral philosophically. "Notwithstanding, I fervently pray all may pass safely."

"And, as to the fire of Fort Gaines, dmiral? "Too far off for any damage to us."

"And the torpedoes?" "We'll face them too. If we can pass through the open channel near the fort, we may escape from them." "And if not?

"Good afternoon, Mr. Pcyton," said the admiral.

"I don't care that," snapping his finers, "for them! By the way, I think we'd better have Peyton in here for a anal look at this chart. Will you"-"Certainly, sir," said Drayton, anticpating the request and stepping to the door of the cabin. the admiral genially. "Sit down, sir. But, first, will you tell the orderly to end Freeman here?"

"Ah, Freeman," continued the old sailor as the pilot of the fleet came into the cabin, "come around here, both of you, where you can see this chart. These are the jottings you made on the old government chart, I believe, Freeman?"

"Yes, sir," answered the pilot respectfully.

"You think they are right, do you?" "As near as my memory serves, sir. It has been some time since I was in Mobile bay, admiral." "It won't be long before you will be in once more, I fancy, Freeman," interrupted the admiral. "Yes, sir; I hope not," answered the pilot, smiling broadly and pointing to the chart again. "There was the channel, gentlemen, but shoals change, and these waters are treacherous. Still that's the best information I can give you from memory."

"No one can do better than his best," said the admiral. "Now, Mr. Peyton, I wish you would take a look at these shoal lines and give us your opinion on them. You were born here, recollect, and perhaps you may be able to give us some additional information which will be helpful. I don't mind telling you, gentlemen, that, God willing, I am going in in the morning."

The young officer could not repress a sudden movement which the observant admiral instantly detected.

"My boy," he said, "I feel for you. I know something of how you must feel. When I came up the Mississippi to New Orleans, my own sister and many of my relatives were in the city. I dreaded the idea that I might be obliged to fire upon them at any moment. I met your father in the Mexican war. I know he will give us a hard fight."

"Yes, sir," said the young man proudly, "he is as brave as a lion." "I have no doubt of it," returned the admiral kindly, "and it is hard to think that you must fire upon his fort, but it is a thing that a great many men have had to do. I myself am a southern man, born in Tennessee. or says it acts gently on the stomach, liver lived in Louisiana when I entered the e from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as It is called "Laue's Tea" or ginians too. it didn't hurt me to turn my guns against my own people, my wife's people! Eh, Captain Drayton?"

"Indeed it does, sir," feelingly answered Drayton, who was from North Carolina. "I can well remember my own sensations when I took the Pawnee in at Port Royal. You know, my brother commanded one of the forts

"And my brother is on the Tennessee, admiral." said Peyton.

"Is he indeed?" said the admiral. "Well, Admiral Buchanan will give him plenty to do, if I know him, and us too, and we'll try to see that he has an opportunity to do all he wants. I'm just aching to meet him and have things out. Strange, Drayton, that the four men in this cabin should all be southerners in arms against the south." "Not against the south as a south, dmiral, if you will permit me," replied Drayton quickly, his face flushing--his northern ties were much more intense than the admiral's-"but against any section which seeks to disrupt the Unon. Believe me, there is a difference." "Yes," said the admiral thoughtfully,

I see that there is. You are right." "It's not that I have the slightest animosity toward the south, sir. On the contrary, I love her. She is in my mind like a child who tries to run away from her home and gets lost and we have to bring her back even"-

"Even if we batter her to pieces in the bringing." interrupted the admiral,

"Well, of course these things will happen. I have to punish my own children sometimes," commented the flag captain.

A moderate depression that was central over extreme east Lake Superior has moved eastward to the lower St. Lawrence valley and has been followed by rising pressure, which was also unprecedented in its rapidity. As a consequence there has been a reinforcement of the cold weather over the northern districts east of the Rocky mountains. It will be fair and cold in New England.

Years of Nervous Prostration

From Overwork In Legal Profession.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cured In Four Weeks.

"I have been greatly benefited by the use of Restorative Nervine; hence this letter, I had been suffering from nervous prostra-tion, perhaps, more properly speaking from neurasthenia, for four years before taking neurasthema, for four years before taking your remedy, which I commenced taking about one year ago. For a year before taking your remedy I was unable to be in my office. In four weeks after I commenced using the Nervine I was in my office at work, and stranding Court, and have been six and attending Court, and have been since then. I had, prior to using your remedy, sought much medical assistance, but without avail. My trouble arose from over-work in my profession, my health not having been firm for years. The work I did would not have been over-work had I b well. I used your remedy regu three months, and have use felt to need it. I have not remedy since I commenced us ine. THE HOLD-UP IN SENATE

Quay Has Evidently Joined Forces With Morgan

HE MAKES A NEW MOVE

To Prevent Ratification of Panama Statehood Can Be Obtained-Long Session Was Fruitless

Washington, Feb. 20 .- The senate met at 11 o'clock yesterday, but spent only an hour and 20 minutes in open session. This time was devoted to routine business and passing bills of the senate went into executive session to consider the Colombian canal treaty. Mr. Quay took a copy of the Colombia constitution from quite a large pile of documents which lay on his desk and when he asked that it be read the Republican senators sitting near him immediately concluded that he had united with Senator Morgan and that the step was intended to force the acceptance of the statehood bill.

The anti-statehood Republican senators made no concealment of their surprise at Quay's proceeding and all of them who would express an opinion at all said that the move would not result in the passage of the statehood bill whatever might be its effect upon the treaty. They did not believe that it would prevent ratification of the treaty. Before Mr. Quay took the floor Mr.

Hoar made a brief speech in support of the treaty, saying that since the Spooner act had become a law the United States was in honor bound to consummate the transaction provided for by that act.

Mr. Quay made no explanation beyond saying that the documents would throw light on the subject and that he thought that especially at this time the senate should be informed as to the provisions of the constitution of the country with which the United States is doing business. This step on his part was taken as a notice that he meant to assist in the opposition to the treaty and it was then recalled that during Wednesday's exthe absence of a quorum, thus helping toast, "The State of Delaware," said Within five minutes many dead bodies to make it easy for the Alabama senator. After the reading of the Colombian constitution had been concluded, which required about two hours' time, Mr. Morgan continued the speech he had begun Wednesday. He discussed especially what he characterized as a discrepancy between the terms of the act of June 28 last, authorizing the purfranchises and property and the terms 10 cts. can. language of the second section authoriz-5 ets. lb. ing the president to acquire perpetual part of the executive office. control of a strip of land six miles in pointed out that the lease provision in the treaty looked to the continual r newal of the lease which, in effect, they said would give the "perpetual control" provided for in the canal act. At 5:30 o'clock Mr. Quay asked Mr. Morgan if he was willing to desist. Mr. Morgan yielded and Mr. Quay moved to adjourn. The vote resulted 15 ayes to 36 noes. Senator Teller then moved to take a recess. This motion also was EXPRESS CRASHED INTO IT mals have been willing to take, at least voted down. The result brought out a declaration from Mr. Teller that nothing would be gained by harsh measures

Senator Cullom accepted this view and himself moved a recess until 8 p. m., which was agreed to. When they reconvened at 8 o'clock there were comparatively few senators present and the presiding officer scarcely had called those present to order when the point of no quorum was made. After 35 minutes a quorum was secured and Senator Morgan proceeded until 11 until 11 o'clock today.

Just before the close of the session Senator Cullom sought unanimous consent to fix a time for a vote tomorrow but Senator Morgan objected. Senator less an agreement to vote on the state- covery. hood bill also could be obtained.

Almost a Walkover for Granite City at Bowling.

Five points for Granite City and four for Braintree, was the result of Thursday night's games in the Norfolk bowling but 72 which was low man for County league at the Granite City club the club. The team average was 239.

Granite City won one game of pool, both games of billiards, and two strings at bowling; while Braintree won one game of pool, both games at whist, and one string at bowling.

The Granite City club handicap themselves at whist nearly every game for the reason that there have been no regular teams, and the men that play together have never had any team play before. Take the games of Thursday night all of the Granite City men are good players but neither of the teams had played together until that night. The result was as might have been expected, they lost both games. On the other hand the two Braintree teams are the same that have played every game.

The first game of billiards was be tween McGrath of Granite City and Waite of Braintree, and was won McGrath by a score of 75 to 40. T second game was won by Sears Granite City, who defeated Barnes Braintree by a score of 75 to 67.

The only interesting feature of the billiard games was that Barnes who Sea Quincy's take a back seat last week.

WE WANT EVERY ONE TO KNOW ABOUT IT.

READ WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY COME AND SEE US.

We don't want any one in this city to drag themselves through life in pain and misery for the want of enough strength to feel well and happy. If you feel listless, without ambition and run down, it is a bad sign. You are running grave chances. You are in a condition to be attacked by most any disease. This feeling of debility is a symptom that your system is generally demoralized. You should take a tonic. You should take Vinol, which we know and will guarantee will restore your strength. Following is one case where it did this. Mrs. T. H. Boyle, of 56 Chestnut St., West Newton, Mass., says: Last spring I used one bottle of Vinol. At that time I was all run down and sick. I find that it did me lots of good, and by its use my strength came back to me.' Vinol is a delicious preparation, containing the active curative principles that are found in cod-liver oil, dissolved in a delicate table wine. Vinol acts directly on the stomach, aiding digestion and at the same time creating a healthy appetite. It gives strength and vigor to every organ of

You will have plenty to do on her, as the squadron l leave behind will engage the works south of the point to make a diversion in our favor.'

"What, admiral!" cried the young man. "Relieve me from my station on the day of battle! Take me out of ac tion! Sir! Why-I"- He sprang to his feet, his face flushed with indigna tion. "I don't understand you, sir!" he burst out

The admiral leaned back in his chair and eyed him narrowly, with a glance that seemed to pierce through and

"You cannot mean it, sir!" Peyton continued hotly. "It's-it's-saving that we know you, sir, and love you, one would almost say it was an in"-"Hold on, my lad!" said the admiral quietly. "Your father commands that fort. Your brother is on the Tennessee. The place is sacred in your memory, for I take it, from what you say and from what I have heard, that it is associated with one even dearer to you. There is no dishonor in my proposition. I am giving you a chance in one sense. In its way it is a promotion. I can give you the command of the Pembina. You have shown your devotion to the cause by your recent search for torpedoes and mines in the channel. I don't want to compel you to do violence to your feelings.

"Admiral Farragut," said Peyton impetuously, forgetting in some part the distinction of age and rank which lay between them, "my feelings have nothing to do with my duty. My father did everything to keep me for the southmy mother, my sister and-the woman

"But, sir, he'd rather see me dead, I am sure, a thousand times, than have me accept your offer. By heavens, sir, I'd rather be a lieutenant on the Hartford in this action than the captain of the Wabash or the Colorado out at sea! They, my people, haven't any love left for me, no affection, but if they had it would wither if I did this. No, sir! If you leave the choice to me, and you would not order me away surely, under such circumstances, I stay with you. "That's well said," cried the admiral heartily. "I knew how it would be. It would have broken my heart, boy, if you had gone. Besides, I want you. I need you here."

Sheriff Dreger said this was satisfactory to him, and he was satisfied that Ames was a very sick

After the hearing, and when he had the extradition papers in his possession, Sheriff Dreger discussed the case since his arrival in the state. He said "I am satisfied that Ames has determined to return to Minneapolis and face the charges made against him as soon as his health will permit. I had a long talk with both Mr. and Mrs. Ames at Hancock and they assured me that no attempt would be made to stay the proceedings except on account of the mayor's health. Dr. Conn, the Concord physician who examined Mr. Ames at my request, reported to me Wednesday night, and I may as well tell you that he said it would be taking a big risk in removing Ames at this time. I think so myself and I am perfectly satisfied with the way things have turned out. I shall go to Manchester for a few days, to await instructions from home, and then I shall probably return to Minneapolis to wait until March 5."

District Attorney Hamblett was reticent, but asserted that his client would make no attempt to stay proceedings unless his health was such that he could not stand the strain of the journey west and the subsequent proceedings. In spite of all of the protestations to the contrary on the part of every one connected with the case, it is believed here that when the time comes for the western sheriff to present his papers and demand his man, there will be some obstacle in the way to prevent his removal.

Near him was Watson, Farragut's gallant flag lieutenant, while Peyton sat about midway down. Pens, ink and paper were strewn over the table, and every man was busy writing-every one but Peyton, that is,

It was remarkably still in the wardroom. Scarcely a sound was heard above the deep breathing of the men of you, Mary Annan. Everybody saw or would live, and the most heedless memdivined these motions, but nobody paid any attention.

They could enter into each other's feelings, and there was much sympathy in the silence. There would be time on the morrow to think of little but the battle. They were giving their thoughts to home now. They were writing those last precious words which, whether they lived or died, would stand for so much to those for whom they were destined; for they would be expressions of the heart in the face of possible or impending death, when all that is true in a man speaks forth to those he loves.

By Contract With Their Workmen, but They Submit a Proposition Looking to Recognition of Both the Rival Union Organizations

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 21.-The fact that the union stamp manufacturers of Lynn, at a conference with the arbitration committee of the board of trade last night, while they did not accept a proposition from the latter body looking to a settlement of he existing shoe strike, submitted a counter proposition, is taken as evidence that some way ray be found before long by which the differences between the parties at issue may be adjusted. For nearly four hours the situation was discussed in all its bearings. The committee submitted a proposition to the manufacturers which provided that the Knights of Labor Cutters' assembly shall call off the strike and that an agreement be signed to the following effect:

That the employes in the factories where a strike is now in progress shall not be compelled to join or pay dues to the Boot and Shoe Workers' union and that all employes shall be free to join any organization they may see fit; that the cutters shall agree that for one year from date all differences not mutually adjusted shall be referred to the state board of arbitration and that the present scale of wages shall prevail; that the women Sitichers, asembly 2016. K. of L., and members of that assembly now employed in the factories shall agree to refer all differences not adjusted to the state board of arbitration, and that there shall be no strikes or lockouts during that period; that every employe now out on strike shall be reinstated without discrimination.

The manufacturers considered this proposition at length, but decided that in view of their existing contracts with the Boot and Shoe Workers' union their hands are tied. They drew up a proposition of their own, however, for the arbitration to submit for approval to Master Workman Armstrong and the general executive board of the K. of L and this was made the subject of a two hours' conference between the committee and the K. of L. officials.

The proposition was in such form that the officers of the K. of L. did not feel free to accept it, but the board of trade arbitration committee and the manufacturers will have another meeting this afternoon, at which an effort will be made to have the articles of the proposed agreement modified in such manner as will prove acceptable to the K. of L.

There is a decided feeling that some ground of mutual understanding will be reached at this conference. The exact terms of the proposition submitted by the manufacturers are not made public, but it is understood that in effect it recognizes both labor organizations, the K. of L. Cutters' assembly and the B. and 8. W. U., for a certain number of years, said to be two, in the shoe trade, and that during that time the union stamp shall be retained in the factories: that the B. and S. W. U. shall not seek to introduce its stamp in any other fac tories and that the union shall have the right to organize the cutters now employed in stamp factories into their union, provided the cutters desire to be so organized.

The first proposition submitted by the arbitration committee practically meant the doing away with the union stamp, but this the manufacturers were not willing to do at present, but the fact that they were willing to submit a counter proposition indicates a disposition on their part to affect a settlement.

The strike has resulted in increased business for the non-union stamp factories, as they have taken many orders which the stamp factories could 1 ot handie.

Assault on Strike Breakers

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 21.-After some days of quietness there was a resu 'p tion of disorder in the streets last night in connection with the shoe strike, two strike breakers being set upon by a mob and roughly handled. One of them escaped, but the other, Levi White, planted himself against the wall of a building and gave back blow for !-low. He was arrested with two of his assailants, all three being charged with disorderly conduct.

Referee Settles Strike Brockton, Mass., Feb. 21.-The strike of the Building union which began on Sept. 1 was settled last night by the decision of a referee to whom both sides left the question of the daily wage. Before the strike the men received $2.50 a day and their demand was for $3. The referee returned a decision last night in favor of a daily wage of $2.65. His decision will undoubtedly be ac-

Heavy Losses In Wages Exeter, N. H., Feb. 21.-The strike situation at the shoe factory of Gale Bros. has not changed materially. The operatives have already lost several thousand dollars in wages since the trouble began.

Stealings May Reach $70,000 Ottawa, Feb. 21.-E. Martineau, clerk for the militia department, who is in custody for alleged embezzlement, was yesterday remanded for a week. It is now said that the shortage will amount to about $70,000.

For Good Health At Seventy,

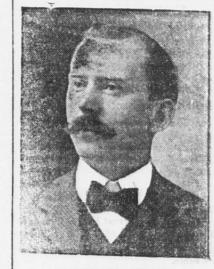

After Years of Heart Trouble,

Due Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart.

"I do not know how my trouble began, but my symptoms were those of heart disease. I suffered from sleeplessness, headache, indisuffered from sleeplessness, headache, indigestion, cough and neuralgia. I had constant pains around my heart, swelling in left side and breast and pain in left shoulder. My heart would flutter and palpitate. Because of shortness of breath and smothering spells I could not lie down with my head low. I consider my health excellent considering my age, which is seventy, and to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure I give all the credit. I gladly recommend it and Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills."—MRs. J. B. FULL R, Chester, Vt. A treatise on heart disease might be writ-

A treatise on heart disease might be written from the facts contained in the above testimonial. As Mrs. Fuller truly says, her symptoms were those of heart disease. An equally convincing symptom might be found by the specialist in her statement that she did not know how her trouble began. Weak hearts are as common as weak stomachs and one may have a weak heart for years without knowing it. Colds, indigestion, physical or mental strain, etc., are sufficient to change a weak heart to a diseased heart. If you have any of the above symptoms, in no matter how slight a degree, you cannot afford to delay slight a degree, you cannot afford to delay treatment a single day. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure will helpyou. It will enrich your blood, improve your circulation, tone up your system and regulate the action of your heart.

Great achievers, men and women who bring things to pass, obstacles or no obstacles, have an abundance of iron in their Blood blood. They they they push ahead, regardless of obstacles;

There is no quality of character that gains more admiration and respect than that which enables a person to form a definite purpose and then concentrate all his energy in executing it. To possess and use this quality, it is necessary to be in a sound mental and physical condition, to have an abundance of iron in the blood, which gives stamina, vigor and endurance.

Peptiron blood, nourishes, strengthens and steadies the nerves and produces the above result. It is a new and thoroughly scientific prep-aration, combining iron with the best tonics and nutrients; is agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and readily assimilated, and has the great advantage of not causing constipation nor injuring the teeth.

THE BISHOP

By L. E. Chittenden Copyright, 1902, by the S. S. McClure

Dummy Dee had come to call upon the bishop.

The bishop and he were very particular friends and therefore shook hands, as man to man, in a very cordial manner.

"I came," said Dummy Dee, "on very particular business, and I would have been awful sorry not to find you at op, "there lived a man alone, and, as home."

"I am very glad to be here, Dummy Dee," said the bishop, smiling at his guest.

There was a short pause, Dummy Dee frowning thoughtfully into space for ideas and the bishop waiting to hear the manner of his guest's busi-

"Are you ever lonesome, bishop?" asked Dummy Dee at last, leaning forward and clasping his short arms around his knees.

"Yes, often," said the bishop, the note of truth vibrating through his

Childless and wifeless and of strong and often unpopular opinions, the scholarly bishop was indeed a lonely man, just now particularly so.

A controversial point had forced him into a position where he stood almost if not quite alone. He tried to believe his position was a matter of principle. His enemies said it was obstinacy and dogmatism, and even his warmest friends were silent and regretful over the matter at issue.

He bad when Dummy Dee came in been writing on the point, and bitter, fiery words were penned on the sheets of paper that strewed the open desk. He glanced at them now as he spoke, and from them to the beautiful pictured face of his young wife, who had died very early in their married life. Yes, he was very lonely.

Dummy Dee nodded and looked thoughtfully at the glowing grate fire. "Nice things happen sometimes when you're lonesomest, though," he said by way of giving a small crumb of comfort to his friend.

"You know mother is sick and down south getting her health and father busy at the settlement work, and sometimes I get kind of a stomach ache in my heart and a lump in my throat.

"My, it most chokes me," he added feelingly. "But just the other day the summer boarder sent me these bicycle trousers," sticking out his short leg for the bishop to see, "or I never could have stood it in the world. She knew how I felt about kilts and aprons and always having to wear something of the other children's 'count of their growing so fast and me not. I slept with 'em that night in bed, and once when I woke up and thought about mother I just reached over and felt of these, and then I felt better. Did you ever try anything like that?" he asked, looking at the bishop's trousered legs stretched out on the other

"Then there are always things to do r folks, you know, and that's on thing I came to see about," continued Dummy Dee. "I've been taking soup and books and things up for the settlement people to a little girl who lives in an attic near the settlement.

"She's got a kind of mother, only she's an aunt and awful bad to her. She drinks something out of a bottle"-and Dummy Dee lowered his voice to a shocked whisper-"and she is awful mean to Nora."

"What is the matter with Nora?" asked the bishop.

"A spinal back I think they call it," said Dummy Dee, with a learned air, "and I feel so sorry. I asked father if he'd adopt her, and he said he thought he couldn't. I've thought I'd marry her if necessary, but father would have to adopt us both then. What do you

At last the shadows grew longer.

"I've a last story to tell you two children before we go," said the bishop, "and you must be very quiet and listen hard, for there is a guessing part to it. "Once upon a time," began the bish-

"There came to him one day a dear little friend of his who was also lonely, but who tried to forget his loneliness by helping others and was comforted by doing this. So the man learned a lesson from his little friend. and he, too, found comfort and happiness as the boy had.

"Now, the man naturally did not want to be lonely and unhappy and bitter again, for he found the better part, so he thought out a plan. He would take the boy down south to his mother, who is almost well, but not quite so well as she will be when the man brings to her her youngest boy."

There was a queer gurgling sob that was half a laugh and half a cry trouble. and altogether a mixture of homesickness and coming delight, and Dummy Dee shot himself bodily into the bishop's arms, cuddled against his shoulder and lay there sniffling hapkerchief that could not be found, and Church. his fingers closed gratefully over the bishop's fine lawn that he found within

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 22-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic .- An evening with home missions.

The general missionary command of Christ to His disciples was, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," but just before His ascension He specialized this general Surely there are many historic spots worldwide mission by setting forth the of National interest, and enterprises order in which it was to be performed. which are novel to many. A brief list And by Christ's suggested method mission work was to be begun at home. "Ye shall be witnesses unto Me both in Jerusalem and in all Judæa and in Samaria and unto the uttermost part of the earth." First Jerusalem, the home city; then Judæa, the home country; then Samaria, the first contiguous country, and thence the whole world. And the book of the Acts is the record of the preaching of the gospel (1) in Jerusalem, (2) in Judæa, (3) in Samaria Christ therefore laid special stress 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open upon home missions. "Beginning at to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission Jerusalem" the disciples were to evangelize the world. They were not, however, to stop at Jerusalem. Home mission work is not all. "There is enough to do at home" is no excuse for lack of interest in foreign missions. Samaria and the world need the gospel as well as Jerusalem and Judæa, and they were included in Christ's instructions. But mission work is to begin at home, and the desire of every American Christian Endeavorer should be to win America for Christ. Home missions for us include missions in every part of the United States. But some one may ask, Is not our nation Christianized? Yes and no. We can claim that we are a Christian nation and yet beneath our flag and in our own land there are millions who need the gospel. In the great west Many old stones, among the oldest that of Rev. there are many destitute and needy districts that can only have the gospel through the missionaries. With such a mission field at our very we should enthusiastically support home missions. Yet, let us ask, why? 1. Because of Christ's command. This of itself should be sufficient. American cities are our Jerusalem, and the American nation is our Judæa. Christ commands us to witness in them for Him, and He should be obeyed. 2. Patriotism should make us home missionaries. Our national interests demand that our nation be entirely Christianized. But what can we do for home missions? 1. Pray for them. The power must come from God's spirit. 2. Study the field and its needs. Information arouses interest and zeal. 3. Advocate home missions. 4. Give liberally to their financial support. The gospel is free, but it costs money to send it to those who have it not.

The report shows the exact state of affairs in the turret when the explosion occurred. It also shows that the ensign was in charge as division officer of no less than eight guns, including the four 8-inch turret guns and six 6-pounders. Although in their conclusions the board says that the ensign in charge committed a "grave error, not necessarily fatal," in directing the opening of the breech to return electric firing, this procedure, it is explained, was not in viola-Persons c. c. c. WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Inclement Weather Has Interrupted · Business to Large Extent New York, Feb. 21.-R. G. Dun &

Just as the railway congestion began to give way before the vigorous efforts of traffic managers the situation became further complicated by the worst ment of merchandise was again interrupted. Trade was interrupted to a considerable extent by the inclement weather, except in certain seasonable lines, notably heavy wearing apparel. Wholesale houses dealing in staples have received liberal orders, and much forward business has been placed. Jobbers urge quicker shipments on old orders, while travelers send in many new contracts. Manufacturers of paper, straw goods and clothing report conditions fully as satisfactory as a year ago, aside from some interruption by labor controversies. Conditions in imports of raw material. Bids are invited for extensive building operations, giving strength and activity to materials and supplies. Despite the approaching holiday, speculation was dull, and sales of stocks fell far below the same week in the preceding years. Cotton reacted for a time but quickly resumed its advance, reaching the highest point of the season, and exceeding the price a year ago by 1 1-4 cents.

Quieter conditions prevail in the markets for dry goods, although milis are busy and prices well maintained.

Western jobbers are placing liberal case orders for fall styles with New England producers of boots and shoes, but wholesale trade at the east is between seasons. Prices are fully maintained in all divisions. At retail there has been a notable demand for heavy goods and rubber overshoes.

A GIRL TO TRUST.

So Thought President Lincoln When He Handed Her a Pass.

During the civil war Miss N., a high spirited Virginia young lady whose father, a Confederate soldier, had been taken prisoner by the Union forces, was desirous of obtaining a pass which would enable her to visit him. Francis P. Blair agreed to obtain an audience with the president, but warned his young and rather impulsive friend to be prudent and not betray her sympathy for the south. They were ushered into the presence of Mr. Lincoln, and the object for which they had come was stated. The tall, grave man bent down to the little maiden and, looking searchingly into her face, said .

"You are loyal, of course?" Her bright eyes flashed. She hesitated a moment, and then, with a face eloquent with emotion and honest as his own, she replied: "Yes, loyal to the heart's core-to Virginia!" Mr. Lincoln kept his intent gaze upon her for a moment longer and then went to his desk, wrote a line or two and handed her the paper. With a bow the interview terminated. When they had left the room, Mr. Blair began to upbraid his young friend for her impetuosity. "Now you have done it!" he said "Didn't I warn you to be very careful? You have only yourself to blame." Miss N. made no reply, but opened the paper. It contained these words: Pass Miss N. She is an honest girl and can be trusted. A. LINCOLN. can be trusted.

Red Jacket's Memory.

Red Jacket, the Indian chief, had more confidence in his own memory than in books and papers of white men. There was a council at one time before Tompkins, an early governor of New York, in regard to an ancient treaty. The agent said one thing, but Red Jacket corrected him. "You have forgotten," said the American agent. "We have it written down on paper." "The paper then tells a lie," was the confident answer. "I have it written here," continued the chief, placing his hand with dignity upon his brow. "You Yankees are born with a feather between your fingers, but your paper does not speak the truth. The Indian keeps his knowledge here. This is the book the Great Spirit gave him. It does not lie." A reference was made to the treaty in question, when to the astonishment of all every word that Red Jacket had said was confirmed on the document.

NURSERY NOTES.

Don't encourage little children to frink tea or coffee. It is very injurious to the nerves. Don't use fear as a compelling agent toward little children. T cats of the bogy man and ghost stories make a child cowardly.

Don't forget to dry the hands and feet of the child well. Dampness between the toes may cause soreness or even a corn, which may be troublesome to get rid of.

Don't neglect to keep the feeding botde properly elean. A very little secretion in the bottle may cause serious trouble and perhaps result in the death of the child.

Don't use artificial means to send a child to sleep. Walking about with it. rocking it and jogging it are also bad habits. A child should be taught to go direct to its rest.

direct to its rest.

Don't take an infant into great crowds or public noisy meetings or amusements. To expose a child to sudden noises and starts in no way improves its nerves.

Don't let everybody take baby up and kiss him. The latter is most injurious and the former dangerous. He may be strained in lifting by unaccustomed hands, and he certainly will not like it.

Useless Belongings.

Give away what you don't really leed in your house. Don't let such need in your house. Don't let such things accumulate. Venezuela's Representative Refused to Yield and Declared Intention to Adhere to Terms of Protocol-Mat- ly antagonistic to Canada's claims. ter Hinges on Return of Ships

Washington, Feb. 24.-Having failed in the effort to obtain from Mr. Bowen the immediate payment in cash of the $27,500 which it was provided in the protocol of Feb. 13 should be paid to Germany 30 days from that date, Germany yesterday requested Mr. Bowen o give a draft for the amount payable n Caracas on the latter date. This latter request was made on behalf of the German embassy by Herr Baltazzi, formerly charge at Caracas, but who has since come to Washington and has been assisting the embassy in the pending negotiations.

Minister Bowen has received several cablegrams from President Castro regarding the action of the allies in retaining the ships and is evidently growing restive at what he considers a breach of trust. The allies' representatives here, however, take the position that the ships will be returned as soon as the 'necessary formalities" have been enacted. The British ambassador has seen Secretary Hay regarding the matter and has assured him that the London government was doing everything possible to expedite the return of the ships and that the foreign office was having the co-operation of the admiralty in this effort. Mr. Bowen yesterday prepared and anded to the diplomatic representatives of the blockading powers the drafts of the protocols for submission of the question of the determination of preferential treatment to The Hague tribunal. The unallied powers will be invited to join in this issue after the protocols with the allies are signed.

Venezuela Gets Restaurador Porto Cabello, Feb. 24.-The Venezuelan gunboat Restaurador, which was captured by the Germans, was handed over by them to the Venezuelan authorities here yesterday. At 11:30 o'clock the German flag was lowered, the German cruiser Vineta firing a salute as the colors were brought down. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the Resbaurador hoisted the Venezuelan flag and was then handed over to Commander Chaibaud by Commodore Scheder. The Vineta immediately afterwards steamed out of this harbor.

Rebels Half Naked and Hungry Caracas, Feb. 24.-The last army of the revolutionists, under General Rolando, recently advanced to within four hours' march of Caracas. The correspondent of The Associated Press yesterday visited its advance guard, about 35 minutes' march from the advance post of the government forces. on Alaskan Boundary Commission Ottawa, Feb. 24.-The Alaskan boundary commission was discussed at a meeting of the cabinet yesterday. In an interview with a representative of The Associated Press last night a cabinet minister said that a remonstrance Canada was not being fairly treated in the matter. When Canada gave way to arbitration by a tribunal as now proposed it was with the understanding that three judges of the United States upreme court would be appointed to sit on the commission, with British and Canadian judges of repute on the other side. The United States, he said, has failed to cary out this clause. Instead, the United States government has appointed, particularly in Senators Lodge and Turner, men who cannot be called impartial jurists of repute as required by the treaty. On the contrary, they are looked upon as men who are strong-

Against Acceptance of Service Wage Scale, Which They Think Would Result In Removal of Old Men-Want Flat Scale and Recognition

Boston, Feb. 24.-The executive committee of the unions of conductors and motormen on the Boston and Northern and the Old Colony street railway systems yesterday decided to ignore the service wage scale recently offered by the management and insist upon a flat scale of 25 cents an hour, 10 hours within 12 to constitute a day's work, and full recognition of the union.

An answer to the demand is called for on or before March 20, on which day a convention of delegates from all the unions of both systems will be held in this city to consider the matter.

Some of the delegates, after last night's meeting, did not hesitate to say tems mentioned was likely. The committee was in session eight hours. Two delegates from each of the unions at scond-class reserves to rejoin the colors | River of the Old Colony system, and Quincy, Taunton, Brockton, and Fall from Salem, Lynn, Chelsea, Lowell, Lawrence, Wakefield and Gioucester, Mass., and Nashua, N. H., of the Boston and Northern system were present. The delegates successively reported that their union did not look with favor upon the company's proposition and had recorded its objection by vote.

It was stated that the employes would soon discover that the service scale would result in the removal of the old men and that it drew a line of demarcation between the men that Tel. 69-2 would be productive of friction and jealousy. It was further stated that its real purpose, and one which would eventuate, would be the disruption of the unions and the prevention of future organizing.

After all the reports had been made the committee decided that as an organization it would not be justified in A formally considering such a proposition, particularly as the union had been

Violent Tactics Renewed Waterbury, Conn., Feb. 24.-William Harvey, a non-union man who has been in the employ of the trolley company for several years at Naugatock, was brought to this city yesterday to aid in trimming the electric arc lights. This was due to the strike of the trimmers on Sunday. While he and a helper were going the rounds yesterday they were set upon by a gang of toughs. One of Harvey's teeth was driven through his cheek and his face was badly bruised. The lights were burning in the city last night in spite of the strike of the trimmers.

THE BOW IN WAR. How It Was Made and Used by the Asiatic Tribesmen.

The bow as used by Asiatic horsemen assumes a curious shape. They were made of horn, generally buffalo horn, in two pieces, joined by a wooden center, and when unstrung had the form of a capital C, which enabled them to be hung over the arm on horseback. When strung, a difficult feat to those unused to them, they took the double curve of the antique bow as seen in the FOUND-Feb. 23, a Pocket Book, containing small sum of representation of Cupid. This was the "Tartar's bow," used by the Scythians, Parthians and Persians and up to quite recent times in India. NEGROES' BALLOT A MENACE

To Good Government and Their Franchisement Borders on Crime-Forever Opposed to Political and Social Equality of Negroes and Whites

Washington, Feb. 25.-The Indianola Miss., postoffice case occupied the major portion of the time of the senate yesterday. Mr. Tillman spoke for three hours in continuation of his remarks through a door facing the burning begun on Monday on the race question. He referred to the cost in lives and money on account of the race problem in this country and, addressing the Republican side, called on them to meet him "upon the same plane of patriotism of race pride and of civilization and not to fall into the pitiful cesspool of partisan politics.'

He read extracts from the letter of the president written some time ago giving his views with respect to appointnents of negroes to office. He wanted to be just to the president, he said, but cut a mixup in heavy vehicular traffic day, when the jury gave a verdict of the views were superficial. $100,000. The fire was caused by a quantity of benzine and other inflamable material. While the fire was at its height a ornice fell, carrying to the ground with it 12 firemen who were at work on the roof. The men were considerably bruised, but no bones were broken and they continued with their work. Considerable excitement was occasioned during the removal of 14 elephants which were quartered in a building adjoining the car barns. It was necessary to remove the elephants building and across the tracks between rows of burning cars. In order to accomplish this safely the four keepers took one animal out at a time until the entire herd was removed. The loud trumpeting of the elephants while they were being driven to a place of safety gave rise to a rumor that the animals had broken loose. This rumor rapidly spread around the city and occasioned

Gov. Bates' first veto is against borrowing outside the debt limit. May his action be successful in stopping adoption. this pernicious practice.

Good for the Massachusetts House, it has refused to establish the precedent of a civil pension. The move for pensions in the army and navy, and among the police, firemen, school teachers and others is altogether too prevalent, and savors too much of the customs of the old monarchies of Europe. In these days of life insurance and mutual aid societies, the well paid public officials ought to provide for old age and dependencies.

Drift of Opinion.

There are few more impressive sights in this country to any sensitive mind than the battle-field of Gettysburg as it may be seen today with its hundreds of memorials of the great events which happened there. We do not see how any person who has visited it and who has comprehended its significance can in the light of that experience object to the memorial of the men who fought there, wrongly as we believe, but bravely. No effigy, however beautiful or impressive, can alter by one jot or title the results of that Smith. conflict: but it may serve as a forcible reminder to every visitor of the tremendous forces which clashed there, Peirce. and in this light a statue of General Lee would not only be appropriate, but useful. - New Bedford Standard.

A Limit Wanted.

According to the Boston Advertise Governor Bates wants a limit set to the metropolitan parkway building of boulevards. As he looks at it, for the next five years the Commonwealth should build, for the most part, only such parkways as are needed to connect different parks of the existing park system, or perhaps to lead toward Boston, which has had little benefit from the costly work of boulevard construction. In this connection he wants the Legislature to fix a limit of the total amount that can be spent in the next five years, and just about how much may be spent in any one year.

FIXED DATES IN RUSSIA.

They Rule Even In Simple Things With Absolute Tyranny. Routine is exceedingly strong in Russia. There is a day in June upon which, says tradition, it becomes safe to bathe in the rivers after the winter freeze. No matter how warm the water may be earlier, no matter how cold it may be on that day, then is the time to take the first swim. Other fixed dates are mentioned in "Ivan at Home," by Her bert Barry. Of course the statements several inmates testified that they had do not apply to all Russians, but to

A Bluff That Worked. Peter Newell, the artist, was camping out in Colorado at one time, living in a tent. News came of a nocturnal murder in the neighborhood, and considerable uneasiness was manifested by some members of the family. Mr. Newell thereupon cut out some silhouettes representing men of the roughest western type, all with pistols in their belts and in the attitude of men intensely interested in a game of poker. The silhouettes Mr. Newell fastened to the inner canvas of the tent. At night the family, stepping outside into the darkness to view the result, were entranced with its success. The shadows thrown from the silhouettes in the lighted interior indicated a tent filled with poker playing pistol shooting desperadoes. Thenceforth the Newell family slept in pastoral peace.

What Is In a Name? Once upon a time there was a creditor to a large amount whose debtor constantly refused payment. The creditor became impatient and after investigation found that the debtor lived in a better house than he did, dressed better, clothed his wife in silks, satins and creditor, spent cents. Then he was wroth. "I will sue the wealthy debtor," he said, "and collect what is owing me." He brought suit and disclosed a large amount of valuable property; but, alas, it was all in the name of the debtor's wife, and he got not a single cent. Moral.-There is often a great deal in a name.-New York Herald.

Finished the Text. Apropos of mottoes on houses, a correspondent of the Westminster Gazette relates that a man in Scotland wished to have cut over the door of a new house the text, "My house shall be called a house of prayer." He left the workmen to carry out his wishes during his absence, and on his return his horror was great to find the quotation completed, "But ye have made it a den of thieves." "We had a wee thing mair room, ye see, so we just pit in the end o' the verse," was the explanation given by the Bible loving Scot.

As they swept past the three Confederate gunboats they saw beyond them, between them and the channel, the great ironclad Tennessee rising above the gently tossing water like some black volcanic rock, stern, sinister, menacing, impregnable. The light smoke that curled around the top of the tall stack indicated that she had steam up, and the absence of the usual deck gear would have told a practiced eye that she was stripped for action. They passed close to her, so close that Willis Peyton on the superstructure recognized Mary Annan and her escorts and lifted and waved his cap, wondering the while what had brought them down there.

They were very near the fort now. Presently they drew up at the landing, and a few minutes' toilsome walking over the shifting sandy shore brought them to the cavernous mouth of the school." sally port. Challenged there, they waited until the officer of the guard appeared and, recognizing them, conducted them into the fort and thence into the brick citadel proper. There General Peyton himself met them. He looked much as he had before the war -a little older, a little whiter, a little grimmer; that was all.

There was nothing but kindness in his face now, however. He had always loved Mary Annan. She had been almost like a daughter to him. Now that her own father had gone he felt like a father to her. Indeed he had hoped that he might be in that position to her some day before his boy turned his back upon the south and broke his father's heart. Ah, many a day had the old man mounted the rampart and stared at the ships, thinking of that lad who had gone away! General Peyton had loved Beverly Annan, too, for his father's and sister's sake as well as for his own, and it had grieved him sorely that the bright faced, proud hearted young lad should be stricken

"How is he?" cried the girl as soon as she saw the general. The old man shook his head mournfully.

"Is there no chance, no hope?" "My dear," he said, taking her hand in both his hands, "you are a soldier's sweetheart" - she winced at that -"and you are a soldier's sister. You must bear it! The poor boy! He is giving his alf for the south and that flag," he added, lifting his hat as he looked up at the tall staff with the white starred blue St. Andrew's cross stretched over its red rippling folds. "Yes, yes," said the girl; "the war is taking everything from me-everything! But where is he?" "In the casemate out yonder," answered the general. "We have fitted him I wish you would come over to Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, will not be officially informed of the fact until all the powers have agreed to the suggestion, when he will be asked to present the invitation to his sovereig 1.

The ambassador evidently was pleased on hearing of this renewed evidence of friendship for his country on the part of the United States and expressed his appreciation of the courtesy take from her the last who could boy bit his lip as a paroxysm of pain of Mr. Bowen in suggesting the carr for this important duty.

"I can only say," the ambassador said to a representative of The Associated Press, "that his majesty will deeply appreciate the compliment which Mr. Bowen has proposed. As the parent of The Hague tribunal, his majesty has all along watched with peace court has received from the United States, for whose president and people he cherishes the friendliest es-

At the French ambassy an official suggested that it was an especially appropriate tribute to the founder of The ther, Mary?" he said suddenly, with a Hague tribunal that he be invited to select the personnel of the court which wili pass on the first case to be submitted to it by European powers.

Mr. Bowen yesterday submitted the draft of the protocols which he hopes will be signed by the allied powers, specifying the conditions under which The Hague tribunal will be called upon to settle the question of preferential treatment in the payment of Venezuelan indemnities, to Judge Penfield, solicitor of the state department. After the latter had suggested a few changes, which were readily made, Mr. Bowen prepared to submit the document to the representatives of the allied powers.

In its incomplete state the protocol, which will serve as a pattern for all three, has not yet been nude jublic, but it is understood that it probably will provide for the conduct of the proceedings at The Hague in the English language. Another feature of the 1 rotocol is that the arbitrators themselves leryman rose and gave place to the and not the signatories to the protocols shall select the facts upon which they shall base their decision as to whether or not the preferential treatment shall be accorded.

Mr. Bowen laid copies of these protocols before the allies' representatives yesterday and they were promptly cabled by them to their respective foreign offices.

A feature of the protocol for sending the question of preferential treatment to The Hague, as proposed by Mr. tion is to begin the consideration of the that its decision shall be rendered within six months. The court he proposes shall decide when, how, and by whom the costs of the arbitration are to be paid. The presumption is that by the first of next September all the mixed commissions which are to sit at Caracas and adjudicate the claims of the various nations will have passed on all the claims presented. The claims of some of the nations are small, one of them being as low as $20,000, and the suggestion is that The Hague court, in view of this As likely to think of chairs fact, may prorate the charges incidental as of children when we use to the arbitration according to the amount of the claims allowed, instead of assessing each one an equal amount. GOOD EFFECT OF INQUIRY

Would Be Neutralized by a Minority Report-A Few Unwilling Conces-Unanimous Finding

Washington, Feb. 26.-It is now definitely decided by the anthracite arbitration commission that it will make only one report; that that report will be unanimous if time can make it so; that it will not be rendered till after this session of congress has adjourned, and only slightly his physical inferior. that it will be printed in as brief form as possible for wide popular distribu-

The first intention of the commission, as may be remembered, was to make vitation of the Chamber of Commerce, quick work of reviewing the evidence and prepare one preliminary report to "toward securing an honest and efput forth as soon as soon as a majority of the members could agree on were adopted declaring that a permanent some conclusions, prescribing the terms on which the operators should hire and should consider what measures shall be the miners be hired. It was supposed that this report could be got out not later than the end of the present week. A longer period was to be taken for the preparation of the second report, which was to discuss the labor question generally and recommend methods of dealing between employers and employed, likely to heal existing breaches and prevent their reopening when the next potential cause for friction should arise. It was proposed also to go at some length into the question of the president's prerogative in settling labor disputes.

But on more mature consideration it was deemed wise to forego this program. The commission made up its mind that what the public was most directly interested in was the settlement of the present difficulty, and that 1.89 the philosophy of the whole labor question could better be left for handling in a different way.

Moreover, it had become plain, from ticulars they might actually coincide, Suits and Reefers for 1.98 would neutralize the effect of the whole proceedings and that it would be far better, even at the cost of spending conof making a few unwilling concessions. to put out a single statement as the unanimous finding of the commission. from any quarter, and would arm President Mitchell for the struggle which he initiate in Masonry, but he contended may yet have on his hands to compel obedience from some of the more rest- lodge of Ohio. less spirits in the labor camp.

With the report in settlement of the current controversy will be incorporated such recommendations as' the entire membership of the commission is ready to subscribe to. Congress will provide, before adjournment, for printing the report at the government printing office during the recess. This is for the purpose of letting it go to the public without any needless delay.

Mortally Wounded

For Violation of Blanket Injunction Covering Wide District In West Virginia-Desperate Men Armed Themselves and Fired Upon Posse

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 26.-A terrible battle took place at dawn yesterday at Stamford between the joint posses of Deputy United States Marshal Cunningham and Sheriff Cook on one side and rioting miners on the other, as a result of which three miners were killed, two others mortally wounded and a number of others on both sides more or less seriously hurt.

The trouble grew out of the attempt to arrest 34 miners for violation of the blanket injunction issued by federal Judge Keller last August. Deputy Marshal Cunningham went last Saturday to Atkinsville, a mining town, to arrest men charged with violating the injunction. He was surrounded by a large party of miners armed with Winchester rifles, who ordered him to leave the place, an order which he quickly with a snowball, causing the animal to obeyed. Sheriff Cook at this time attempted to make some arrests under out and Miss Tevenbaum received a bad process issued by the state court and was treated in a like manner.

Cunningham returned to this city and reported to the marshal and district at | tion of Miss Tevenbaum is critical. torney that he could do nothing without a large force and then only at imminent risk of precipitating a bloody conflict. He was instructed to return with men sufficient to serve the process given him and to do it at all hazards.

Before Cunningham returned to Atkinsville, however, Marshal Thompson and S. C. Burdette, attorney for the United Mine Workers, went to the scene, spending most of Sunday and Monday there. They found everything quiet, the rioters having withdrawn from the immediate neighborhood and crossed New river, going into camp, 300 strong, near the Big Q mine on the man whom the boilermakers claim does north side.

Thompson and Burdette came home Tuesday and Cunningham and a strong posse went from here to make the arrests. When Atkinsville was reached the federal forces were joined by Sheriff Cook and his posse, the coal companies deputy and sheriff found themselves in command of about 100 well armed and decoys in the river. determined men.

The rioters had recrossed the river on Tuesday and were parading up and down before the various coal works from 150 to 200 men, armed with Winchester rifles. They intimidated min- of $25 each. Wearing the Roosevelt Chaplet. Miss Alice Roosevelt's tour of the south will leave armies of "chapleted" girls in her path, says the New York Press. The president's daughter conceived a charming idea when she took to wearing a chaplet in her dark hair. At first she wore natural flowers, but then came imitation buds made from velvet or satin. The chaplet rounded her face. Wherever she has visited bringing up of the average American this year there has been a harvest of these chaplets. At the debutante dances and dancing classes in New York city more than half the young girls wear the Roosevelt headdress, but with buds of chiffon spangled discreetly with silver sequins. White has first call, but pink buds also have held sway. A few girls wear awkward chaplets of leaves, but these cannot compare in daintiness with the Roosevelt buds. The fashionable young women have given a wide berth to the new thick hairpins.

Washington, Feb. 26.—The present session of congress will be remembered historically by the prolonged deadlock in the senate over the statehood biil, which now seems to be ended. In ali its aspects this deadlock has been one of the most notable in the records of the senate. It has monopolized the time allowed to unfinished business for almost the whole of the annual session of the senate. Only such general legislation has been permitted to pass as Mr. Quey, the leader of the statehood forces, has seen fit to favor. It was not good policy for him to hold the lines absolutely tight; that would have brought on an extra session and so defeated his

President Roosevelt spoke as follows, and was attentively listened to:

I am glad to have the chance of addressing the representative body of the great church which Wesley founded, on the occasion of the commemoration New York, Feb. 27.-Herbert G. of the 200th anniversary of his birth. Squiers, United States minister to Cuba, America, moreover, has a peculiar proprietary claim on Wesley's memory. the Cuban treaty will be passed before for it is on our continent that the Methodist church has received its

Since the days of revolution not only vital importance to all concerned that has the Methodist church increased greatly in the old communities of the 13 original states, but it has played a peculiar and prominent part in the pioneer growth of our country and has n consequence assumed a position of mmense importance throughout the vast region west of the Alleghenies which has been added to our nation since the days when the continental congress first met.

For a century after the Declaration of Independence the greatest work of our people, with the exception only of the work of self-preservation under Lincoln, was the work of the pioneers as they took possession of this continent. The work of advancing our boundary, of pushing the frontier across forest and desert and mountain chain, was the great typical work of our nation; as wen as for the field and the been Washington, Feb. 27.—The election of and the men who did it formed a class a church whose members, if true to the flicers was the feature of vesterday's by themselves. > conclusion had characters strong alike for good and for evil. Their rugged natures made them powers who served light or darkness with fierce intensity: and together with heroic traits they had those evil and dreadful tendencies which are but too apt to be found in characters of heroic possibilities. In the hard and cruel life of the border, with its grim struggle against the forbidding forces of wild nature and wilder men, there was much to pull the frontiersman down. If left to himself, without moral teaching and moral guidance, without any of the influences that tend toward the uplifting of man and the subduing of the brute within him, sad would have been his, and lect from $150,000 to $200,000 recestherefore our, fate. From this fate we sary to erect the statuary which the have been largely rescued by the fact that together with the rest of the decided to make an appeal direct to the pioneers went the pioneer preachers; preachers whom they furnished. These preachers were of the stamp of old Peter Cartwright-men who suffered and overcame every hardship in common with their flock, and who in addition tamed the wild and fierce spirits of their follow-pioneers. It was not a task that could have been accomplished by men desirous to live in the soft places of the earth and to walk easily on life's journey. The pioneer preachers warred against the forces of spiritual and evil with the same flery zeal and energy that they and their fellows showed in the conquest of the rugged continent.

Great is our debt to these men and scant the patience we need show toward their critics. At times they seemed hard and narrow to those whose train ing and suroundings had saved them from similar temptations; and they have been criticised, as all men, whether rissionaries, soldiers, explorers, or frontier settlers, are criticised when they go forth to do the rough work that | mill has been running 62 double looms must inevitably be done by those who on fancy. These pioneers of Methodisia had the strong, militant virtues which go to the accomplishment of such great deeds. Now and then they betrayed the short comings natural to men of their type; but their shortcomings seem small in deed when we place beside them the magnitude of the work they achieved.

And now, in celebrating the wonderful growth of Methodism, in rejoicing and to mankind, I need hardly ask a oody like this to remember that the greatness of the fathers becomes to the children a shameful thing if they use it only as an excuse for inaction instead of as a spur to effort for noble aims. I speak to you not only as Methodists-I speak to you as American citizens. The pioneer days are over. The intruments with which, and the surcoundings in which, we work, have changed immeasurably from what they vere in the days when the rough backgoods preachers ministered to the noral and spiritual needs of their rough backwoods congregations.

But if we are to succeed, the spirit a which we do our work must be the ame as the spirit in which they did theirs. nockery. If we are to do as I believe we shall and will do it must be by developing trength in virtue and virtue in strength, by breeding and training men who shall be both good and strong, both gentle and valiant-men who scorn wrongdong and who at the same time have ooth the courage and the strength to

He accomplished so much for mankind because he also refused to eave the stronger, manlier qualities to be availed of only in the interest of evil. Vinol Promptly Overcomes Weakness.

DEBILITY OFTEN PRECEDES COMPLETE COLLAPSE.

We Want Every One to Know How to Get Strong.

OUR VINOL IS A STRENGTH CREATOR.

The saddest sight on earth is a broken-down man or woman. We see such people every day right here in our city. It is pitiful to see a man that should be in his prime dragging himself through life dejected, discouraged and broken down, due to some premature weakness. It does not make any difference whether this weakness is the result of dissipation, indiscreet living or disease; it can be overcome. We have known of many very serious cases of debility quickly overcome by

Vinol is a scientific rebuilder and strength creator. It contains the active curative principles of Cod-Liver Oil in a highly concentrated form. The benefit that can be derived from the use of these properties is so well known that there is no need for us to enter into that subject.

We could quote many instances where Vinol has done good; as an example, here is one coming from Jane S. Fenfren, a prominent member of the W.C. T. U., and a resident of Suncook, N. H. She writes:

"I was run down, was in bed from May to March. Was so nervous and sickly that every one thought I was in a most precarious condition. My weight was reduced to 120 pounds. I was advised to take Vinol, which I did, and am now very much better, and am able to be about again. As a rebuilder and a strength giver nothing can equal it. Vinol is a God-blessing to anybody."

Because Vinol is delicious, and because it does contain these much-sought-after medicinal properties we endorse it, and we unhesitatingly proclaim that it is better than any preparation of cod-liver oil or tonic rebuilder we have ever had in our store.

Republicans Propose Special Rule, but Will Not Be Able to Accomplish More Than to Pass Appropriation Bills Before the Adjournment

Washington, Feb. 27.-Amid scenes which recalled the memorable and exciting days of the Fifty-First-congress, when party feeling ran fiercely and the hall of representatives resounded with A Way to Buy a Home seated yesterday by the house and George C. R. Wagoner was seafed in

The Democrats had decided at their caucus yesterday morning that if this case was called up they would prosecute a filibuster from now until March 4 regardless of consequences to legislation, and they began the fight as soon as the gavel fell at noon. Rollcall foiowed rollcall and it took over three hours to approve the journal of Wednesday's proceedings.

Then when the decks were cleared the ase was called. A spirited debate of two hours followed and finally, after re peated rollcalls, the case was brought to a vote. The Democrats then at tempted to block things by leaving the hall, but enough absentees finally were brought in to make up the necessary quorum. The closing chapter was dranatic. Mr. Dalzell (Pa.), who was in the chair, declined to recognize a demand for a division, and Mr. Richardson, the minority leader, stood in his place and denounced his course in unmeasured terms amid the jeers of the Republican side. The handful of Demo-The Republican leaders, in deciding to force this case to a vote, did so with a perfect realization of the embarrassments which would follow if the Democrats carried out their filibustering threat and they have arranged a program to reduce the minority's obstructive power to a minimum so far as appropriation bills are concerned. This is to be accomplished by a special rule which has been tentatively prepared, by which all the preliminary parliamentary steps for getting appropriation bills with senate amendments into conference can be cut off. But late in the afternoon Republicans interested in the omnibus public building bill less it made provision for the bill. This disturbing factor in the situation is not yet straightened out.

The Republican program also includes a proposition to continue the New York, Feb. 27.-During the legislative day of yesterday until noon pavies, and I never saw or came in absence of his wife yesterday, Gottfried March 4, in order to obviate the long and "My dear Palmer, I expect to call than those of mine are. CHAPTER XXXIII.

"AFTER YOU, PILOT! HE day broke brilliantly clear and fair as the Brooklyn and Octorora got under way at comet and in succession by all the ships which were to attempt the passage. The couples of ships were about a cable's length apart at the start. The fleet moved slowly, for the adand slow speed, and started for the ed up to the northeast with the intencould keep down its fire upon the main fleet. The national colors, the largest sized fighting ensigns, flew from every masthead, except from the mizzen of the Hartford, where the blue flag of the admiral, with its two white stars, fluttered in the breeze. The black ships came on in grim, threatening silence, the only spots of color about them being the red and blue of the flags, already lighting and gleaming in the rising sunlight.

A few minutes after 6 o'clock the Brooklyn and the Hartford crossed the bar and were fairly in the channel. Volumes of black smoke pouring from the smokestacks of the squat, ugly monitors lumbering from the cove behind Sand island, far ahead of them, indicated that these formidable fighting machines were ready for action. At half after 6 the monitors were well in the channel, heading up to the fort, distant from them about two miles. At 6:43 the head of the fleet came abreast Sand island light, three miles from the fort. There was a delay here of some ten minutes to enable the fleet to close up within short supporting distance, and at 6:55 the order to advance once more was given.

The vessels were ranging well up by this time in a bow and quarter line; that is, with the van ship, the Brooklyn, a little off the port bow of the next in line, the Hartford, with the Richmond a little on the starboard quarter of the flagship, and so on, in order that the chase guns of all the ships might bear on the fort and there would be no danger of one ship firing into another.

Meanwhile at 6:47 the actual battle had begun. Two long lines of light bursting into balloons of flame-shot smoke leaped from the huge muzzles of the fifteen inch guns of the Tecumseh, and the shells were seen to burst over Fort Morgan. The roar of the discharge, startling the stillness of the summer morn, carried far down the slowly advancing line, and was heard even in the holds of the ships, by the surgeons in the cockpits, the gunners' mates of the powder divisions, the engineers at the engines and the men in the hot depths of the firerooms. Instantly through the fleet, as if in answer to a signal, might be heard the rattle of the drums calling the men to quarters, the last final preparation for action.

The monitors, which had been rolling ahead, were almost abreast the fort now. The ships, which had moved Tennessee. The heart of Craven was faster, were close at hand. At six bent upon grappling with the iron monminutes after 7 o'clock the watchers ster toward which he was now headon the Hartford saw a puff of smoke ing. The Union neet made a splendid target, and the fire of Buchanan's gunboats, for the most part effectively handled and well delivered, was fearfully effective. Except for a few light chase guns the ships could make no reply. The fire of the gunboats was much more destructive than that of the fort at this juncture.

Meanwhile at the head of the line the Tecumseh was making for the Tennessee. Craven's orders, as were th orders of all the other captains, had been to pass to the eastward of the channel right under the guns of the fort, but with a fine tactical apprehension of the situation on the part of Admiral Buchanan the Tennessee had moved over now so that she was stationed just behind the line of torpedoes. To get at her the Tecumseh would have to cross the line or by going to the east of the buoy find herself in a very dangerous as well as disadvantageous po-

Perhaps it may simplify the matter somewhat if we use dominos to show how this demonstration may be made, and the accompanying illustration has been drawn for this purpose

Each domino, as you know, is a rectangle composed of two squares. Having drawn a right angled triangle, we proceed to construct a square upon the hypotenuse by means of the dominos. We find that we may form a perfect square by placing twelve dominos as shown in the picture-that is to say, we have twenty-four squares, with an empty space in the center equai to one of the squares, or twentyfive equal squares in all.

On the second side of the triangle we place four dominos, which, with the empty space in the center, gives us nine equal squares, and on the third side we place eight dominos, giving us sixteen equal squares.

This completes the demonstration, for we have twenty-five squares on the hypotenuse and sixteen plus nine, or chiefly in the direction of establishing twenty-five, squares on the other two Pins and Marbles.

Each boy or girl receives three pins, which are stuck upright in the carpet. Marbles are then used to bowl over the pins. Naturally there must be a prearranged place for the pins to be stuck and for the bowler to stand in order that everybody shall have an equal chance. If more than one boy or girl should succeed in downing all three pins in the three bowls allowed by the rules, the successful players can have "rubber" games together until one or the other becomes champion. - Washington Star.

POLICY OF OBSTRUCTION

as Threatened

Getting Appropriation Bills Into Conference Was Tedious, Even With Special Rules-No Other Legislation Likely to Be Accomplished

Washington, Feb. 28.-The Democrats of the house yesterday carried out their threat made on Thursday, that if everything in their power to block legis- chusetts is lifted. lation from now until congress expires March 4. The result was another o'clock last evening. Rollcall succeeded rollcall, and at every pause party passion manifested itself in bitter and acrimonious denunciation.

Two special rules were brought in to expedite appropriation bills and to continue the legislative day of Thursday in order to reduce as much as possible the minority's power to obstruct legislation. During the debate on the rule the Democrats voiced their condemnation of what they denominated Thursday's outrageous action of the chair. The Republicans declared that preventing the arrival of detailed in they were willing to assume responsibility for what they had done and ex- gale, but the losses of life and enormous plained the necessity of the drastic rules | damage to property are recorded. The fatalities along tive days, on rollcall on the senate the coast by shipwreek were much

It was agreed on both sides that the particularly from wreck. present situation sounded the death knell of practically everything except the appropriation bills. The friends of the omnibus public building bill who were threatening to defeat the rules if they were not modified to include their measure were placated by a promise which, it was understood, was given, that their bill would be covered by a special rule to be brought in later.

Even with the special rules in operation getting appropriation bills into conference was a tedious and laborious process, an eight-hour session and 13 rollcalls being necessary to get the agricultural sundry civil, military academy and postoffice appropriation bills into conference and to adopt the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill.

All overtures from the Republican side to the Democrats to induce the latter to abandon their filibusters have been fruitless and there is every indication that they will continue their present tacties to the end of the session.

The senate yesterday passed the naval and military academy appropriation bills. Mr. Blackburn secured a vote on his motion to take up the Littlefield anti-trust bill, but his motion was lost, 28 to 38. A number of minor bills were passed without objection. The immigration bill was considered and a rumber of amendments made, but the bill failed of a vote on objection from New England senators, who fear it will exclude French Canadian labor. A determined effort on the part of Senator Cullom to obtain Senator Morgan's consent to fix a time for voting or the Panama treaty was made while the senate was in eexcutive session, and was met by just as determined of position on the part of the Alabama senator.

Women's Pool Room Raided

New York, Feb. 28.—Captain Gorman and a number of policemen raided an alleged women's pool room yesterday in the rear of a saloon in West Eighth street. There were about 26 women in the place at the time and they were thrown in a panic. A woman who said she was Miss Annie Simmons was arrested, charged with keeping the Lool room, and several alleged male attendants were also gathered in. The customers were allowed to go.

Afraid Wives Would Tell Tales Hamilton, O., Feb. 28.-Alfred Knapp, the multi-murderer, yesterday admitted that he had tried to kill his wife, who is now in Indianapolis, saying that she awoke him several times when he was choking her. Why he tried to kill her he said he could not tell. When asked why he killed his wives he said he did so because they knew of his crimes and he was afraid of them.

Barge Captain Missing New York, Feb. 28.-Captain James Bauley of the barge F. B. Pavis, which is lying off Brooklyn, is missing, and the police believe he was murdered, his body being thrown in the river. An investigation shows the cabin windows of the barge to be broken and red stains on the deck. Stains on the bedclothing and floor also add to the mystery.

Fifty Pounds After Many Years of Chronic Dyspepsia and Nervousness.

I Thank Dr. Miles' Nerv= ine For My Health.

"The four prominent symptoms of my trouble were nervousness, sleeplessness, in-digestion and loss of appetite. I have been digestion and loss of appetite. I have been a traveling salesman for twenty-three years and to the change of food and loss of sleep I attribute my trouble. Some few years ago I was so badly run down in health as to be almost unfit for business. I could not eat nor sleep. I began the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and used it while on the road constantly for about two months. At the end of that time I had gained at least fifty pounds in weight, the nervousness and indigestion were entirely cured and I felt better than I had in years. I heartily recommend Dr. Miles' Nervine to the traveling fraternity as well as to any others who suffer as I did, as well as to any others who suffer as I did, for I thank Nervine for my health."—A. G. C. LIBBY, Kennebunk, Me.

Good Afternoon.

Wonder if Miss Vining has been the if the editorial comments in her paper last week apply to any hereabouts, if so perhaps she will not be such a welcome visitor henceforth, although much of her criticism is true.

What is the matter with Quincy? Every year it gets slower and slower and before long, entertainments, dances and the like will cease entirely. Very few things have been given in Music hall this winter that have received the patronage they deserve. The two assemblies of the Home Science association were pretty parties, but not largely attended, while the attendence at the concert by the Harvard students last evening, reflected anything but credit on the city's musical taste. It hardly seems possible that a city of nearly thirty thousand inhabitants should only be represented by less than three hundred at a concert of the merit and standing of the one given by the Pierian Sodality.

Only a few weeks ago a course of cooking lessons was given at Colonial hall and only a handful of ladies attended. The lectures were fine and deserved a large attendance. At the close, the management said that to call Chelsea slow, was to malign it, for it was swift side of Quincy.

So every day are heard these unfavorable comments and comparisons and it is bad for the city to have this idea go abroad. Another season let us wake up and have a People's course with good entertainments and lectures and patronize the good things that scome to us from outside.

All Musicians of Marked Ability-"Fair Harvard" a Favorite.

What the audience at the Pierian Soing, lacked in quantity they made up in appreciation and every selection was heartily applauded. The bad walking, threatening weather and illness kept many at home, only about three hundred attending.

Always playing to crowded houses, the size of the audience was a disapointment and discouraging, but with the plack usually found in college men, they rallied after the first selections and played and sang with spirit.

Eleven numbers were down on the program, the orchestral selections being interspersed with songs by the The Former Favor the Larger Glee club. The encores were so enthusiastic and insistent, that every number was responded to, so that an almost continuous concert was given from eight until ten, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The orchestra played with accuracy and feeling, and had a varied program. The vocal selections were good. Selections from The Prince of Pilsen were audience, while the Harvard Foot Ball guest of any Quincy families lately and song and "Fair Harvard," by the orchestra and Glee club, called forth much enthusiasm. Red lights were thrown on the stage for "Fair Harvard" which ended the concert.

If ever the Pierian men come to Quincy again we predict for them a crowded house.

Bass Property on Granite Street.

Will Build Large Freight House and Put in Several Tracks.

Mayor Bryant and City Solicitor give the city of Quincy the freight facilities which have long been needed. The Irving place yard established two or three years ago was a great improvement. Although a second track was added later, the accommodations were soon inadequate. The tracks are always full and freight is held up at other places. Then again there is no freight ouse there and the facilities have not can have your choice of over 100 been such as were demanded by the

It was during the administration of Mayor Keith in 1899 that a petition was forwarded to the Railroad Commisioners for increased freight facilities at Quincy, and the board decided that something must be done. It resulted in a new siding being put in on Irving A year later this track was "paralleled, ut still the cry was for more trackage. Mayor Bryant took up the work last year, and secured definite promises that there should be increased accommodations just as soon as land could be secured.

This has been a long job, and several plans have been considered. First the purchase of a portion of the Faxon, Brackett and Hall estates near the grain store, but it was decided that this would be only temporary relief and too expensive.

The enlargement of the Irving place yard both toward Granite and Dimmock streets was considered but did not meet all requirements.

The Edwards meadows on the east of the railroad in "the Hollow" were considered, but a serious objection on the part of the railroad was that it was especially as it is contemplated to make the main line between Boston and Braintree a four track system.

"I don't know what it is," said Lot despairingly. "Imagination," returned his sister shortly. Lot turned on her. "Look here, Maria Bemis," he said almost fiercely. "You pride yourself on your faculty for seeing things. You've been here three days, and haven't you seen that there was something come between us since you were here before and that she has stopped caring anything about me?" His voice broke at the last words, and he turned away

Maria looked at his back, and there was an expression on her face of mingled pity, contempt and amusement.

"I've been here three days, Lot," she said quietly, "and I've seen that you are a pair of foolish children. But before I go on I want to ask you if you have got over caring for her."

Lot looked at her with indignation too strong for words. "I didn't think you had," said his sister in a tone of relief. "If you had, it would be a serious state of affairs; but, as you haven't, I don't see any difficulties."

"You must admit that she isn't happy," he said at length.

"But, don't you see, it must be me, because she doesn't see anybody else,

She settled herself more comfortably on the grain chest and began to speak deliberately. "Don't you know that when two people, I don't care who they are, live on a lonely farm and don't see anybody but each other for weeks at a time-don't you know that they are bound to get morbid and imagine all sorts of things about themselves and each other? That is why so many farmers' wives go insane."

"But what can I do?" Lot asked, a look of terror in his face. "I've tried to get her to go to places with me, but

"I'll tell you," said Maria decisively "The first nice day take her out over the farm and spend the day. I'll see to things while you are gone, and I'll put up a lunch for you. Show her all you are doing and plan to do. Take all, make love to her as though your life depended on it."

"I don't believe she'd go. I couldn't persuade her. You've no idea how set

Maria looked at her brother scornfully. "Perhaps you never heard of such a thing as strategy."

She turned away and walked out of the barn.

For a long time he stood looking at his Grandfather Stetson's old covered wagon. It had been considered an elegant affair in its day, but now it was seldom taken out except when some of the children came home at Thanksgiving or for short visits.

He took out his jackknife and opened it, felt of the edge, then got into the wagon and knelt down on the seat. Very carefully, and following the thread in the cloth, he cut a slit two inches long in the back of the seat. He picked at the cotton batting stuffing with the point of his knife. Then he let the flap go back in place, the cotton batting showing a little all along after breakfast she carried to the barn a large covered basket, a demijohn of with a look of comprehension. Soon cold tea, a shawl and her sister-in-law's sunbonnet. These Lot helped her stow away under the back seat.

At 9 o'clock Lot came into the house. "I'm going to start off with the old covered wagon in a little while," he said, "and I find there's a tear or a cut in the back of the seat. Do you suppose you could mend it?"

Eunice went to get her workbasket. She found a piece of green cloth and pulled some ravelings from it; then she went out and got into the covered wagon and set quietly and patiently to he said quietly. He drove on, talking rapidly about his plans, recalling incidents of the baymaking and speaking of the getting in of the ensilage. Eunice was silent, and in spite of his lively chatter Lot was anxious. In the middle of the pasture Lot stopped the horse and glanced about. Some of the cows were feeding near, and they lifted their heads to look with big, inquiring eyes.

"Yes," he said, "I remember, and it tharge of her. She's made a fine cow.' His voice grew curiously husky, and he spoke almost sharply to the horse, "Get up, Nell."

As they went slowly through the Eunice gazed about her eagerly, a new light in her face. "Oh," she sighed contentedly, "it is a lovely day."

The cart path was very rough, and the wagon bounced and pitched along, the overhanging bushes and young sides. Eunice laughed like a child and now and then gave an involuntary lit-

What, then, does Christ teach about

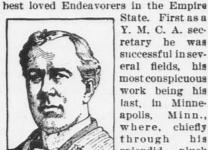

1. Christ teaches that blessedness is teaches very clearly that blessedness comes from God. It is repeatedly emphasized that blessedness is not the fruit of any earthly relation, but the result of special relationships to God, desires for God and the possession of God given attributes. Searchers after blessedness should bear this in mind. The best happiness in life is not to be found apart from God, but only in God. "Thou hast made us for Thyself, and the heart is restless till it rest in Thee." 2. Christ teaches that blessedness is the result of character. It is not bestowed arbitrarily. A reason follows each beatitude. In one instance it is poverty of spirit, in another spiritual mourning and then meekness, hunger and thirst after righteousness, mercy, purity, peace and faithfulness amid persecution. Those who possess these characteristics cannot but be blessed, utterly worn out by weeks of care and of the old building is to remain as the for blessedness is the fruit of their posnursing. TARKINGTON'S "BLUFF."

How Indiana Author - Legislator Broke Up a Poker Game.

Booth Tarkington, the Indiana writer, broke up a poker game the other night at the Hotel English in Indianapolis through the aid of a bellboy, says the New York Times. The author learned that there was a stiff game going on in the apartment of one of the members of the general assembly in which a number of legislators were holding hands.

He gave the bellboy $2 and instructed him to go to the room and inform the legislators that Tarkington was in the office threatening vengeance be cause the Stansbury school bill had been rushed through the house and was talking of having the game raided.

The game came to an end instantly, and five Indiana politicians made a new record in getting out of the apartment and into the street.

It is said in London the use of the tiara will be abandoned entirely and that these mimic crowns will be considered "bad form" after the London season. This will cause woe in New York city, where so many women wear diadems. Still, many New Yorkers have been wearing their tiaras on fewer occasions this year than ever before, preferring something simpler than a bulky crown, says the New York Press. It is said the Duchess of Marlborough started the fad for simple hair ornaments and that the Countess de Grey has not worn a coronet for two years. Besides, the women who have become rich suddenly buy a diamond crown on the first payment of a dividend, and this is enough to cause the death of any fashion.

THE QUEST OF A CALIFORNIAN.

With a Magnifying Glass George Compere Will Visit the Orchards and Vineyards of the World, Hunting For a Bug That Will Prey Upon the Australian Pest.

Because a fly, in advance of as terribly devastating an army of insects as ever set its plague hold upon a fertile land, came in an evil hour to Australia, George Compere of California has started around the world to find the insect that preys upon the destroyer, says the San Francisco Examiner.

Every insect has its own particular enemy. Mr. Compere will continue to search, with magnifying glass in hand, until he finds the specimen for which he is sent. His success affords the only hope of salvation for Australia's fruit growers. He will carry the search, if necessary, into every portion of the globe where an insect can thrive. He has been employed by the Australian government to perform this singular
